Crowe Proposes Two 90-Day Tests, Tells Commission 'People Want and Will Support a Pass System.'

By ROBERT A. DUNLAP
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16—A three-month test of the new St. Louis Public Service Co. fare schedule, to be followed by a 90-day trial of the new fare in combination with some form of weekly pass, was proposed by the City of St. Louis today.

The suggestion was advanced by City Counselor James E. Crowe in arguing for a rehearing of the fare case by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

Company Not Willing.

Gaylord C. Burke, general counsel for Public Service, replied that the company was "definitely unwilling" to agree to any experimental periods as suggested by the city.

After hearing oral arguments, the commission took the question of a rehearing under advisement. An early decision was expected.

Crowe proposed that the fare increase from 10 cents to 12 cents, or three tokens for 35 cents, first be tried alone, and then be tested in conjunction with a weekly pass which would sell for $1.85 or $1.75.

The city would like to have the company try out a 75-cent weekly pass, with a 5-cent charge for each ride on this pass, but recognizes that the commission would not be likely to approve this, Crowe added.

Says People Want Passes.

"The people of St. Louis want and will support a pass system," the city counselor continued. "This is a fair offer, and I believe if it is tried it will demonstrate the wisdom of a pass system."

Crowe conceded a pass system would cost the company $391,000 a year in printing, handling charges and extra vehicles needed, but contended the cost would be defrayed by sale of advertising space on the back of the pass, and extra streetcars and busses would pick up extra revenue.

Would "Eliminate Guesswork."

"The commission could retain jurisdiction of the case, and at the end of the trial period could set the matter for hearing," Crowe declared. "The guesswork would then be eliminated, and we could have an actual comparison of the competitive worth of these suggested rates.

"It is clearly apparent to me, after having discussed this matter with the Mayor of St. Louis and a representative group of the aldermen, and having talked with many people in regard to the recent rate increase, that it will be resisted by the passengers and the city administration."

Disastrous Increases.

Crowe reviewed fare increases over the last two years. In August 1947, charge for the weekly pass went up from $1.25 to $1.50. In April 1948, tokens selling four for 35 cents were eliminated. In March 1949, the weekly pass was eliminated.

"The results of these commission rulings, which have been made on the blind urging of the company, have been disastrous both to the company and to the people whom they should serve, the city counselor asserted.

"During the short period of two years, the number of passengers riding Public Service vehicles has decreased about 36 per cent, or a reduction of over 136,000,000 passenger rides annually. Since July 1, 1949, its vehicle miles have been reduced approximately 3,400,000. The figures were not readily available to determine how many vehicle miles have been eliminated over this two-year period.

"It is significant that, while the number of passengers was decreasing 36 per cent and the number of vehicle miles was being substantially reduced, the rates increased approximately 30 per cent. It is apparent that the program of increasing rates and reducing service is not a successful one."

Company's Reply.

In arguing against the city's proposal to try out the new fare first with and then without a weekly pass, the Public Service spokesman asserted:

"There is no need for such an experiment. Our request for a $1.75 pass was made last December on an emergency basis. (The commission denied this request.) Not until we eliminated the pass in March did the company begin to get back on its feet. Perhaps the company does not agree with all the findings of the commission, but we are accepting the fare structure authorized by the commission and are going to make it work."

Burke termed the 12-cent fare and three tokens for 35 cents "still a far cry" from the area where the law of diminishing returns would apply.

Last February the commission had ordered the company to retain the 10-cent fare, but had given permission for elimination of the $1.50 weekly pass, and had directed the company to report on its financial experience after a 90-day trial. Referring to this order, Burke said:

"We have been carrying out an experiment under orders of the commission from March 7 to June 5. We continued on a lower rate of fare than we needed, and we lost a substantial amount. Experiments cost money and we cannot afford it."

The 12-cent fare went into effect yesterday after the commission had declined to act on the city's motion to suspend effective date of the increase.

Ruth Nichols Tells of Rescue From Sea in Ditching of Airliner

Hope Sustained on Overcrowded Liferaft by Song and Prayer in Long Wait for Help.

The fabulous luck that guided Ruth Nichols through four serious air crashes in her 20 years as a flyer brought her through her fifth Monday. In the following article, she tells of her dramatic rescue along with 48 others of the 58 aboard the Transocean Airlines plane that crash-landed in the Atlantic off West Ireland.

By RUTH NICHOLS
Veteran American Flyer.
World copyright 1949 by International News Service.

ENNIS, Ireland, Aug. 16—Reality, whether in personal life or in air transportation, naturally has its good and unfortunate aspects.

This was vividly true in Monday's ditching in the Atlantic of the transport plane in which I was riding and which, for a time, I helped pilot.

Fairly soon after our take-off from Rome, I piloted the plane for two hours.

Then I worked another two hours in bringing my 'round-the-world flight log up to date. Then I took a snooze.

(Miss Nichols left the United States July 9 on a survey flight for the United Nations international children's emergency fund.)

As our estimated landing time approached and passed we began wondering what was going on so I went forward to the crew's quarter.

Radio Beams Scrambled.

I learned that night atmospheric conditions were such as to cause great confusion with the radio compass beams, and that we were now returning to Shannon on the west leg.

But as one hour passed, I knew our gasoline could not last much longer.

Then I realized our position was becoming critical as our engines started sputtering.

Obviously the prospect of a night ditching was far from pleasant.

The second pilot, John Moore, appeared in the doorway and said tersely and smilingly—a rare combination—"Prepare for a ditching."

Then the stewardess said something to the Italian passengers in Italian, apparently telling them the same thing. She awoke those who had dozed off.

Lifebelts Put On.

We hurriedly donned our lifebelts, which had been brought out of closets by the crew, and then we pulled our safety belts tight.

I left my seat inclined in a slightly tilted-back position so as to avoid as much as possible ramming my face against the seat in front of me in the expected impact. I also held up my pillows to cushion the shock.

Then I prayed to God that no one would be hurt, or if necessary that the end would be quick.

I was astonished to feel the smooth swishing landing, with only a slight shock.

Then the lights went out, leaving everything in complete darkness, except for the moon's rays.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Derr, of San Lorenzo, Calif., were sitting in the front seat. I was in the second. We took each others hands and moved quickly down the aisle to the now wide-open rear end of the fuselage.

We realized that the tail end of the plane had been sheared off, leaving a gaping hole.

The Italian stewardess, Luigiana Cerebona, was thrown out into the water because she had been sitting in the rear.

By the time I reached the tail end of the ship, two life rafts had been inflated and already were drifting off with passengers aboard.

Dick Derr and I tried to unwrap and inflate the third raft, but I was unable to manage it in the darkness so we threw it overboard.

We three were among the last six or so left in the plane and we decided to jump into the water because it was sinking rapidly.

We swam vigorously away in order to avoid the down-suction when the plane sank and tried to reach one of the liftrafts. But we soon realized we were unable

Writer Dead

MARGARET MITCHELL

'GONE WITH WIND' AUTHOR MITCHELL DIES OF INJURIES

Succumbs as Doctors Prepare to Operate—Gov. Talmadge Orders Mourning Period.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16 (AP)—Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind," died today as doctors prepared for an emergency operation to try to save her life. She was 43 years old.

Miss Mitchell was struck down by a speeding automobile, driven by an off-duty taxicab driver, on Peachtree street last Thursday night. She and her husband, John R. Marsh, were crossing the street to go to a movie near their home.

Miss Mitchell never fully recovered consciousness. Doctors said she had a fractured skull, fractures of the pelvis, and other injuries.

She was taken to the operating room at Henry Grady Memorial Hospital this morning. She died at 11:59 a.m., before the operation was performed.

State-Wide Mourning.

Funeral arrangements were not announced immediately, but Gov. Herman Talmadge immediately ordered a period of state-wide mourning until her funeral is over.

Miss Mitchell was dragged 15 feet by the speeding car. Police charged the driver of the car, Hugh D. Gravitt, 28, with suspicion of manslaughter. Police records show he had 23 previous traffic violations against him.

She turned the civil war tales she heard as a child into "Gone With the Wind."

But, she scoffed at any idea it was an easy job.

"Actually, I began writing at the age of six years. I worked 12 years on 'Gone with the Wind' and threw away a lot of novels I had written before that," she once said.

Fresh from Smith College and a debut as one of Atlanta's social set, she joined the staff of the Journal in 1922. The next four years many stories in the Atlanta newspaper were bylined "Peggy Mitchell."

Sellout in Two Days.

Then, "Gone With the Wind" began to take shape. But the volume wasn't published until 1936.

The day after it hit bookstands, all copies of the first edition were sold.

It made the best seller list immediately and turned the bright light of publicity on the quiet author.

Since then the book has sold about 8,000,000 copies in 40 countries and 20 different languages. Today G.W.T.W., as it is shortened in book circles, still sells 60,000 copies yearly in the United States and probably that many overseas.

From the time it was published, she struggled to live a life unchanged. She and her husband continued to live in a five-room apartment, see their old friends and drive a small car.

But the avalanche of letters, requests and calls, the legal entanglements that followed translations and overseas sales made private life difficult. At first she had to hire two secretaries, later getting along with one.

As for another book, she commented: "I have a hundred more novels I would like to write. But the business details of my first book still take all my time. Nobody believes that, but it is true. I am not writing another book."

GANGSTER COHEN'S HOME 'TAPPED' BY POLICE FOR YEAR IN RACKET PROBE

Recording of Talks About Gambling, Payoffs, Fixing of Prize Fights May Lead to New Inquiry in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (UP)—Police Chief William Worton today studied records of a nation-wide crime syndicate taken from microphones hidden in the heavily-guarded mansion of gangster Mickey Cohen.

Shortly after their existence was revealed, Cohen reportedly took off last night on a rush flight to New York. His wife said he was expected there today.

For almost a year relays of detectives listened in on conversations over Cohen's telephone and in his suburban Brentwood home, making tape and wax recordings and taking down hundreds of pages of transcripts.

Payoffs Mentioned.

The talks dealt with lush gambling setups in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Fresno and other California cities, and mentioned payoffs and "fixes" involving police, sheriff's offices, district attorneys and state officials. Prominent names from motion picture, business and underworld circles were mentioned.

The recording were expected to pave the way for another vice investigation even more sensational than one just finished by the grand jury.

The police microphones were installed in Cohen's rambling, bungalow-type house when it was being built in 1947. They were placed by order of Police Lt. Rudy Wellpott, former head of the administrative vice squad, who with retired Chief C. B. Horrall and three other officers recently was indicted by the county grand jury. Wellpott was charged with perjury and accepting bribery from Brenda Allen, operator of a call house.

Underworld Tie-Up Pictured.

"What we got was a great mass of material indicating the connections between the Cohen outfit and underworld operations in many cities," Wellpott said.

Cohen himself, target of several recent assassination attempts, said he knew all about the hookup and that there was nothing incriminating in the records.

"Sure, the day after I moved into the house in April 1947 I knew there were mikes and bugs in and my phones were wired," the racket boss said. "I got the dope from the people I bought the house from, and from other sources.

"I found where the underground cable from the mikes led to—a house nearby. I knew Wellpott and others were listening in on the earphones.

"Do you think, knowing that, I was going to do any talking about anything that would give them anything to work on?"

'Loaded With Dynamite.'

Wellpott, however, insisted that the information was "loaded with dynamite."

"The discussions dealt with gambling, off-color operations involving business men and important motion picture personalities; fixing of prize fights; multi-thousand-dollar payoffs and many-million-dollar gambling setups; activities in labor deals and rackets, and other enterprises," he said.

Wellpott said the situation was "very dangerous now that the news is out."

"They'll make a try to get someone," the officer asserted. "I'm loaded with dynamite. I can hit certain guys between the

AUGUST ONE DEGREE COOLER THAN JULY IN THE LONG RUN

It may seem hotter now than it was in July, but the Weather Bureau, taking a long 111-year view of the matter, says that August days at their warmest are one degree cooler than their July counterparts.

In a statistical report issued today, the bureau states that an "average" August day is two degrees cooler than an "average" July day. It explained that this figure is less significant than the "hot" comparison, since the average doesn't exist while the hottest days do. August heat is usually 87 degrees, and July 88.

The report, which may be obtained at Room 910, Federal Building, gives similar information for cities all over the country. The August "hot" average in Nome, Alaska, for example, is 58 degrees and on Tatoosh Island, Wash., it is 60. In Yuma, Ariz., the heat averages 104 in August, 17 degrees hotter than in St. Louis. The report says nothing about the humidity.

BOY, 5, BEFRIENDS INJURED DOG; HE IS KILLED BY AUTO

Child Is Struck When He Runs in Street as Policeman Removes Animal.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP)—A little boy was killed yesterday after befriending a stray dog.

Five-year-old Tommy Nea rushed to the side of the dog which had been hit by an automobile. As it lay whimpering, Tommy patted its head. Then, when policemen came to take the dog away, Tommy ran into the street.

Brakes of an auto screeched. Tommy was picked up from under the wheels of the car. He died shortly after being admitted to a hospital.

SENATORS REOPEN HEARINGS ON ARMS AID BILL; TO HEAR WALLACE, THOMAS

Two Committees Take Action After Stormy Debate—House Group Earlier Had Voted Full Amount Asked.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Senators reversed themselves in a stormy session today and ordered hearings reopened on the Administration's $1,450,000,000 foreign arms program.

Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, who is presiding over the combined Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, announced after a closed session that the groups will bear a half dozen more witnesses. They will include Henry A. Wallace and Norman Thomas, both former minority party presidential candidates.

Earlier the committees had ended hearings and had planned to start writing a bill today.

Connally said the additional hearings, starting tomorrow, will take about two days. He said he doubts now that the Senate group can vote this week on the bill, which was approved for the full amount yesterday by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

George Proposed Reopening.

Connally told reporters the move to reopen hearings was initiated by Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, who has been urging that the proposed $1,450,000,000 fund be cut in half.

Most of the witnesses to be heard will be in opposition to the program, Connally said.

The Texas Senator added that it now appears that the Senate "has got a good deal of time" ahead of it before it can consider the arms program because of the press of other legislation.

Earlier, an administration spokesman said he thinks some compromise will have to be made on the program in order to get speedy Senate action. Connally conferred with the State Department, but declined comment.

Presumably such a compromise would be worked out along lines suggested in a series of amendments proposed by Senators Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, and Dulles (Rep.), New York.

How House Group Voted.

By a vote of 14 to 5, the House Foreign Affairs Committee last night approved a bill carrying the full total, although split between cash and contract authority. House leaders, encouraged by this vote, aimed at floor action on the bill tomorrow or Thursday.

The House committee split the funds for North Atlantic Treaty nations this way:

Cash: $498,130,000 for use up to next March 31, and $157,710,000 between then and June 30, 1950.

Contract authorization: $428,100,000 up to March 31 and $77,050,000 from March 31 to June 30, 1950.

Representative Kee (Dem.), West Virginia, chairman of the committee, said the decision to split up the fund was in his opinion "very satisfactory."

The committee also approved the Administration's entire request of $211,370,000 for Greece and Turkey, and $27,640,000 for Iran, South Korea and the Philippines.

The measure contains an "anti-percenter" provision which would penalize anyone who has been a government employe during the last two years for accepting a gift or payment in connection with foreign arms procurement.

A House drive to cut the outlay is expected.

Vandenberg and Dulles proposed that the Senate slice $160,990,000 off the total, principally through cutting out $155,000,000 to help Western European countries to get their own arms production going.

Behind this move was said to

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

'ASSUMED' THAT IT WAS WANTED FOR DISCUSSION WITH TRUMAN

Officer Testifies Hunt Claimed Responsibility for Appointments of Waitt, Tighe Woods, Jess Larson.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt said today that Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, of St. Louis, asked him to prepare a memorandum on eight officers eligible for Waitt's job as chief of the Army Chemical Corps.

Waitt told the Senate special investigating committee that he thought Vaughan, who is President Truman's Army aide, asked him to do so at some social gathering—"perhaps a cocktail party."

He said he could not recall the date, but said he thought Vaughan asked him to "give my estimate—my personal opinion"—of officers most likely to be considered for the post.

Dictated to Hunt's Secretary.

Further, Waitt acknowledged to the committee, looking into activities of five percenters, that he dictated the memorandum to the secretary of James V. Hunt, Washington management counselor. Hunt has been a prime figure in the inquiry. Hunt was once an officer in the Quartermaster Corps and later was in the War Assets Administration for a time.

Senator Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, said when the memorandum was placed in evidence last week that Waitt had "cut the throats" of his brother officers who might succeed him as the Army's chemical chief.

Waitt acknowledged also writing another memorandum which gave a highly flattering report on himself. It was written in the third person and he testified it was prepared for Vaughan to hand to President Truman as Vaughan's evaluation of Waitt.

Calls Self Expert.

Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, noted that Waitt, in the report, described himself as one of the world's leading experts on toxicological warfare.

Waitt laughed nervously and then said: "That is most embarrassing. But it happens to be true."

Waitt, squirming in his chair and still laughing said: "Pravda (Soviet newspaper) has called me the savage Gen. Waitt. Moscow radio has called be a cannibal."

The committee got testimony last week there was no evidence the report Waitt prepared on himself ever got to the White House. It was found in Hunt's files.

Waitt said today: "I didn't use that memo. My brass broke down at that point. I wasn't asked for it. It's just been a source of embarrassment to me."

"Did you indicate that any officer other than yourself was fit for the job of chief?" Senator O'Conor (Dem.), Maryland, interposed.

"No, I didn't!" Waitt snapped.

Waitt's Explanation.

When asked by O'Conor to explain this, Waitt responded:

"It's a most embarrassing question, but I am forced to answer it. I have fought for the Chemical Corps for 30 years.

"I feel we are in a critical period of time and, I must confess, I felt my leadership should continue. That's conceited perhaps . . . but if anyone feels deeply about a matter and wants it, I feel he has to go and get it."

When asked why he chose Hunt's office to dictate the memorandum, Waitt insisted that it was so confidential he did not want to "embarrass" his own secretary.

"She has to work with these officers and will be there when I'm gone," he explained.

Waitt, a small, slightly-built man, wore his uniform with four rows of decorations as he testified. He has remained silent publicly since he was suspended.

Waitt and Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman, Quartermaster General, were suspended July 16 by Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray pending further investigation. Gray acted after the names of the two officers were brought out in the Senate inquiry.

"Close Personal Friend."

Waitt today called Hunt "a close personal friend." Before Waitt testified, Lt. Col. Roy T. Evans testified that Hunt claimed to have been responsible for Waitt's appointment as chemical chief.

Evans said Hunt made the claim at a social gathering within the last year and half. He said Hunt tried to "impress people" that he knew many prominent persons.

Evans said Hunt said also at the party that he was responsible for the appointment of Tighe Woods as Housing Expediter and Jess Larson as War Assets Administrator.

Woods already has appeared before the committee looking into the activities of five percenters—persons who collect fees, usually 5 per cent, for their help in seeking out government contracts.

M'ARTHUR REJECTS BID TO TESTIFY IN U.S. ON FAR EAST

General Repeats Statement He Can Best Serve Nation by Staying at Post in Japan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has formally declined an invitation to return to the United States to give Congress a report on the Far Eastern situation.

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees had voted 13 to 12 to ask MacArthur to come home from Tokyo to testify in connection with the Administration's $1,450,000,000 foreign arms aid bill.

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson today made public the text of a reply from MacArthur in which the general said:

"For the best reasons set forth in my public statement of Aug. 11, I believe I can best serve the national interest by remaining at my post of duty here."

Johnson had forwarded the request of the Senate committees to MacArthur and V. Adm. Oscar C. Badger, also wanted for testimony on the Far Eastern situation. Johnson did not order either to return.

MacArthur in his reply to Johnson quoted from his statement of Aug. 11 as follows:

"I could not help but be deeply appreciative of the honor reflected in the desire expressed by certain distinguished members of the United States Senate that I proceed to Washington to give my views for consideration by the Congress on the issue of United States arms aid to the Government of China."

MacArthur also pointed out then that American military forces in China were under the direct jurisdiction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff acting through a naval commander and never had been within his command responsibility or authority.

The general said that on March 3, 1948, he had forwarded his general views on China to the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He added that his "specific" views on the strategic potentialities of the area in his Far East command were "fully" on file with the Army.

No reply has been received from Adm. Badger.

Rosenman Objects to Calling Board 'Vehicle for Forcing Concessions.'

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (UP)—A member of President Truman's steel fact-finding board asked the president of Bethlehem Steel Corp. today to apologize for an assertion that the board was set up "merely as a vehicle for forcing upon us important concessions to the unions."

The apology demand was made by Samuel I. Rosenman, former New York Supreme Court justice and confidential adviser to the late President Roosevelt.

The brush between Rosenman and Bethlehem President Arthur B. Homer occurred as Homer opened the case of the nation's second-largest steel producer against the demands of the CIO United Steel Workers of America for a 30-cent hourly fourth-round wage increase.

Homer said he "had not intended to cast any reflection on this board." He said he only meant to convey "what our fears are" as based on experiences in the past with such boards. Rosenman had objected to a passage in Homer's presentation which said: "It is easy to understand why Bethlehem was reluctant on the basis of past experience to give its approval to an irregular procedure which appears to be designed merely as a vehicle for forcing upon us important concessions to the unions."

The company did not offer to withdraw the statement, and it remained in the record.

'COLD WAR OVER, COLD PEACE NOW ON,' TRYGVE LIE SAYS

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (UP)—Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, said today that the "cold war is over—we now are in a period of cold peace."

Returning by plane from a six-week vacation in his native Norway, Lie declined to amplify recent statements that the danger of a third world war has passed.

He said his vacation was the first he had had since he took the U.N. job in 1946.

Scientists Think Many Cases Are Diagnosed Polio by Mistake

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16 (AP)—Yale scientists expressed belief today that a large number of cases diagnosed as poliomyelitis may actually be attributable to a new and apparently non-crippling virus.

Existence of the virus, first reported by the New York State Department of Health, was confirmed by the Yale researchers after a year's study.

Isolated during last summer's polio outbreak in southern New England, North Carolina and Texas, the origin of the virus still is unknown and its means of transmission are obscure. The Yale scientists reported, however, that all infected persons who have come to their attention have recovered with no harmful after-effects.

A report of the Yale research was published today in the proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine. Commenting on the report, Joseph L. Melnick, associate professor of microbiology, declared:

"It is believed this new virus was the cause of widespread illness last year during the poliomyelitis season. Last year there were about 28,000 cases in the United States which were reported as poliomyelitis, the largest number since 1916.

"On the basis of this research at Yale, it is believed a sizable percentage of these cases may have been falsely diagnosed as poliomyelitis and were actually attributable to this new virus.

"We have reason to think this may be a fairly common disease, and with this new information physicians, working in conjunction with virologists in poliomyelitis areas, may have available a valuable new tool for specific diagnosis."

Two New York scientists published the first description of the virus. They were Gilbert Dalldorf and Grace Sickles of the State Health Department at Albany.

Subsequent investigations showed patients with the virus had some of the symptoms usually associated with polio. The average length of illness runs about 10 days, and the disease is prevalent during the usual polio season, but it leaves no permanent injury.

Hay Fever Season Officially Here; Ragweed Pollen Count Soars to 90

The eyes and nose have it, today and for the next few weeks, for hay fever victims. Ragweed pollen jumped into the lead in the daily pollen count, with a quotation of 90, and the City Health Division handed its weekly bulletin, "Hay Fever Season Beginning."

The health bulletin goes on to inform those whose eyes are not too watery to read it that "ragweed pollen, too small to be seen, is carried by the wind over a wide area. Hay fever is an inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages caused by sensitivity to ragweed pollen. It usually results in a stuffiness and watery discharge in the nose, accompanied by a terrific tickling and sneezing and an itching of the eyes and face."

Since infections of the sinuses, throat and bronchial tubes may result from hay fever, sufferers are advised to consult their physicians. The doctor may decide to try injections, or may prescribe "the new antihistamine drugs," but the latter should be used only under a physician's direction, the bulletin pointed out.

"The first frost" is the limit set by the bulletin on the hay fever season. However, many persons get relief in middle or late September.

ST. LOUIS GUARD KILLS 3 INTRUDERS AT BASE IN JAPAN

KOBE, Aug. 16 (AP)—American Army authorities today announced a guard Sunday killed three Japanese when they ignored his command to halt after illegally entering Ashiya Air Force Base.

Pfc. John H. Pelate of St. Louis, Mo., said he discovered the Japanese near the base gasoline depot and shot them.

Pelate's home is at 1216 Russell boulevard, where he lived with his father, Frank Pelate, before enlisting two years ago. He attended Sigel Public School and St. Joseph's Catholic School and, for a short time, Hadley Technical High School. He is 19 years old.

MARSHALL PLAN AGENCY DIVIDING ECONOMY, EUROPE ASSEMBLY IS TOLD

French Delegate Says Forceful Unification Steps Must Be Taken to 'Avoid an Absolute Catastrophe.'

By FRANK O'BRIEN

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 16 (AP) — French Socialist Andre Philip said today the Marshall plan's Organization for European Economic Co-operation (OEEC) is "dividing rather than unifying national economies in Europe.

Philip told the Council of Europe's Consultative Assembly that this trend had occurred despite the fact that Marshall plan aid was "generous and intelligent." He declared the Assembly must take rapid, forceful steps to unify Europe's economy to "avoid an absolute catastrophe toward which we are all moving."

The Council of Europe is holding its initial meetings here. The 12-nation body has some of the aspects of a European parliament.

Conflict on Federation.

Philip made an impassioned appeal for European unity and establishment of a "federation not only of western Europe but all free persons and nations in Europe."

Lord Layton of Britain, however, told the Assembly that creation of a united Europe federation in the near future is out of the question. He urged the 12 council nations to concentrate for the present on increasing their economic co-operation and drawing up a European human rights charter.

Layton, economist and newspaper publisher, proposed setting up a committee of experts to examine the whole question and report back to the Assembly a year from now.

Appeal by Philip.

Philip asserted that unification of economies is so urgently needed that the Assembly should override the authority of the Committee of Ministers and change its statutes if necessary to deal with the problem. The Committee of Ministers is the upper house of the Council.

Philip opened the Assembly's debate on changes in the political structure of Europe necessary to produce greater unity among members.

"One is terrified upon reading the long term programs turned in to the OEEC by participating nations," he said. These plans are more nationalistic than ever. The results of efforts toward co-ordination have been laughable. The OEEC has thus far led nowhere."

Europe desperately needs an over-all economic organization, able to decide problems by a majority vote and to enforce its decisions, he continued. Philip said it was up to the Assembly to create this body even if the Committee of Ministers should oppose it.

"Enough Harm Already Done."

"The Committee of Ministers must not be just a group of diplomats with the power of veto," he continued. "Enough harm has already been done like that."

Philip suggested that "it might be a good idea for us to provide formally for a few empty chairs to be left open in this Assembly" for nations behind the Pyrenees and behind the Elbe. He referred to Spain, Portugal and the Soviet sphere of eastern Europe.

In those places, he said, "primordial rights respected here do not now exist." Seats should be held for those people, he added, until they gain "their rights and freedoms."

Attacking the Committee of Ministers' power to limit the Assembly's field of discussion, Philip said: "We are not here like schoolboys who have to raise their hands to ask for permission to speak."

Dane Proposes Study.

Thorkil Kristensen of Denmark formally proposed that the Assembly appoint a commission to study revisions of the Council's basic statute for action at the next Assembly session in 1950. He asserted that eventually the Assembly must become a true European parliament which would produce a European government with decisive powers, but he pleaded for caution in the Assembly's opening phases.

Italy's Giuseppe Cappi cautioned the Assemblymen to go slow in considering a European federation. He said: "I do not think the peoples are ready yet to sacrifice sovereignty for unity."

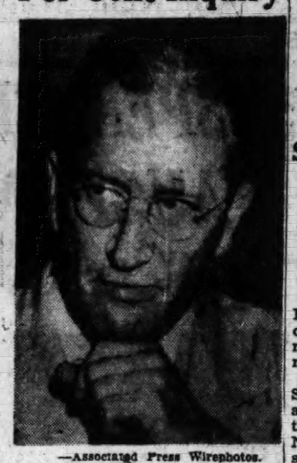

Vice Premier William Norton of Ireland asked that the Council use its influence to end the partition of the Irish republic and Ulster (northern Ireland), which is still part of the United Kingdom. He raised the question in debate after efforts to put the partition issue on the Assembly agenda were thwarted.

WILLIAM P. ROGERS

CHARLES P. CLARK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—A rumpus described as a one-punch altercation took place last night in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel as a side development of the 5 per cent inquiry.

The principals were William P. Rogers, counsel for the Senate Investigating Committee, and Charles Patrick Clark, a former member of the committee staff.

Several Congressmen in the lobby said that Clark took exception to something Rogers said about Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, and took a poke at him. Neither Rogers nor Clark would give his own version. Clark did tell reporters: "I feel very kindly toward Harry Vaughan."

One report was that Rogers also took a swing at Clark, but Rogers, questioned by reporters, had no comment except that "I'm not hurt" and "I didn't swing at anyone."

The name of Gen. Vaughan, a St. Louisan and military aide to President Truman, has been mentioned repeatedly in the investigation. Newspapers and wire services learned about the disturbance from John Maragon, whose name also has cropped up frequently in reports of influence in obtaining Government contracts.

FRANK H. DICKMANN JR. DIES; MEMBER OF MISSOURI HOUSE

State Representative Frank H. Dickmann Jr. of the Seventh Districtdied yesterday of a heart attack at Falstaff Brewing Corp., 3684 Forest Park avenue, where he was working. Dickmann, who was 47 years old and lived at 2019 Withnell avenue, was taken to City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Before his election to the Missouri House last November he had been a business agent of AFL Beer Bottlers' Local 187 for three terms. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Frances Gebelein Dickmann; five sons, Frank, Edward, Bruce, Ronald and Joel, all of the Witnell avenue address; a brother, Ernest, 4440 Minnesota avenue; a sister, Mrs. Rose Riekemann, 4238 Oregon avenue, and another sister, Mrs. Julia Bein, 6220 Bixby street, Affton.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the Schumacher undertaking establishment, 3013 Meramec street, with a Masonic service followed by burial in New St. Marcus Cemetery.

3-WEEK-OLD BABY WALKS; CONFIRMATION BY DOCTOR

MURRAY, Utah, Aug. 16 (AP)—The 3-week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. La Verl Benson is walking.

Mrs. Benson's doctor, who didn't believe it at first, confirmed it. The baby, born July 22, surprised her mother about a week ago.

"I was giving her a bath and had turned her over on her stomach to wash her back," Mrs. Benson reported today. "Resting against my left hand she raised herself on her feet and proceeded to take several steps in the bathinet."

The doctor, who asked that his name not be used, told a reporter he had seen the baby "life its knees and take four or five steps" while Mrs. Benson partially supported it. The mother told him the baby at other times had taken similar steps without as much assistance.

TRUMAN'S STAY IN MIAMI TO BE HOUR AND 45 MINUTES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Truman will spend only an hour and 45 minutes in Miami when he flies there Monday to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars' convention.

He will arrive at 10:35 a.m., speak at 11:30 a.m. and depart at 12:20 p.m.

The schedule, announced today, calls for a take-off from Washington at 7 a.m. and a return here at 3:55 p.m. (The time given is Eastern Standard.) The entire trip of 1844 air miles will consume eight hours and 55 minutes.

Truman will fly to Philadelphia Aug. 29 to address the American Legion. The following Monday, Labor Day, Sept. 5, he will fly to Pittsburgh for a luncheon address at the Allegheny Free Fair and will fly from there to Des Moines, Ia., for another address in the late afternoon.

WOMAN STRUCK BY HUSBAND WITH SLEDGE HAMMER DIES

Mrs. Amy P. McKenzie, 137 South Douglas avenue, Belleville, died last night at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, of a crushed skull suffered Saturday when, police reported, her husband, Edgar, struck her with a sledge hammer at their home.

McKenzie, a 64-year-old coal hauler, then hanged himself in the basement of the home. An inquest into both deaths was scheduled to be held late today by Coroner C. C. Kane of St. Clair county.

CHINESE COMMUNISTS DENY DEATH OF RED LEADER MAO

HONG KONG, Aug. 16 (UP)—The Communist news agency today denied a Canton report in which Nationalist officials claimed Communist chieftain Mao Tse-tung had died July 17.

The agency said Mao spoke Aug. 13 before the Peiping workers conference.

In his speech, Mao promised residents of Peiping they would have a municipal "people's congress" within a few months, the agency said.

SENATORS REOPEN HEARINGS ON ARMS AID PROGRAM

be the fear by the two Republican Senators that United States action alone to speed up arms production in France would have repercussions in Western Germany, which has been stripped of many of its industrial plants.

For Reparations.

France is expected to get the lion's share of arms aid of all types, with only a token payment of a few millions going to Britain.

Vandenberg said that if the proposed North Atlantic Defense Council finds some help is needed by Western European nations to manufacture their own arms, it could be started within six months. He and Dulles insisted their amendments would not delay Congressional action on the arms program.

They sought, among other things, to mesh the program into the over-all defense plan that will be drafted by the North Atlantic Council. They sought to write into the measure, too, a requirement that those who get the arms use them to promote an integrated defense of the North Atlantic area.

As approved by the House committee, the administration's bill bore an amendment cutting off financial aid after March 31 unless such a program is agreed on. A Vandenberg - Dulles amendment would give Congress or the President power to cut off arms shipments at any time, and another amendment would permit Congress or the President to stop aid to any individual country.

Of the $1,289,000,000 total of the bill as Vandenberg and Dulles redrafted it, one billion dollars would be for aid to North Atlantic Treaty signers. They proposed that this be split into half cash and half contract authority. Their proposed cuts would not affect sums set aside in the total for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea and the Philippines.

BRADLEY SWORN IN AS HEAD OF JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley today took over the nation's highest military post—chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. The former Army chief of staff is the first to hold the office since it was recently created by Congress.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff are the operating heads of the three armed services—the Army, Navy and Air Force. They serve as the chief military advisers to the President and Secretary of Defense Johnson. It will be Bradley's job to smooth out any squabbles, although he will have no vote or command authority. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander in Europe in the last war, has been serving temporarily as chairman of the group.

Bradley, as he took the oath at the Pentagon, was surrounded by the three secretaries of the armed forces, his fellow chiefs of staff and Deputy Secretary of Defense Stephen T. Early. Standing proudly beside him was his wife.

TRUMAN TAKES HAND IN FIGHT FOR REORGANIZATION

Summons Six Democratic Senators to White House—Some of Them Opposed Plans.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Truman took personal command today of the fight to rescue two controversial government reorganization plans.

He summoned six Democratic Senators to the White House and appealed for favorable action on the proposals. Senator Hoey of North Carolina, who served as spokesman for the six, told reporters afterwards that some of the group have been opposed to the plans.

Shortly after the White House meeting broke up, the Senate opened debate on Truman's reorganization plan No. 1. This calls for a new Department of Welfare.

Plan No. 2, next on the Senate schedule, would shift the Bureau of Employment Security from the Federal Security Administration to the Labor Department.

Today's conference was President Truman's second move within four days in behalf of the two plans. In a letter to Vice President Barkley Friday, the President declared that objections raised against the plans appeared to him "ill-founded and mistaken."

Beyond disclosing Truman's appeal for approval of the plans, Hoey would not discuss the White House conference.

The fate of plan No. 1 in the Senate rested on whether foes could muster 49 votes, a constitutional majority.

A constitutional majority is required for a veto under the Reorganization Act. The act provides that a Presidential reorganization plan becomes effective within 60 days after its submission to Congress; unless disapproved by either house. The deadline for Senate action is Wednesday.

Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois obtained unanimous consent for a vote at 6 p.m. on a resolution to reject the plan.

Senator Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana read a telegram from Herbert Hoover saying he supported the reorganization plan and also the separation of all health and labor agencies from the new department. He said that he favored naming the new agency the Department of Education and Social Security.

Senator Taft (Rep.) Ohio, sharply attacked the Welfare Department plan in the Senate yesterday. He also accused Truman of intervening in the legislative process by writing the letter to Barkley.

Taft said the Welfare Department plans does not reorganize, but simply would make a department out of the FSA and a cabinet officer out of Administrator Oscar Ewing.

Noting that the Office of Education, the surgeon general and the Social Security Administration would be consolidated under the new welfare secretary, Taft told the Senate:

"He is given complete power to set up his department any way he pleases, to mix welfare, health and education as he sees fit and to subordinate health and education to an even greater extent than he can do now as Federal Security Administrator. In view of his (Ewing's) public statements and actions, there can be no doubt that he would completely subordinate health and education to welfare."

FIRST REFUGEES FLEE CANTON AS REDS PUSH SOUTH

By SPENCER MOOSA

CANTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The British steamer Wusueh sailed for Hong Kong tonight loaded with foreign refugees as private reports placed Communist troops within 170 miles of Canton.

At the same time, authorities here said American naval planes would evacuate Americans from this Nationalist provisional capital if other facilities proved inadequate to get them out ahead of the Reds.

There are about 73 Americans here. They include 15 from the embassy in Nanking, and 19 in the consulate general here. Most of the others are in the joint commission on rural reconstruction.

Consulate Will Close.

The consulate itself has been ordered to close down before the Communists take Canton, authorities revealed today. Presumably the closing date will depend on the progress of the Communist advance.

(The United Press said personnel had been ordered to follow the Nationalist Government to Chungking if a new capital is set up there.)

The American Standard Vacuum Oil Co. announced it was withdrawing its entire foreign staff. Only Chinese employes will remain to look after the interests of the largest American firm in South China.

The British Shell Oil Co. was taking out families of its foreign staff and foreign women employes. Cal-Tex, another American oil company, already has evacuated foreign families. Under present plans, only a few foreign employes will stay for the expected Red occupation of the city.

Most foreign firms were following the lead of the oil companies in evacuating foreign women employes and families of their foreign staffs.

Tayu Threatened.

Private reports said the Reds were threatening Tayu, near the Kwangtung border, 170 miles northeast of Canton. If these reports prove correct, they would cast some doubt on a Nationalist army spokesman's claim of a successful Nationalist counter-attack further to the northeast. Ahead of the Reds in their advance on Canton are the rugged Tayuling mountains on the Kwangtung-Kiangsi border.

The Canton-Hankow railway administration has withdrawn all personnel north of the Hengyang rail junction 265 miles from Canton. The main operational base of retired American Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's airline has been transferred from Canton to Kungming. Management personnel of the airline remain in Canton.

Meanwhile, the Communists closed in on Foochow, southeastern China port in Fukien province.

Official reports said Foochow, 430 air miles northeast of Canton, was cut off except by sea. Heavy fighting was reported in progress around the city. The Reds were less than 20 miles away on the southwest and no more than 25 elsewhere. Artillery was audible inside the city.

The Nationalists claimed a counter-attack had retaken Nankang, 195 miles northeast of Canton. Thus, private reports yesterday that the Reds had taken Nanchang were confirmed. An army spokesman said today the Reds had been pushed back to a point 11 miles north of Nankang.

The Communists attacked Nankang, Kiangsi province town only 20 miles from the border of Canton's Kwangtung province, after by-passing Kanhsien, 215 miles northeast of Canton.

An Army spokesman today virtually admitted the loss of Kanhsien, which previously had been by-passed by the advancing Reds. Radio contact with the defenders of that city ceased.

Private reports said the Communists had smashed into Hengshan, 290 miles north of Canton on the Hankow-Canton railway. Street fighting was reported in progress there.

In Shanghai, meantime, Communist authorities today granted the American President Lines General Gordon permission to enter Shanghai as a repatriation ship.

HOUSE COMMITTEE VOTES TO EXPAND SOCIAL SECURITY

Leaders of Chamber Say They Will Seek Action Before Adjournment—Senate May Not Take Up Plan Till 1950.

Today in Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—A wide expansion of the nation's social security program, in line with President Truman's recommendations, was approved formally by the House Ways and Means Committee today.

The vote was a topheavy 22 to 3. Supporting the legislation were 15 Democrats and seven Republicans. Opposing were three Republicans.

House leaders indicated they wil seek action on the bill before Congress adjourns. The Senate probably will not act until 1950, because of the legislative logjam there.

Major Provisions.

Major provisions include:

1. Blanketing of 11,000,000 more workers into the old age and survivors insurance program, bringing the total number covered to 42,000,000.

2. Boosting by 70 per cent the present benefits of 2,500,000 persons already retired, or their survivors if they have died, and increasing by an average of 80 per cent the insurance benefits of persons yet to retire, or of their survivors.

3. An increase of $160,000,000 a year in federal participation with the states in public assistance, or home relief, for needy persons. The Federal Government already contributes $1,100,000,000 annually for this program.

(The insurance and public assistance programs operate separately. Under the insurance program the workers and their employers pay for what the workers get later in benefits. The public assistance operates as direct relief, based on need.)

Payroll Tax Boost.

4. An increase of the payroll taxes supporting the insurance program, now at 1 per cent on employes' pay and employers' payroll, to 1½ per cent on each next Jan. 1, to 2 per cent on Jan. 1, 1951, to 2½ per cent in 1960, to 3 per cent in 1964, and to 3¼ per cent on each in 1970.

5. Creation of a new category for aid to totally and permanently disabled persons under both the insurance and public assistance program.

The increased coverage of the insurance program would include self-employed—other than doctors, lawyers, dentists and certain other professional categories; domestic workers with earnings exceeding $26 in a three-months period; employes of non-profit institutions; state and local government employes where there is a federal-state agreement, and several smaller groups.

Government Agencies Broke.

Because Congress had not put up any money, many government agencies were broke. Legally, not even a stamp could be bought, veterans' pensions can't be paid, gasoline can't be bought for Air Force planes. Appropriations bills totaling 27 billion dollars were tied up in a legislative snarl.

The trouble was mostly in the Senate, where regular appropriations for fiscal 1950—which started on July 1—were long overdue. But the House yesterday added to the confusion by failing to approve a stop-gap spending authorization that would have let affected agencies draw at last year's rate. Two such extensions already have been passed. The second expired last midnight. The House adjourned today without taking action on appropriations.

Cotton Controls.

A bill to permit controls on the cotton crop went to the White House today after the Senate approved a conference report adjusting differences between Senate and House measures. It provides for a national referendum of cotton planters on whether to impose controls whenever production exceeds demand. Two-thirds of those voting would have to approve.

The House passed and sent to Truman yesterday a bill providing that future payments from Finland on its World War I debt be spent in this country for the education of Finnish students.

By a vote of 223 to 92 the House also approved a bill to bar any company from acquiring a rival firm's assets with the idea of lessening competition or restricting trade. The measure now goes to the Senate where action at this session is considered doubtful.

By a unanimous vote the House sent to President Truman a bill authorizing a $70,000,000 public works program for Alaska. Improvements could include schools, hospitals, sewers, water supply systems, bridges, streets, and public buildings.

SYRIAN FRONTIER WITH TURKEY IS REPORTED CLOSED

Cairo News Agency Gives No Details — Similar Report in Egyptian Newspaper.

CAIRO, Aug. 16 (AP)—A Damascus broadcast announcing closing of Syria's frontier with Turkey was reported here today by monitors for a local news agency.

The news agency Azmi quoted the broadcast as saying telephone wires and all other communications with Turkey were cut. Azmi said it gave no other details and no reason for the action.

Syrian President Husni Zaim and Premier Muhsen Bey Berazi were executed Sunday in the country's second military coup in five months. A new civilian provisional government took over today. There had been no indication of any basis for a quarrel with Turkey.

Azmi's report of the Damascus broadcast followed publication by the morning newspaper Progres Egyptien of a report that "all communication is stopped between Turkey and Syria, the frontier is closed on the Syrian side and the telephone is cut." The paper gave no source for its information.

ZAIM'S POLITICAL PRISONERS FREED

By GEORGE WELLER

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio, Copyright, 1949.

DAMASCUS, Aug. 16 — Crew haircuts became suddenly fashionable in the Syrian capital today as the national prison discharged the close-cropped political prisoners of the fallen government of executed President Husni Zaim. In hotel lobbies newly liberated lawyers, politicians and journalists received backslapping congratulations from friends who previously had not dared mention their names.

Police Director Ahmed Azam told me:

"Zaim's political prisoners numbered about 260. After review of their dossiers, about 200 whose offenses were purely political have been discharged. The remainder who profiteered during the Palestine war by crimes like selling the army inferior fats are still being held."

Azam said Zaim's prisoners were overwhelmingly civilian, only about ten army officers being included.

Though censorship remained in effect, Premier Hassim Bey Attassi stated the politicos' gratitude to the army for having passed control to civilians without self-seeking.

AFL OPTIMISTIC ABOUT BUSINESS, BUT WANTS PLAN FOR PUBLIC WORKS

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 16—Business conditions in the United States are on the upgrade with no recession in sight, in the opinion of the American Federation of Labor, as expressed by its ruling executive council. Upon that premise the council, in session here, is basing its report to the annual convention of the Federation which convenes in October.

William Green, president of the AFL and spokesman for the council, said last night after an all-day session devoted to an appraisal of national economic conditions that while some major industries, as in the textile field, had been hard hit, the bulk of unemployment could be traced to localized conditions. Green said that much of it resulted from closing of war plants in normally non-industrial areas, but that in many instances workers now were being absorbed in the steel, automotive and other industries.

Public Works Planning.

Green, however, urged that Congress appropriate funds, tentatively set at $4,000,000, to plan for public works projects in advance of their possible need. This proposal, concurred in by the council, would provide for a "shelf" of such projects. It would, he said, mean that public works could be instituted, if necessary, on a definite rather than haphazard basis.

Optimistic business signs, Green said, include passage of the new housing act, which has indirectly affected many unions besides those in the building trades; slum clearance projects, and provision for shipping goods and materials overseas under the European Recovery Program.

Green cited reports of the Federal Reserve Bank System indicating an increase in business loans. From commercial sources, he indicated, evidences have accumulated of a backlog of orders in many lines.

The council, in a formal statement, said, in part:

"We wish to reiterate at this time that there is no justification for an economic depression in the United States. In fact, we attribute a good deal of the 'recession' talk which was current earlier this year to a deliberate propaganda campaign designed to clamp the brakes on wages.

"While unemployment has now reached a total of 4,000,000, according to Government estimates, employment is still near the high 60,000,000 figure and serious dislocations have occurred only in relatively few localities and in few industries. As a whole business conditions are good and showing improvement.

Congressional Action Urged.

"Nevertheless, when unemployment reaches the highest point since prewar days, it is time for action. We commend President Truman's order to government agencies to increase purchasing in communities which have been hard hit by factory closings and unemployment. We also emphatically urge that Congress authorize the preparation of a shelf of public works projects as a preparatory and precautionary step. Such projects could then be put into operation to stimulate business activity and create jobs in any locality which may encounter an emergency situation.

"Furthermore, the Executive Council calls upon Congress to approve before adjournment pending legislation to encourage the construction of moderate rental apartments for families just above the low income group. This legislation, which would involve no Government subsidies but would authorize low-interest loans to cooperatives and non-profit groups to build apartments, is badly needed to supplement the public housing and slum clearance program already approved by Congress. The shortage of rental housing in the $50 and $60 a month level is acute and new construction activity in this field would serve as a stimulus to all of industry."

Political Strategy Discussed.

The all-powerful executive council, composed of the heads of the major unions which control the policies of the AFL, turned today to a discussion of its political strategy, directed by Labor's League for Political Action. Major targets at forthcoming congressional elections include United States Senators Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Forrest C. Donnell of Missouri.

The council is meeting in this Canadian city partly to obtain first-hand information as to the extent of Communist infiltration in administrative positions in Canadian trade unions. It also is to consider a report by George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, a delegate to the recent Geneva convention which resulted in formation of an international labor body to combat Communism in union ranks overseas.

BUS RIDER FINDS, SILVER TOKEN IS JUST A SOUVENIR

Drops One in Fare Box, and Driver Firmly Demands One of Copper.

Mrs. Lena Kemper, 1525B Cass avenue, learned yesterday that the old silver-colored transit token has no more standing at a Public Service Co. farebox than Confederate currency has at a bank.

Mrs. Kemper has had one of the old tokens in her purse since the company discontinued their use in April, 1948. Patrons were asked to turn them in for cash, but she kept the one token.

Yesterday, as the company started the use of tokens with the "new look," Mrs. Kemper placed the old one in a fare box on a Cass bus. The driver informed her it was no good, and that she would have to use one of the new copper-colored tokens. Mrs. Kemper argued that there was no difference between the tokens except their color.

"Yes there is," the driver objected. "You bought the old ones four for 35 cents. The new ones are three for 35 cents."

"It made me feel like two cents," Mrs. Kemper said. To make matters worse, when she tried to buy six new tokens the driver told her she could have only three because he was running short, she related, with asperity.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

The pony ride business of two sisters, who already have raised $35 for the polio fund, was back in operation today after a one-day layoff to enable the girls to recover from too much time in the saddle.

The girls, Madaline, 15 years old, and Elsa, 13, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Misbauer, 2253 Gravois avenue, were completely worn out from riding their pinto horse, Sweetheart, with every tot too young to ride alone, their mother said.

Five days ago the sisters started selling pony rides to neighborhood children for 5 to 25 cents after they had read of the large sums of money needed to fight polio. Their goal, their mother said, is $100.

In another neighborhood $10 for the polio fund was raised by 10 children who presented an original four-act play and charged 10 cents admission.

The play, "Kindness Is Its Own Reward," was written and directed by Lorraine Bazzetti, 12 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Balthasar Bazzetti, 5450 Bischoff street. The actors, who built their own stage in the Bazzetti backyard, ranged in age from 5 to 9.

ADMITS STEALING GOODS WORTH $600 FROM BISHOP'S CAR

A paroled thief, arrested last night as he walked down Vandeventer avenue with a priest's suit and purple shirt jacket over his arm, admitted to police that he took the garments and other articles valued at $600 from the automobile of the Most Rev. John P. Cody, auxiliary bishop of St. Louis.

Police identified the man as George A. Arnsmeyer, a barber, 3232 Portis avenue, now on parole on a 90-day workhouse sentence for petty larceny. He told police he planned to sell the garments to buy wine.

Among the articles police found on Arnsmeyer were a pectoral cross and gold chain valued at $500, a book of clergy railroad fare certificates worth $750, a pen and pencil set valued at $25 and a St. Christopher medal and key chain valued at $100. The suit was valued at $80 and the shirt jacket at $25.

Bishop Cody identified the articles. He told police he had parked his automobile outside the Catholic Chancery, 3810 Lindell boulevard, late last night without locking it. He said he had just stepped in the chancery for a short time. Arnsmeyer was arrested on Vandeventer between Delmar and Washington boulevards.

Arnsmeyer is held suspected of grand larceny. In 1946 he received an eight-year sentence as a deserter from the Army. He was paroled from the workhouse sentence July 1.

STUDIES STATE DEPARTMENT

John W. Ballard, 7101 Dartmouth avenue, University City, a Princeton University student, is among 23 students and college teachers who have arrived in Washington, D.C., for a United States Department of State seminar on the operation of the department, it was announced today.

Classes will extend through Sept. 19. Lecturers include specialists from all divisions of the department. Members of the seminar pay their own travel and living expenses.

Only Brother Lionel Seems Unimpressed in 'Heck of a Speech' Congratulating Her.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16 (AP)—The President of the United States, the only living former President and a former Prime Minister of England think Ethel Barrymore is pretty wonderful—but her brother, Lionel, is not impressed.

Miss Barrymore, distaff ruler of America's royal family of the theater, was 70 years old yesterday. In honor of the occasion, a nation-wide broadcast last night carried tributes from President Truman, Herbert Hoover, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and many other noted personalities.

At a luncheon yesterday Lionel Barrymore could think of nothing more to say than: "Well, Ethel, I'm awfully happy you are with us and I wish you many happy returns."

Louis B. Mayer, studio head, who gave the luncheon for Miss Barrymore, said: "Gosh, that's a heck of a speech. You can say more than that."

"I'm sorry," replied Lionel, "but my writer has gone to San Francisco."

Truman's Tribute.

In contrast, were President Truman's remarks, recorded for the broadcast:

"This is Harry S. Truman. I am here to pay tribute for myself and for countless of my fellow countrymen to a great lady and a great artist.

"I have seen her in most of her roles, and I am eternally indebted to her for the pleasure she has given me.

"To Ethel Barrymore—first lady of the American stage—many happy returns of the day."

Miss Barrymore, in thanking the President and others, said:

"I am afraid there is not time enough left in my life for me to thank you enough for this overwhelming tribute. It's far more than I deserve; but, believe me, it's not more than I can take to my heart."

Greatest in Womanhood.

Hoover said Miss Barrymore was "an expression of the very greatest in American womanhood."

Bing Crosby was chosen to open the program by singing "Happy Birthday."

Keynote of the tributes was sounded at the luncheon by Billie Burke: "We are paying homage to the most beautiful woman and the finest actress of our day. You don't just love and admire Ethel Barrymore; you worship her."

TWO MEN HURT IN JEEP-AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR SYLVAN BEACH

Robert Worthington, 28 years old, 4963 Mardel avenue, was being treated at Christian Hospital today for two broken ribs and a fractured left leg suffered in an automobile accident shortly before midnight Saturday.

State highway police reported that Worthington was driving a jeep on Highway 66 at Sylvan Beach when an automobile driven by William Corcoran, 16, 814 South Sappington road, Oakland, slowed to make a right turn in front of him. The jeep struck Corcoran's machine, then swerved into an oncoming automobile driven by Pfc. Charles Kirk, 23, 828 East Pacific avenue, Webster Groves.

Kirk was treated at St. Louis County Hospital for facial cuts. Concoran was unhurt.

PLUMBERS SUE TO INSTALL HOT WATER HEATERS

They Say Baum Has Ruled Such Devices Are Fuel Burners.

The question of whether a hot-water heater is a fuel-burning device, or a plumbing fixture, was put up to the Circuit Court today by the Contracting Plumbers' Association of St. Louis.

In a suit filed against the City of St. Louis and various city officials, including Building Commissioner A. H. Baum, the association asked the court to decree that hot-water heaters must be installed by licensed and registered plumbers in the city.

Contending such appliances are plumbing fixtures, the association asserted in its petition that Baum has interpreted the city's new plumbing code, adopted in 1945, so as to permit installation of hot-water heaters by anyone, in contrast to the practice followed under the previous code.

Baum, pointing out that such appliances might be considered to be either fuel-burning devices, or plumbing fixtures, because connected with both systems, said his department decided after numerous conferences on the matter to regard them as fuel-burning devices. He said he thought the suit might clarify the question, but indicated he was not "steamed up" over it.

HEALTH OFFICIALS CONSIDER PUTTING FLUORINE IN WATER

A proposal to add fluorine to the city's water as an aid against tooth decay will be studied by health and other officials, Mayor Joseph M. Darst said today.

He said he would call a meeting soon of city and state health officers, water division heads and representatives of the St. Louis medical and dental societies.

The move is in line with a recent suggestion by the American Water Works Association, which said tests had shown that presence of 1 to 1.5 parts of fluorine to 1,000,000 parts of water "is associated with a 50 to 65 per cent reduction in caries prevalence." St. Louis water has as a natural component about .3 of one part fluorine.

Cost of the program would be about $90,000 a year, it was said. Expense might be charged either against health or water division funds.

LAMBERT FIELD'S INCOME $107,530 ABOVE EXPENSES

Operating Surplus Reported in Last Fiscal Year—Gain in Passenger Traffic.

An operating surplus of $107,530 by Lambert-St. Louis Field for the fiscal year ending last April was shown today in the annual report of the Department of Public Utilities. Receipts totaled $230,946, expenditures $123,416.

Passenger arrivals in the same year totaled 224,070 as compared with a figure of 206,106 for the previous year. The increase in departures was from 199,087 to 220,109.

The total number of take-offs and landings rose from 183,366 to 243,475. Of these totals, commercial airlines accounted last year for 56,332 compared with 51,394 take-offs and landings in the previous 12 months.

The totals for other classifications, with the more recent figure given first, follow: Private local planes, 99,256 and 83,018; civilian itinerant planes, 27,554 and 14,944; military planes, 60,333 and 34,010.

The report was read at the regular Tuesday meeting of the Board of Public Service.

At the meeting, the board approved removal of part of the Manchester bus line from South Broadway between Walnut street and Chouteau avenue to Fourth street between the same two streets. The Public Service Co. had applied for the change to relieve congestion on Broadway.

Instead of running south on Broadway from Chestnut street to Chouteau, busses now will proceed south on Broadway only as far as Walnut, then east to Fourth and south to Chouteau.

An application by Burt Smith, Negro, formerly a partner in the Famous Cab Co., which recently sold out to the St. Louis Cab Co., to operate 200 taxicabs under the name of the Supreme Cab Co., was referred by the board to Director of Streets and Sewers Frank Kriz for an investigation to be followed by a hearing.

$20,000 SETTLEMENT IN SUIT OVER ESTATE OF ERHARD FISCHER

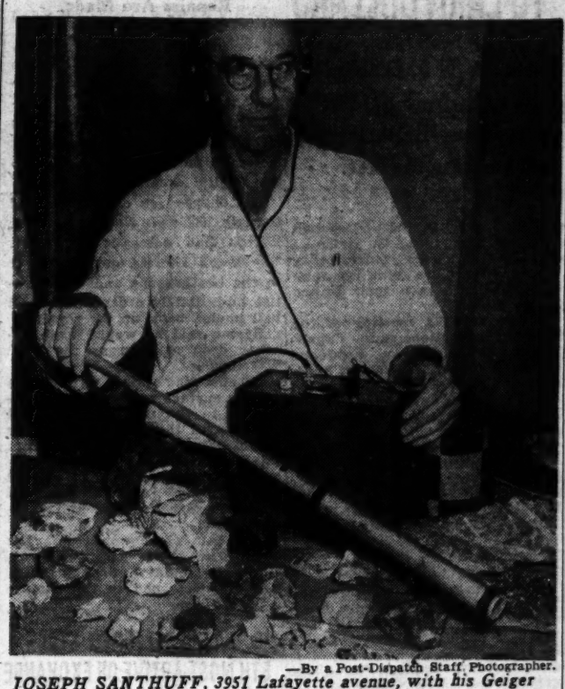

A compromise settlement of $20,000 in the suit of Miss Hazel Marie Forster, 5280 Washington boulevard, against the $150,000 estate of the late Erhard Fischer, was approved today by Circuit Judge David J. Murphy.

The suit was based on an alleged oral agreement between Miss Forster's mother and Fischer in 1937. Mrs. Forster said that Fischer agreed to name her daughter, then 7 years old, beneficiary of his estate, if she would give up her rooming house and take care of him and his wife, then living.

Mrs. Forster said she lived up to the alleged agreement but when Fischer died in 1947 he left her $2000 and her daughter nothing.

Three nieces and a nephew of Fischer, living in Germany, were principal beneficiaries of the estate. They had legal representatives in the suit, as did other beneficiaries. All parties agreed to the settlement, of which the lawyers are to receive one-third by agreement. Miss Forster was represented by Peter W. Bauman Jr., attorney.

5 in Family Turn Prospectors And Hunt Uranium in the Ozarks

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

JOSEPH SANTHUFF, 3951 Lafayette avenue, with his Geiger counter and some of the rock specimens he has brought back from his search for uranium in the Ozarks.

Having Fun Trying to Win Atom Agency's $10,000 Award, Says Furniture Dealer Armed With Geiger Counter.

A St. Louis furniture dealer and four members of his family have become weekend prospectors for uranium in the Missouri Ozarks.

Spurred on by the Atomic Energy Commission's promise of $10,000 reward for finding a productive uranium field, Joseph Santhuff, 3951 Lafayette avenue, carries his Geiger counter into the hills of Reynolds and Iron counties almost every weekend.

To date, he has had no success, finding only small deposits of lead and nickel. With the view of turning his hobby into the prospector's dream, Santhuff turns a deaf ear to his wife's attempt to discourage the project.

"I'm looking for uranium," he explained. "I may not find any, but at least the kids and I are having fun trying."

The "kids" are Ronald, 10-year-old Cub Scout; Marcella, 21, and his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zellar. Mrs. Santhuff occasionally accompanies her family, but usually prefers to remain home.

Santhuff whose store is at 1923 South Jefferson avenue, became interested in prospecting for atomic ore last fall, acquired a number of books on the subject and read them during the winter.

On April 2, the family set out for the hills on their first journey. As they have on every trip since then, they returned with rocks which emitted a small count, "not at all promising, but interesting," he said.

The Geiger counter cost him $175. That and the books, commercial rock speciments and the weekly jaunts have made his hobby a little expensive, Santhuff admits, but he declares it is worth it.

"The prospect of possibly getting the $10,000 is enough to make it worth while," he confided.

LICENSE HEARING ON TAVERN ACCUSED OF SERVING MINOR

Mrs. Ann Ermantraut, licensee of the Sky Garden Tavern, 10783 Riverview drive, was cited yesterday by Excise Commissioner Arthur H. Bader to show cause on Sept. 6 why the license for the place should not be revoked. A previous citation also is set for hearing Sept. 6.

The action yesterday was the result of a report by police that last Friday night they found a 19-year-old youth drinking beer in the place. The youth told them he was served by the bartender, George Ermantraut, 1718 Allen avenue, and was not asked his age first, police said. Ermantraut, husband of the licensee, was arrested and booked suspected of selling liquor to a minor.

The first citation was the result of a raid on the place July 30, when a number of minors were reported found drinking there.

SIX MORE POLIO CASES; TOTAL FOR YEAR RISES TO 225

17 Deaths Reported in City and County — 141 Outstate Patients Received Here.

Six new cases of poliomyelitis were reported in St. Louis and St. Louis county today, bringing the year's total to 225. There have been 17 deaths.

The new city patients included a 9-year-old boy living at 3541 McKean avenue; a boy, 5, 4260 Lindell boulevard; a girl, 10, 3215 South Compton avenue, and a girl, 16, 3951 Ashland avenue.

In the county, the new cases were a boy, 3, living in Clayton, and a 32-year-old woman of the 8000 block of Albin avenue.

So far this year there have been 171 cases and 12 deaths in St. Louis and 54 cases and five deaths in the county.

Lowell Crayne, 14 years old, Roodhouse, Ill., died of poliomyelitis today shortly after he was taken to St. Anthony's Infirmary, Alton. He was stricken last Thursday.

Two additional outstate patients were admitted to St. Anthony Hospital, bringing the number of outstate patients received at St. Louis hospitals since start of the poliomyelitis outbreak to 141. Eight patients in this category have died.

The new patients are a 16-year-old girl of Steelville, Mo., whose younger sister was taken to the hospital last week with poliomyelitis, and a boy, 6, High Ridge, Mo.

St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, reported the admission of three new patients. They are: James Frederick, 4, Dupo, Ill.; Wallace T. Davis, 11, Golconda, Ill., and Dale Butts, 10, West Frankfort, Ill.

The hospital has had 121 poliomyelitis patients since June 1.

The number of cases approached the 1000 mark today in Illinois, where 70 deaths from the disease have been reported. The latest fatality was John Redden, 22, who died in a Springfield hospital last night.

STAYS ON ADJUSTMENT BOARD

Frank E. Lawrence, secretary of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, was reappointed as a member of the Board of Adjustment yesterday by Mayor Joseph M. Darst. The board hears appeals from rulings of the building commissioner.

Lawrence's term will expire on Aug. 15, 1954. The job pays $10 a meeting, with a maximum of $240 in any one year. Lawrence lives at 5808 DeGiverville avenue.

HOFFMAN TELLS EUROPE: DO MORE TO EARN DOLLARS

PARIS, Aug. 16 (AP)—Marshall plan aid chief Paul G. Hoffman told European trade leaders today their countries are doing less than they should to earn their United States dollars.

He spoke at a meeting of the heads of delegations to the Organization for European Economic Co-operation (OEEC) at its headquarters here. This is the 19-area group charged with dividing up European Recovery Program funds.

Among those present were W. Averell Harriman, special Marshall plan ambassador to Europe; Sir Edmund Hall-Patch, Britain's top delegate to OEEC, and Herve Alphand, head of the economics section of the French Foreign Ministry.

Exports to U.S. Urged.

Hoffman said he saw no way to meet Europe's chronic dollar shortage except by earning dollars through exports. He had found, he added, little evidence that this fact is being squarely faced except by one or two countries. He did not specify which countries he meant.

At a news conference yesterday, Hoffman praised the new British Dollar Export Board for trying to find additional United States markets. He also said then that Belgium was doing work on this line.

He told the OEEC delegates that there is a great need for their governments to give their manufacturers incentives "to win and hold a place in that (American) market." First, he said, there must be a willingness to earn more dollars; then the United States would see about how it could give this effort technical help.

Alphand asked for details on how such aid would be given. Hoffman replied that when a specific European industry showed an interest in selling more of its products in the United States, an American market expert would be found in that particular line to show the Europeans how to increase sales.

Hoffman also criticized OEEC's informal set-up. He said it was a matter of "breathtaking urgency" to tell the United States what kind of job the OEEC is doing. There is a growing notion in America, he reported, that the Marshall plan is a political but not an economic success.

Hoffman's statements were reported by M. D. Mallett, OEEC's press relations chief.

It is hard to convince Congress, Hoffman told the delegates, that the OEEC can claim solid accomplishments. It is up to the European countries, he added, "to make a living fact out of European co-operation."

Hoffman praised the OEEC request to members for lists or goods on which they are willing to end import quotas. Oct. 1 has been set as the deadline for these lists. He reminded them, however, that the measure will be significant only if the lists are significant—that is, if they include important products thta will account for a considerable percentage of European trade. Most European commerce is now strictly limited by agreements between pairs of countries.

SENATOR BRIDGES SAYS HE WILL QUIT $35,000 MINE JOB

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 16 (AP)—Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, said today he will resign next month his $35,000-a-year trusteeship of the United Mine Workers' welfare fund.

He said he wants to wait until the first yearly report on the fund is completed, sometime next month, before stepping out.

It was recently disclosed that Bridges and Ezra Van Horn, fund trustee of the coal operators, had been drawing a $35,000-a-year allowance, while John L. Lewis, union chief and third trustee, had not been drawing his allowance.

Bridges claims most of the allowance went for expenses of hiring legal experts and accountants to help handle the $100,000,000 fund.

Van Horn subsequently resigned his post as negotiator for the northern coal operators.

WOMAN FROM SCOTLAND HERE FOR FAMILY REUNION

Mrs. Helen King of Dundee, Scotland, is in St. Louis for reunions with sisters she has not seen for, respectively, 41 and 28 years. She is visiting at the home of her younger sister, Mrs. James Younger, 3839 Shenandoah avenue, whom she last saw in 1921. Mrs. Margaret McLaren of Detroit, the eldest, arrived here last Sunday.

All were born in Dundee, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shepherd. Separations took place when Mrs. Young and Mrs. McLaren left Scotland with their husbands for America. Mrs. King, who is on her first trip to this country, will stay about three months. Childless herself, she looks forward, she said, to visiting her sisters' descendants.

"Before I sail back to Dundee," she said, "I want to make the acquaintance of my eight grandnieces and grandnephews in the St. Louis area as well as the four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren of my sister Margaret of Detroit."

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT JR.'S WIFE NOT A POLIO PATIENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Tests have shown that the 28-year-old wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. does not have poliomyelitis, Doctors' Hospital said last night.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, the former Mrs. Patricia Murphy Wallace of Los Angeles, was taken to the hospital Sunday night for observation as a possible poliomyelitis case. A hospital spokesman said doctors had not yet diagnosed Mrs. Vanderbilt's ailment but had determined it was not poliomyelitis.

BROKEN FLOODLIGHT HALTS 2ND DIVE IN BENTHOSCOPE BELL

Explorer Barton Says He Will Try Again When Repairs Are Made.

SANTA CRUZ ISLAND, Calif., Aug. 16 (UP)—A smashed floodlight today forced submarine explorer, Otis Barton, to halt his second attempt to plunge 6000 feet in his benthoscope diving bell into the Pacific ocean.

The choppy sea cracked one of the two 1000-watt floodlights after Barton had descended 400 feet. The break shorted out all power to the benthoscope and the scientist immediately ordered the steel ball hauled back up for repairs.

Barton said he would make another drop as soon as the light was repaired.

A changing wind brought a calmer surface as the bell was returned to the mother barge and it appeared that better conditions would prevail for a third attempt later today.

Barton's first try ended at 2300 feet yesterday morning when a broken power line left him without lights.

The bell was lowered away at 10:15 a.m. (1:15 p.m. St. Louis time) on today's first attempt, and was returned to the surface at 10:36 a.m.

MO. PAC. PREFERRED STOCK 5TH MOST ACTIVE ON EXCHANGE

Missouri Pacific preferred stock, value of which was enhanced by an Interstate Commerce Commission ruling last week, was the fifth most active in trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The ICC reversed a previous decision holding the preferred to be worthless, and ruled that it would be exchangeable for the new common stock of the system.

Sales were 12,100 shares. The high was $5.25, low $3.75, and closing $4.88.

UNION ELECTRIC BUYS POWER SYSTEM AT MEACHAM PARK

Purchase of the electrical distribution system of Meacham Park, just south of Kirkwood, from the City of Kirkwood for $8000, was announced today by Union Electric Co. of Missouri. About 210 customers, the last ones served by the Kirkwood lines beyond corporate limits of the city, were involved in the transaction.

Transfer of the property, Union Electric announced, will simplify service for customers and increase efficiency of both systems by eliminating duplication of distribution facilities. Property involved included poles, wires, transformers and meters.

SELECTIVE SERVICE BOARD STAFFS TO BE REDUCED

Staffs of the 12 Selective Service board serving St. Louis and St. Louis county will be reduced from 15 to 10 persons within the next few weeks because of reduction of activities growing out of the rise in enlistments, it was learned today.

There have been no inductions this year, but youths still are required to register on reaching the age of 18 and to maintain contact with their boards.

Personnel of the nine St. Louis boards, which have a joint office at 3908 Olive street, will be reduced from 10 to seven by Sept. 13, Andrew J. Werner, chief clerk, said. This office had 25 employes at the peak last December. Number of clerks at the three county offices, in Ferguson, University City and Webster Groves, will be cut from five to three—thus providing one at each office.

96,000 NON-FARM HOUSING UNITS STARTED IN JULY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated today that 96,000 non-farm housing units were begun in July—slightly less than the 100,000 started in June, but slightly more than the 95,000 in July a year ago.

The total for seven months of this year was estimated at 549,100 units compared with 572,600 in the corresponding period of last year.

SUIT AGAINST IRVING, 2 AFL MEN DROPPED

Congressman and Two Other Unionists Had Been Accused of Misuse of Funds.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP)—A suit seeking a financial accounting from Congressman Leonard Irving and two other officers of a labor union was dismissed in circuit court yesterday.

Irving, Democratic Representative from President Truman's home district, is president and business manager of the AFL Hod Carriers', Building and Common Laborers' Union of America, Local 264.

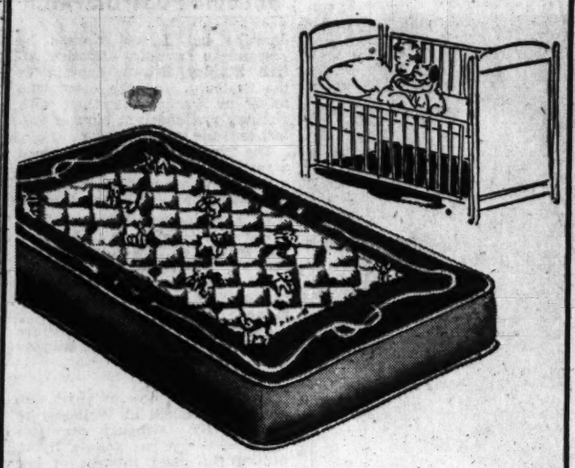

Eighty-five members of the local filed the suit in equity last July 16, charging that Irving and two other officers had conspired to divert union funds to their own use and to purposes not authorized by the union. The other officers named were Roy E. Livingston, financial secretary, and Alvin Butcher, secretary.

In dismissing the suit, Circuit Judge John F. Cook said the "remedy within the union is more adequate and complete than a suit for money in a court of law or equity."

Irving had made a general denial of the allegations in the petition. His attorney had stressed the point the plaintiffs had not sought redress first within the union.

Two days after the petition was filed, a union meeting broke up in a fight when Irving tried to discuss the local's financial affairs.

More than 15 persons were injured before police could stop the disorder. Irving was escorted from union headquarters to his home.

Evans testified that Hunt did not say how he influenced the appointments of the men he mentioned.

"Hunt liked to put himself in the position that he knew a lot of important people," said Evans, who is assistant chief of the supply division in the office of Feldman, suspended Quartermaster General.

Waitt said that while he was talking with Vaughan at the social gathering, the question of "my retirement came up." He said he didn't know whether he or Vaughan mentioned it.

Waitt said Vaughan told him "I was best qualified for the job and should succeed myself." He said Vaughan noted Waitt was only 56 years old and "had a lot of good service left in me." He said Vaughan thought it possible Waitt might succeed himself.

Waitt became chief of the Chemical Corps in November 1945, and his appointment runs out this fall. The appointment is made by the President.

Lt. Col. Robert L. May, chief of the general officers branch, in the Army's Personnel Administration division, told the committee he could not recall any case where an incumbent was chosen to succeed himself. May testified as to procedure in selecting officers for posts such as those held by Waitt and Feldman.

O'Conor asked Waitt what use Vaughan planned to make of the memorandum about the eight officers.

Waitt said that "Vaughan wanted my opinion on the candidates, which he would use when the matter of appointment came up." He said he "assumed" Vaughan would use it in discussion with President Truman.

Rogers, the committee counsel, said last week when the memorandum was placed in the record that it was written to lay the "groundwork" for Waitt's reappointment when the matter of naming a new chemical chief came up sometime in the fall of this year.

O'Conor asked whether he had "solicited" any help in getting the promotion to chief of the corps.

"That is a very difficult question," Waitt replied. "Whether I solicited it or not, I'm not sure. I welcomed it."

He added that he thought it "quite probable" that most general officers bidding for higher posts welcome and perhaps solicit the aid of their friends.

Waitt said he depended largely on scientists to advance his interests at that time and observed at one point: "I was normally ambitious."

Waitt was asked whether he had sought the aid of Hunt. He said he couldn't say yes or no but added: "Hunt was a close friend and it was a natural assumption that without solicitation he would help me."

Asked About Negotiations.

Waitt was asked whether, at that time, negotiations were under way for a Chemical Corps contract in which Hunt reportedly was interested.

The contract was being sought by the Deering-Milliken Trust Research, Inc., Greenwich, Conn. Witnesses have testified Hunt represented the company.

Waitt said: "I believe it has been clearly brought out here that the contract (for Deering-Milliken) was under consideration at the time. Of course, I knew it."

Waitt testified that Dr. Norman Armitage, president of Deering-Milliken, was introduced to him by Hunt.

Waitt was questioned about alleged telephone conversations between Waitt and Hunt which had been read into the record. These dealt with the progress of negotiations on the Deering-Milliken contract for gasproof clothing.

Contract "Being Fixed."

In one conversation, Waitt had been quoted as telling Hunt that the contract was "being fixed" and that it was "all set."

Waitt said he did not recall the conversation, but that he has no doubt it took place.

Another conversation had Waitt telling Hunt he had checked with "Tom Green" to find out whether there were any legal barriers in the way of his possible re-appointment as Chemical Corps chief. Waitt identified Green as the Army's judge advocate. He said he did ask Green about the legal situation.

Waitt said Hunt "knew I had been in touch with Gen. Vaughan and that Gen. Vaughan had encouraged me."

After Waitt's testimony, the hearing was recessed until tomorrow. The committee indicated it was through with Waitt, at least for the present.

The committee got testimony behind closed doors yesterday from three witnesses who figured in the 1945 shipment of deep-freezers to Mrs. Harry Truman and other Washington notables.

When that session ended, Hoey announced that the committee would make no statement until it has had a chance to check on the information it got. He said that might take a few days.

One of the witnesses questioned privately told reporters afterwards that the freezers were "the best obtainable at the time," and that there was great public demand for them.

In saying Saturday that seven freezers were presented to him four years ago by two friends, Vaughan asserted that he had been told by one of the donors that they were experimental models with no commercial worth. Vaughan is President Truman's Army aide.

ANDERSON DENIES STORY ON VAUGHAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (UP)—Senator Clinton P. Anderson, (Dem.), New Mexico, today issued the following statement on a New York Herald Tribune dispatch quoting him as saying that Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan of St. Louis and John Maragon sought to intervene in Department of Agriculture matter:

"I am amazed by the story on the front page of the New York Herald Tribune of Tuesday, Aug. 16, which has headlines reading: 'Anderson Says Vaughan Tried to Influence Agricultural Department—Senator Charges Move by General and Maragon to Have Molasses Firm Absolved of Violation.' The story claims I disclosed that Maragon and Gen. Vaughan both interested themselves in an attempt to clear the Allied Molasses Co. of an Agricultural Department complaint.

Talks With Reporters.

"Actually, a representative of the Herald Tribune stopped me and asked me if Gen. Vaughn had talked to me about an Allied Molasses case. I said that he had not.

"The next question was whether he had called the department and whether Maragon had visited the department to discuss it. My reply was that, since the Senate committee has been making its investigations, a check has been made on Department of Agriculture phone calls, and that I had been told there had been a call from Vaughan to the department but that I had no personal knowledge of it and no such call was ever made to me.

"In answer to a question concerning John Maragon I said that so far as I could recall, he had never talked to me about any molasses case and I did not know until recently that he had ever been in the department about one.

The story is likewise inaccurate when it quotes as as asserting that the Allied Molasses Co. should have been prosecuted. I gave the reporter the name of the only person who ever talked to me about molasses and I stated clearly that I thought his firm should have been prosecuted. He did not represent Allied Molasses.

"Apparently the paper had some information and wanted to tie its story to someone, but it is extremely unfair to say that any disclosures were made by me."

The Herald-Tribune article, written by David McConnell, said that Anderson told the reporter that several years ago, while Anderson was Secretary of Agriculture, Vaughan called the department to say he was sending Maragon around as a representative of the molasses company to discuss its troubles. The department's complaint against the concern, Anderson was quoted as saying, was that it had violated wartinme restrictions by obtaining for a soft-drink company molasses intended for other purposes.

The article, still quoting Anderson, went on to say that Department of Agriculture officials ignored the intervention and turned a complaint against the company over to the Department of Justice.

Anderson was quoted as saying Maragon saw Joseph T. Elvove, assistant director of the department's sugar branch, and other department officials on behalf of the molasses concern.

The Allied Molasses Co. is in Perth Amboy, N. J.

to catch them and. looking back, saw our liferaft had inflated automatically.

So we swam rapidly back to it. By the time we reached it, the raft was completely surrounded by passengers clinging to its sides and it was almost impossible to get hold of it.

Besides, the raft was upside down and there were no ropes available so we held on to one of the Italian passengers.

Raft Overloaded.

Finally Dick got on the liferaft with the aid of one of the Italian passengers and they helped put me aboard.

Then came even more of a struggle for life.

The raft had been designed for 10 and had 16 individuals aboard, each trying to keep from sliding off.

All the others but the Derrs and myself doubtless were new to flying. (Forty-seven of the passengers were Italians emigrating to Venezuela.)

To add to our difficulties we were unable to speak Italian and therefore it was difficult to make them understand that they must remain quiet.

The wait for the approach of daylight seemed interminable for all of us.

Every few moments the raft seemed about to capsize.

We had so little strength because of the increasing cold along with the continual struggle to remain on the raft and yet not be crushed by the others.

We knew it would be impossible to climb back if we fell off.

Furthermore the raft was sinking gradually and there was no means of inflating it because it was still upside down.

Grace Derr and I started to sing "Roll Out the Barrel" and other cheerful songs but the Italian passengers did not seem to want to join in.

Prayers Follow Songs.

We tried "Ave Maria" but that didn't help either. Finally we were too tired, too wet, too submerged and too crushed by human beings to continue singing. So each prayed in his own individual way, some loud, some quietly.

We observed or thought we observed lights of a boat in the distance. Suddenly the boat approached very close. It was still dark but we could almost see the crew. We yelled in unison over and over but it passed us by.

Then finally the first streak of dawn came along with the first sound of an aircraft motor.

It was a delayed promise of rescue, for at least 12 planes passed over us without being able to see us because we were so deeply submerged and the waves were mounting ever higher.

We continued to wave our arms and finally two airlines which sent out planes—TWA and Panam—spotted us.

Again there was a long delay before their radio messages were acted upon by the trawler (Stalberg) nearby.

By now I was nearly off the raft and my strength was almost all gone.

That wonderful captain and Pilot Eddie Bessey, who had only recently climbed aboard after holding on in the water for a long period despite a cramp in his legs, pulled me to his end of the raft so that I was not in so much danger of being puched off.

Bessey's radio operator also appeared from somewhere to hang on and I held his head up as much as possible as he was almost overcome from exposure and struggling against the piled-up humanity on the raft.

(Editor's note—There were two radio men aboard the plane. One, Herbert Asbel, of Brooklyn, N.Y., died apparently after being struck by the fuselage of the plane after leaving through a hatch.)

By now my head had dropped to my chest with exhaustion and the prolonged chilling to the bone.

I was so exhausted I didn't even see the trawler come alongside.

Safe at Last.

Each time a wave raised the raft to deck level strong hands of the crew grabbed outstretched hands of the others and pulled several back aboard.

After our raft hands pulled me over the side, life again was secure.

My reactions were too varied to describe but I will always be grateful to friendly, effective Alfred Stanley Brown, captain of the Stalberg, and the crew who made us warm with their own clothing and constant cups of coffee, tea and cocoa.

The Transocean crew performed a remarkable feat in carrying out a perfect water landing efficiently organizing pre-ditching equipment.

Each person was fitted out with life-jackets 10 minutes in advance and instructed how to fasten his seat belt and so on.

Miss Nichols, now 48 years old, quit as a student at Wellesley to learn to fly. Although she later returned to get her degree, flying proved the chief interest of her life.

She pegged up the first of many "firsts" by piloting a non-stop flight in a cabin monoplane with two passengers aboard from Rockaway Beach, N. Y., to Miami in 1928.

In December 1930, she made a one-stop speed flight from Los Angeles to New York in 13 hours, 21 minutes and 48 seconds.

Her first serious crash occurred at St. John, N. B., on a take-off on a trans-Atlantic flight to Paris. She suffered two cracked vertebrae and other injuries.

Twice more she escaped serious injury on occasions when others involved were seriously or fatally hurt. On a take-off from Troy, N. Y., her co-pilot was killed and four others were injured.

Another time, in 1935, she escaped from a plane burning in midair only by leaping in a parachute. She escaped death in another serious crash in Vienna.

MOTHER PHILOMENA FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mother Philomena Mangold, a religious of the Sacred Heart, will be at 8 a.m. tomorrow at Maryville College, 2900 Meramec street. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Mother Philomena, 78 years old, died of infirmities yesterday at Maryville College, where she lived. She had been ill for several years. She was a music and arts instructor in Cincinnati before coming to Maryville College 14 years ago.

Buy with an Eye ON THE ENGINE!

OLDSMOBILE'S "ROCKET" IS THE NEW ENGINE FOR THE FUTURAMIC FIFTIES!

And... BUY WITH AN EYE ON THE DRIVE! Make sure the transmission teamed up with the engine is 10-year-proved Hydra-Matic... the drive that means surer, safer performance, more miles per gallon!

THOUGHTS ABOUT BUYING A CAR TODAY:—The engine is the most important part of the investment you make in a new car. The engine is the heart and soul and very life of any car. The engine in the car you buy today has a tremendous influence on that car's value at re-sale time. More than any other part of the car, the engine determines what you will spend on its operation and maintenance through the years you own it.

So it's wise, in choosing an automobile, to consider the engine first. The Oldsmobile "88" has the "Rocket" Engine. It is the lowest-priced car with the "Rocket" Engine. And the "Rocket" is the really NEW engine... the Futuramic engine... the first high-compression power plant designed and built from the crankshaft out to give true high-compression performance.

The amazing thing about "Rocket" power is its trigger-quick responsiveness. The welcome thing about "Rocket" power is how little gasoline it uses. The most impressive thing of all about Oldsmobile's "Rocket" Engine is the way it teams up with Hydra-Matic Drive for even smoother performance... greater flexibility... greater economy.

In buying a new car today, make sure you get a new engine—one that will stay new for years and years! Oldsmobile's "Rocket" is the new, Futuramic engine of tomorrow. That's one big reason why... it's SMART to buy an OLDS!

PRINTERS WARNED AGAINST PRESSING COSTLY DEMANDS

Should Help Strengthen Industry and Increase Output, Employer Tells ITU.

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 16 (AP) —The AFL International Typographical Union was urged yesterday to avoid making costly economic demands on the printing industry.

Rather, said Thomas P. Henry Jr., the union should co-operate to strengthen the industry economically and seek to increase production with present equipment. "It is no secret," Henry said, "that the industry and its customers are seriously investigating new methods of composition."

Henry, president of the union employers section of the Printing Industry of America, Inc., told the union's ninety-first annual convention that demands which will increase costs will meet resistance.

"And there is going to be good economic support for the firm stand that employers will take," he said. "We suggest that you analyze this situation yourselves and that you temper your demands out of an appreciation of the situation which our industry faces."

"I venture to say that no cost increases which occur at this time can be passed on at all," he continued. "If any attempt is made to pass them on, sales will be lost. Some companies will not be able to cut prices and the less efficient ones, as always, will have to cut back their operations sharply.

"Thus, as we see it, the problem today is one of continuity of employment and continuity of enterprise in the commercial printing field."

Henry urged ITU members to be alert to the economic conditions which the printing industry faces and to co-operate in every move to strengthen the economic structure of the industry.

St. Louis Proposal.

A dissatisfied faction within the ITU called today for convention action to throw out the ITU's "no surrender" policy toward employer contracts.

A test vote was assured. The St. Louis delegation introduced a proposed amendment to yank the collective bargaining formula out of the ITU's by-laws. Pro-administration delegates countered with a measure to extend the union president's control over contracts.

Close associates of ITU's six-term president, Woodruff Randolph of Indianapolis, conceded the opposition little chance to upset the bargaining pattern set up in 1947.

The policy has involved the AFL affiliate in an intense two-year battle, both on the legal front and the picket lines.

At the heart of it is the ITU's bitter opposition to the Taft-Hartley act. The ITU contends the law has hit it harder than other unions because of the printers' history of closed-shop contracts and close regulation of work.

The union has been on strike against Chicago newspaper publishers since Nov. 24, 1947. It has been the target of 10 management complaints to the National Labor Relations Board. The employers accuse the ITU of attempting to avoid provisions of the Taft-Hartley act.

RUTLEDGE FUND DONATIONS TO BE ACCEPTED AT BANK

Additional contributions of $97 were received last night for the fund to finance an appeal for Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr., increasing the amount of the fund to $824. In addition, pledges of about $400 have been reported.

Industrial Bank will accept donations to the fund hereafter it was announced at a meeting attended by 50 to 75 persons at United Halls, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. The meeting was called by persons interested in obtaining the release of the St. Louis pediatrician, now serving 70 years for murder.

Donations may be mailed or taken to the bank accompanied by a deposit slip made out in duplicate to "Trustees of the Rutledge Fund," it was explained. The name, address and telephone number of the donor should be on each deposit slip. If the deposit is by mail, a stamped, self-addressed envelope should be enclosed for return of the receipted duplicate.

WARRANTS CHARGE PASSING OF 4 BAD CHECKS FOR $1000

Warrants charging passing of four bad checks totaling $1000 in St. Louis have been issued against Richard W. Hart of Chicago, police said today. He is held also for Chicago authorities in connection with alleged embezzlement of $1400 from the Veterans of Foreign Wars there.

Victims here said Hart, 27 years old, posed as a former Army colonel temporarily short of funds. Police said records show he served six months in a federal reformatory in 1946 for illegal wearing of an Army uniform.

St. Louis complainants against Hart are Charles P. Mory, 1707 O'Connell avenue, Overland, who cashed a worthless check for $350; Sheraton Hotel, $100; C. George Erhardt, 5181 Vernon avenue, $250 and Miss Ruth Schwartz, 4573 Athlone avenue, $300.

LONDON MOB TRIES TO SEIZE WOMAN WHO SCALDED BABY

Typist Saved by Police After Crowd Pulls Out Her Hair, Fights Officers.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Policemen related in court today how they saved a 25-year-old typist from a mob of 1200 persons who accused her of throwing scalding water on a 2-year-old baby.

Magistrate Herbert Malone told John Mills he would postpone the case for a week and put her in jail ni her own interest. He told her "It appears that a lot of people are after your blood."

The baby, Linda Ann Allen, was scalded on the head and face last night by water thrown from an upstairs window of the house where Miss Mills lived. Miss Mills was quoted as saying she did not know why she threw the water.

Detective-Sergeant Donald Gowan said when he and three other officers brought Miss Mills out, the crowd went wild.

"They pulled out Miss Mills's hair," Gowan tol dMalone. "I received a blow on the back of the neck and one of my men was slashed with a razor blade. We got her into the car and the crowd tried to turn it over."

WOOD RIVER GIRL IS MISSING

Police are seeking Miss Meredith Gilbert, 16-year-old Wood River girl, who has been missing since Aug. 8. Wood River police put her on a bus that night when she told them she was going to Springfield, where she would meet her father.

She had been picked up on the highway by Joe Agles, mail carrier, of Edwardsville, and his wife. They took her home, questioned her, and then turned her over to the police. Then she disappeared a second time.

Movie Theater Charge Accounts Proposed to Stimulate Business

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16 (AP)—You may soon be able to step up to the box office at the Bijou and say: "Charge it, please."

Yes, to crown such lures as free dishes, bank nights and popcorn, movie men have dreamed up new bait: Box office charge accounts.

The plan was hatched by the King brothers, three Hollywood producers. They are offering it—free—as a tonic for ailing movie profits.

The Kings, who arrived at their present eminence through an interest in slot machine movies, intend to offer their plan to the Theater Owners of America. The organization begins a convention here Sept. 12.

The plan operates this way:

A person's credit rating will be established just as it is when he opens a department store charge account. He will get a credit card. At the box office, the cashier will note the card number, name and number of guests. The customer will be billed at the end of the month.

"Most families live on budgets," Frank King says, "and the family bankroll is usually pretty thin the last few days before payday. If they knew they could pay later, a lot more people would go to the movies."

Box office credit would increase theater attendance 25 per cent, Frank estimates. No advance in prices would be necessary. In fact, bigger crowds probably would cause them to drop.

Frank ascribes the current box office slump—ticket sales have declined as much as 40 per cent in some areas—to theater men themselves.

"The big theater owners are lazy," he says. "They sit back on their haunches and sigh for the war days of big crowds and big money. But they don't go out after business. Meanwhile, grosses keep dropping."

RUSSIA RECALLS, PROMOTES ENVOY TO YUGOSLAVIA

Ambassador Lavrentiev Made a Deputy Foreign Minister — No Mention of Successor.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Russia has recalled its ambassador to Yugoslavia, which it denounced last week as an enemy of the Soviet Union, and promoted him to deputy foreign minister.

The Moscow radio announced the shift in duties for career diplomat Anatole I. Lavrentiev yesterday. The announcement made no mention of a successor in the Belgrade post.

The Russians last week addressed their sharpest note in a year of wrangling to the government of Premier-Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz. The two Communist governments have been on the outs since Tito was kicked out of the Communist Information Bureau in June 1948 for deviating from the Moscow Communist line.

Lavrentiev has served as minister to Romania and Bulgaria and once headed the Near East department of the Soviet Foreign Ministry. He also was commissar for foreign affairs of the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic, one of the 16 states in the Soviet Union.

(The United Press quoted Grigori P. Snjukov, counselor of the Russian Embassy in Belgrade and acting Ambassador, as saying the Kremlin would send a new Ambassador to Yugoslavia. Snjukov said Lavrentiev had left Belgrade for Moscow "some weeks ago." He said Lavrentiev had been ill as a result of an inflammation in his back.

(Lavrentiev was credited by western observers with having influenced Soviet policy in the Cominform's fight with Tito. These observers said Lavrentiev thought Tito could be forced to recant his nationalist theories if he was threatened with or actually expelled from the Cominform.)

Yugoslavia Expected to Bolt Soviet Voting Bloc in U.N.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 16 (INS)—Reliable information here indicates that Marshal Tito will break away in the near future from the Soviet bloc of satellites voting with Russia in the United Nations.

Tito has summoned his U.N. representative, Joza Vilfan, to Belgrade for consultations.

U.S. Ambassador Sees Stalin, Calls Visit 'Courteous, Pleasant'

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW, Aug. 12 (AP)—United States Ambassador Alan G. Kirk said today his meeting with Prime Minister Joseph Stalin in the Kremlin last night was a "courteous, pleasant visit."

The conversation lasted about 45 minutes. It was the first time any high American official had seen Stalin in nearly a year. It was reported that Stalin and Kirk sat at a long table in Stalin's office and talked in an informal and relaxed manner. Kirk said the conversation dealt with "general subjects."

Kirk said he had requested the interview with Stalin, and termed his visit a "courtesy call" according to protocol. It was the first time the 61-year-old American envoy had met the Soviet leader. Kirk, a retired admiral who succeeded Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith as ambassador to Moscow, arrived in the Russian capital in June.

All Moscow morning newspapers carried front page stories on the meeting. Soviet-American relations always are a subject of interest here.

A complete version of the meeting is being sent to Washington today. After the visit to the Kremlin was concluded Kirk, Minister Counselor Walworth Barbour and First Secretary George Morgan went directly to the American Embassy where they sent off a first account of the talk.

Barbour and Morgan accompanied Kirk to the Kremlin. On the Soviet side at the meeting, besides Stalin, were Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky and Foreign Office translator Jan Troyanovsky, son of the Soviet Union's first Ambassador to the United States.

It could not be learned whether economic questions were brought up. However, following a similar "courtesy visit" between Stalin and and the new British Ambassador, Sir David Kelly, last June, Russian receptiveness to proposals for increased trade with the west was noticeably emphasized.

Firemen All Burned Up.

FELIXSTOWE, England, Aug. 16 (UP)—The firemen of Felixstowe today had faces as red as their fire engine. Their fire engine burned up last night while they were fighting a blaze in a nearby village.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (AP)—Cash totaling $763,360 was left in a safe deposit box by Wallace Beery, an accounting of his $2,000,000 estate shows.

Government bonds worth more than $600,000 also were listed in the inventory, ordered by Superior Court to determine inheritance taxes.

The actor, who died April 15 at the age of 64, left the bulk of his estate to his adopted daughter, Carol Ann, 18; his brother, William, and his nephew, Noah Beery Jr.

Claims against the estate include those of his former wife, Mrs. Mary Areta Foyt, who seeks one half; and Gloria Schumm, movie bit player, who contends Beery was the father of her 18-month-old son. She has asked for $104,135. Beery denied paternity and specifically disinherited the infant in his will.

HOUSING UTILITY SUPPLY BID

The McCarthy-Pohl Contracting Co., 4903 Delmar boulevard, was low bidder for supplying utilities for housing projects to be built at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, District Army Engineers announced today.

The Army will begin checking qualifications of the firm before awarding the contract. The entire project is estimated to cost about $2,000,000.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Child Welfare.

AUBURN, Ind.—The following notice appeared in the St. Joe News over the name of Ted E. Haberkorn Jr., editor and publisher of the weekly newspaper:

"To whom it may concern — please don't give my kids candy or ice cream cones. I appreciate your generosity, but the little stinkers won't eat at home any more."

102 Years of Wisdom.

SAXONBURG, Pa.—"Grandma" Susan Stewart celebrated her 102d birthday and said she likes living so well she'd like to do it all over again. However there would be one difference. Instead of being a housewife, Grandma Stewart would go into business.

"I have learned a great deal in my years of living," she said, "and if I had it to do over again I'd have a tobacco store."

Fish Story.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—George E. Ebright had eight stitches in his head today, and here was his explanation:

He and Charles Woodard were walking beside Mad river, looking for a fishing spot. Woodard, who couldn't swim, fell in. Ebright dived in to rescue him. The water was only two feet deep. Ebright's head struck a rock on the bottom of the stream and he suffered a severe cut.

The eight stitches were needed to close the wound.

RUSSIA VIOLATED FRIENDSHIP PACT, CHINA DECLARES

In Reply to 'White Paper,' Nationalists Say U. S. Agrees That Reds Are 'Tools of Moscow.'

CANTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — The Chinese (Nationalist) Government today officially charged Russia had "violated both in letter and spirit the treaty of friendship and alliance between China and the Soviet Union concluded in 1945."

This was part of a statement which for the first time gave China's official reaction to the United States "white paper" on China. The statement was issued by George Yeh, acting Foreign Minister.

The statement styled the Chinese Communists "the tools of Moscow."

It also took "serious exception to the views and statements" on many questions contained in the recent white paper. The white paper said the Chinese Government had failed in its civil war with Communists and it opposed further aid for the Nationalist Government.

The statement said the Chinese Government found "a source of satisfaction" in noting the United States Government now shared two fundamental views "which the Chinese Government consistently has maintained."

These were given as:

"First, the Chinese Communists are thorough Marxists and tools of Moscow, and secondly, the Soviet Union has violated both in the letter and spirit the treaty of friendship and alliance between China and the Soviet Union concluded in 1945.

"At the same time, the Chinese Government declare that it takes serious exception to the views and statements on many other important questions contained in the white paper.

"It is not the intention of the Chinese Government to engage in a controversy over past issues to the detriment of the traditional friendship between the Chinese and American peoples and the common cause of the democracies.

"However, the Chinese Government in consideration of its stand and obligations will state more fully at an appropriate time its position and relevant facts with regard to various complex subjects dealt with in the voluminous white paper for information of the Chinese and American public so as to further the mutual understanding and cordial relations between the two peoples."

A copy of Yeh's statement was delivered to Lewis Clark, United States charge d'affaires.

GANGSTER COHEN'S HOME 'TAPPED' BY POLICE FOR YEAR

eyes when the right time comes. This was a very secret proposition."

The information was turned over to Chief Worton and Mayor Fletcher Bowron.

"Chief Worton now has the original record, which I knew nothing about until a short time ago," the mayor said. "The records probably will be turned over to the Governor's Crime Commission."

District Attorney William E. Simpson denounced the police for keeping the recordings secret and went to Worton's office to protest. He wanted to know why the evidence was withheld from county grand juries.

$8,000,000 "Proposition."

The records, covering a period from April 1947 to March 1948, allude hazily to such matters as a $8,000,000 "proposition" in Las Vegas, Nev.; bookmaking ventures involving well-known Hollywood actors as "steerers," and many long distance telephone calls to New York, Cleveland, Florida, Chicago and other eastern cities.

Eastern gang boss Frank Costello was mentioned many times.

There was discussion about the mysterious gangland murder two years ago of Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, Cohen's predecessor as local bookie king.

Just a few days before that killing there were calls from Cohen's house to San Francisco and Oakland, Calif. They mentioned an $8000 payoff and said a "certain party" must follow instructions carefully "or else."

MAN FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

Charles H. Fischer, 62-year-old painter, was found dead yesterday in his room in a rooming house at 4943 Parkview place. Nearby were an empty glass which smelled of an acid and a bottle containing the acid. The body was found by Robert Cash, proprietor of the rooming house.

Fischer's wife, who lives in Alton, said he had been in ill health.

2 FINED ON LOTTERY CHARGES

Otis Prewitt, Negro barber at 806 North Leffingwell avenue, and Wilson Moore, Negro, 5643 Julian avenue, were fined $25 each today by Police Judge John L. Waechter on charges of establishing a lottery.

Police testified they saw both writing policy slips, Prewitt in his shop and Moore in a tavern on the 2700 block of Franklin avenue.

MILLION MORE JOBS BY END OF THE YEAR PREDICTED BY TOBIN

Employment Situation Improving Steadily, Labor Secretary Tells Truman.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Tobin forecast today an inrease of a million jobs by the end of the year and a corresponding drop in unemployment.

Tobin reported to President Truman that the employment situation is improving steadily.

He told reporters on leaving the White House: "It looks very much like there will be a decided increase in employment during the next six months and that by the end of the year payrolls will be increased by approximately 1,000,000 persons."

This does not take in the possibility of a major strike in coal or steel, he said.

Tobin said there would be a substantial increase in employment and a drop in unemployment figures beginning about the middle of September. He said he based his forecast on the fact that purchasing orders to build up depleted inventories already are increasing and will continue to accelerate. He also said the employment situation would be helped by many workers returning to school in the fall.

INDIA'S EMBASSY SERVES FRUIT JUICE AT AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Fruit juices took the place of Scotch and bourbon at last night's Indian Embassy celebration of the second anniversary of the independence of India. Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, the Ambassador, was the hostess at the formal diplomatic reception.

The teetotal absence of alcoholic drinks was quite a blow to some of the regular Washington partygoers among the 750 who attended the formal affair.

However, it was in line with the teachings of the late Mahatma Gandhi, who said the India of his dreams would be wholly free of "the curse of intoxicating drinks and drugs."

STOCKS UP; MO. PAC. PFD. $5.25 A SHARE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The stock market staged a mild recovery drive today, pulling itself out of a slump and closing fractions higher.

Sales of 830,000 shares compared with 710,000 yesterday.

Sales first hour 160,000 shares; second, 170,000; third, 170,000; fourth 110,000; fifth 220,000.

Of 974 issues traded, 394 closed up, 298 down, 282 unchanged.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up .2 of a point at 64.5.

Some of the utilities were in demand, including American Power & Light and Standard Gas & Electric $4 preferred, both reaching new highs.

Missouri Pacific preferred, which the ICC ruled last week should participate in the road's reorganization, reversing a previous decision, was fifth most active issue traded today and reached a top price of 5¼.

Demand picked up late in the session for Missouri Pacific issues, seven of which staged advances ranging from fractions to 1⅛ points for the 5s of '78, which closed at 88⅞.

Missouri Pacific preferred, newly listed today, opened at 3¾ and then rose rapidly to 5, where it was traded actively. It reached 5¼ and sold back to close of 4⅞. Turnover was 12,100 shares.

U.S. Steel was active and about unchanged. Du Pont gained more than a point and touched a new high after a dividend declaration of 65c a share, an increase of 2½c a share over the rate paid before the four-for-one stock split.

Rails as a whole were about unchanged as were steels. Mostly higher were motors, motion pictures, building materials, distillers, and mail order and retail shares. A large selected group of manufacturers were up.

Better sentiment in the stock market came on the heels of statements made by two callers at the White House.

Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, told President Truman business is picking up around the country. Secretary of Labor Tobin predicted an increase of a million jobs and a fall of the same amount in unemployment by the end of the year.

Schram's purpose in visiting Truman was to lay before him a proposal for reducing taxes to stimulate investment. Schram said he wanted better tax treatment of the investment dollar. Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, both made somewhat similar pleas within the past few days.

Trend on the Curb.

Curb market stocks were mixed with prices narrow. A little higher at times were Scullin Steel, United Light & Railways, and Aluminum, Ltd. On the downside at times were New Jersey Zinc, Northrop Aircraft, Rome Cable, Calgary & Edmonton, Creole Petroleum, and Humble Oil. Active but unchanged at times were Niagara Hudson Power, Electric Bond & Share, and Fairchild Engine.

In the London market, British Government securities were offered freely as investment demand tapered off. The Governments, however, managed to close with a net gain.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The bond market developed a general mixture of small gains and losses today. Trading was quiet.

After a modest retreat in the forenoon, enough demand developed to lift a favored group of loans fractions generally and in some cases a point or so. But it was a strictly limited operation that left out large sections of the domestic list entirely and confined to hand-picked issues in the groups that did participate.

GRAINS GENERALLY ARE LOWER AT CLOSE

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—Weakness in wheat, especially the September delivery, cramped the advance of feed grains at today's Board of Trade session.

Off and on, during the session selling in the nearby wheat delivery depressed other grains, but corn exhibited considerable independent strength. At times September corn was up around a cent, the result of some commercial buying and short covering.

Oats followed the lead of corn in a modest manner, but when wheat declined near the close all deliveries slumped.

Cash grain traders placed corn bookings on a to-arrive basis at 15,000 bushels and sales at 100,000 bushels.

Wheat traders expressed disappointment because expected flour business did not materialize.

this is wealth that's REALLY shared

Just a railroad track, part of 6,500 miles of the Illinois Central lacing the length and breadth of Mid-America.

This is real wealth—working wealth. Wealth that works to bring you food, clothing, your home, all the things you live with and enjoy. Wealth that works to pay taxes to help support your schools. Wealth that spends money in your community. Wealth that last year paid out $133,000,000 in wages to 40,000 workers.

It's wealth that's really shared—because everybody in Mid-America benefits by the useful work it performs.

This Illinois Central wealth is the kind that has made America rich. Without it, our natural resources would only trickle from mines, forests and farms, and our vast industrial plants would starve for want of raw materials.

The Illinois Central has $700,000,000 invested in working wealth—an investment that makes possible an average freight rate of a fraction more than 1¢ per ton per mile. This same investment makes possible a wage rate more than double the rate of twenty years ago.

To keep this wealth in efficient running order, more wealth must constantly be added. The Illinois Central last year put $23,000,000 into new equipment and property. For we are determined that our work shall continue to earn your friendship and patronage.

DOCTOR SAYS BABY'S GRATEFUL FATHER PAID HIM BY FRAUD

Charges Man Who Offered to Keep Books Embezzled Playground Fund.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16 (UP)—Dr. Milton Tobias charged today that after he saved a baby's life, the child's father repaid him by embezzling his money.

Dr. Tomias filed suit yesterday against accountant Irving Biren. He said Biren pocketed most of a $5200 advance given him to buy property from Tobias and misrepresented the price of the land by $15,000.

He asked that he be given title to the property, a $7500 judgment and a promissory note he gave Biren for a down payment.

The doctor said Biren brought his son to him for treatment several years ago.

"The boy couldn't digest his food," said Dr. Tobias. "He was going steadily downhill until he came to me. I brought him back to health. The father couldn't do enough to express his gratitude. He told me constantly his family was his whole life."

Later, Biren begged to take care of his books for a small fee.

"He said it was his chance to do something to repay me for saving his son," Dr. Tobias declared.

Then came the alleged embezzlement in connection with the land where the doctor planned to build a playground for highly-intelligent, socially-maladjusted children.

"He used the money to build a new house," Dr. Tobias said, "bigger than mine."

MAN IS STABBED TO DEATH; ANOTHER ADMITS USING KNIFE

Willie Stewart, Negro laborer, 4117 Enright avenue, was stabbed to death in a fight with another Negro in front of a tavern at 911 North Sarah street last night. Police arrested Sylvester Williams of Kinloch, St. Louis county, who they said admitted cutting Stewart with a pocket knife.

Held as a material witness was a 25-year-old white man who gave his name as Charles K. Bain and said he was a personnel director living in the Lindell Tower Apartments, 3745 Lindell boulevard. Police said Bain had been drinking with Stewart in the tavern.

90 Days for Drunken Cycling.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 16 (UP) — Lewis Barley, 35-year-old Negro, was sentenced yesterday to 90 days at city prison farm for driving a bicycle while under the influence of alcohol. He was arrested Saturday night. Officers said he was weaving.

N.A.M. Man Criticizes Steel Firms For Agreeing to Fact Board, Says They Should Have Accepted Strike

Ira Mosher Tells Press Conference Truman Move Was Politically Inspired and That Union Maneuvered Companies Into Present Position.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.

THE National Association of Manufacturers stole the ball away from the steel companies, now appearing before a fact-finding board named by President Truman, by calling an unprecedented press conference late yesterday just as four of the smaller steel companies were sending their representatives before the board to resist the CIO Steel Workers' demand for a fourth-round "wage package" increase of 30 cents an hour.

For the press conference N.A.M. sent in as a pinch hitter Ira Mosher, chairman of its finance committee, an extremely competent, articulate and persuasive representative of the conservative if not reactionary segment of the business community. Mosher has been N.A.M.'s spokesman in recent years when congressional committees have considered labor-management legislation.

Explains Conference.

It was he who called the conference "unprecedented" and the word was no understatement.

"We have never intruded into the labor negotiations of our members, except as we are doing it today," said Mosher, who heads a New York firm of industrial and public relations consultants.

That done, he proceeded to flay right, left and center, denouncing those members of the N.A.M.—the steel companies—who had accepted the fact-finding procedure to avert a strike; President Truman for by-passing the Taft-Hartley Act to name this fact-finding board with power to recommend terms of a settlement; the board itself, and the Steel Workers' Union for making the demands it has made on the industry.

Mosher, by agreement with the steel companies, is to appear before the fact-finding board Thursday. His press conference was in the nature of a preview of what he will have to say then. It was held at the Roosevelt Hotel here—a hostelry not named in honor of "that man," but for his distant cousin who was an earlier President of the United States—Theodore Roosevelt.

The hearing now being held before the fact-finding board, Mosher said, constitutes a most serious threat to our entire economy, and undermines collective bargaining as a basis of labor-management relations.

Warning of Disaster.

This was so, he said, because the history of fact-finding boards with power to recommend terms of settlement has been that they recommend increased wages.

"In setting up a politically inspired board, and this is a politically inspired board," Mosher added, "unless this board shows a higher degree of public responsibility than others, the result may be disaster to our economy.

"That's what comes from trying to find a political solution to an economic problem."

He said President Truman, in creating the board, had ignored provisions of what he called the Wagner - Taft - Hartley law—his phrase for the statute usually known as the Taft-Hartley law, which provides, in national emergency strikes, for 80-day injunctions and for fact-finding boards that can report on the issues in dispute but cannot make recommendations for settlement.

The Taft-Hartley law itself has been criticized by other witnesses before congressional committees—men such as William H. Davis, William Leiserson and Prof. Nathan Feinsinger of Wisconsin University, as an attempt to find a political solution to an economic problem.

(Davis, a New York lawyer, was chairman of the War Labor Board in 1942-1945, and director of the Office of Economic Stabilization for about six months in 1945. Leiserson, a visiting professor at Johns Hopkins University since 1944, was chairman of the National Mediation Board in 1943-1944, and prior to that he was a member of the National Labor Relations board.)

What He Recommends.

Truman, Mosher said, in bypassing the "Wagner-Taft-Hartley law," had adopted for purpose of this inquiry the procedures of the Thomas-Lesinski bill, the Administration's Taft-Hartley repealer, which failed to get through Congress.

"Fact-finding as you have it today," Mosher added, "can only lead to compulsory arbitration and you can't have that in a free economy. The wisest course for the board to take, and the one we shall recommend to them, is to remand the controversy back to the parties."

Mosher said he was not opposed to fact-finding boards "per se" but was opposed to fact-finding boards with power to recommend terms of settlement because he thought most people regarded such boards as an acceptable method of dealing with important disputes. This might create an atmosphere of public opinion in which the steel companies would feel it difficult to resist a wage increase, should one be recommended by the board, he said.

As a matter of fact, the Taft bill which the Senate approved at this session in rejecting the Thomas-Lesinski bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act, provides for boards of inquiry in national emergency strike situations with power to recommend terms of settlement.

Mosher was asked by this reporter if his objection to boards with power to recommend terms of settlement ran also to the Taft bill, sponsored by Senator Robert A. Taft, co-author of the Taft-Hartley Act.

"Very directly," he responded, "you know, probably better than I, because you follow these things in Washington, what inspired Taft to take that position."

If there was an inference here that Taft bowed to political expediency, the writer, taking advantage of the superior knowledge on the point in question ascribed to him by Mosher, will dispute such an inference. Taft is not a man to be motivated by political expediency. His bill, which passed the Senate, but probably will not be enacted into law since labor-management legislation is bottled up in the House Labor Committee, provided for such boards because Taft had come to believe they would be more effective than boards without power to make recommendations.

Rail Labor Act Workings.

We have had since 1926 the Railway Labor Act, which also provides for boards with power to make recommendations. Mosher was asked if the N.A.M. had taken any position on repeal of that law.

He said it had not, but offered his own opinion that the law had not worked out at all as it had been intended to work and needed to be strengthened.

Having paid his respects to the "politically inspired" fact-finding board, Mosher turned his guns on the CIO Steel Workers' Union.

"Labor is pricing itself out of business," he said, "and depression can be the result. I'm not saying that it will be the result, but that it can be."

The union, he said, "planned it that way" in maneuvering the steel companies into acceptance of the presidential fact-finding board procedure.

"These fellows want a planned economy," he added. "They are advocating what amounts to a totalitarian form of government—the things they want will lead us into statism."

Mosher had not been quite so emphatic in his criticism of the steel companies, members of N.A.M., who reluctantly accepted the fact-finding procedure one month ago today to avert a nation-wide steel strike and bring about a voluntary 60-day truce in the industry. A reporter asked him to develop his statement that N.A.M. was now "opposing" some of its own members.

Pressure on Steel Companies.

"The steel companies did indicate that they were opposed to the procedure," Mosher said. "But, confronted by the force of public opinion, as they viewed it, and the pressure from the President, they did not feel strong enough to resist. I think they should have refused that sort of a board, and taken a strike, if that's what they had to take."

At the conference Mosher made public a letter N.A.M. had sent over the week-end under the signature of Earl Bunting, managing director of N.A.M., to its 15,000 members which touched on some aspects of N.A.M.'s position not mentioned by Mosher, and further developed others.

"The procedure devised by the President in this case," said the Bunting letter, "brings in and highlights all the facts of union imposed industry-wide bargaining. In fact it means far more than industry-wide bargaining because the recommendations of this board inevitably will be considered by Government, the unions, and a large part of the public, as the proper pattern for industry as a whole to follow in 1949.

"Therefore the present procedure amounts in effect to national bargaining, with all labor on one side, and all industry on the other.

"Nothing could be further from the principles of individual enterprise. Nothing could be a greater threat to the continuation of real collective bargaining and the settlement of industrial disputes in the public interest. . . .

"In our present declining economy increased costs can neither be absorbed by industry, nor passed along to the public in the form of higher prices."

Criticism of Steel Firms.

Relating that arrangements had been made for Mosher to appear before the board, the Bunting letter continued:

"In the public interest we intend to criticize not only the Administration for by-passing existing law and using an extra-legal procedure for political purposes, and the labor unions for attempting to force another wage pattern on the country, but also those members of our association who have permitted themselves to become a party to this type of procedure.

"We are well aware that a majority of the American people probably think that appointment of such a fact-finding panel is a fair and reasonable device for settling an important dispute.

"Recognizing all this, we are convinced that the present procedure is not (the word 'not' is underlined) in the public interest, and that the steel companies, as well as the labor unions and the Administration, are all parties to a process for which there is no moral, legal, economic or social justification."

Panel Proceeding.

Most of yesterday's session before the panel, as related in these dispatches yesterday, was consumed by Jules Backman, associate professor of economics at New York University, testifying for the steel companies to offset the economic presentation of the union submitted earlier by Robert R. Nathan, consulting economist.

There was time, however, to hear from representatives of four of the smaller steel companies, starting off with the Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., eleventh ranking producer in the industry.

For Allegheny the spokesman

Tiredness in London Leads to Paralysis as Disaster Nears.

By STEWART ALSOP
(Copyright, 1949.)

LONDON.

IT is now entirely possible that the collapse of Britain as a great world power will take place within the next 12 to 18 months. That is the real meaning of all the figures, all the talk about sterling balances and trade deficits.

If this is allowed to happen, plans for halting Soviet expansion in the Far East, or for placing Western Europe in a position of defense, will become sheer blithering nonsense, simply because a strong Britain is the essential ingredient of all such plans. If it is allowed to happen, the pre-conditions for a third World War will have been met. It cannot be allowed to happen.

Yet it is being allowed to happen. It is being allowed to happen because the threat of collapse is being met with melancholy weariness on this side of the ocean, and with scolding timidity on the other.

Weary Men in Britain.

The first thing to understand about the men who are governing England is that they are unutterably weary. Sir Stafford Cripps is in a Swiss sanatorium. Ernest Bevin has had to go to the south of France to rest. Herbert Morrison has been unwell for a long time. Prime Minister Clement Attlee, on whom the whole burden has now fallen, is being driven to the point of exhaustion. And on the faces of the lesser officials who are trying to grapple with the British crisis you can read a gray fatigue.

This aching weariness in the midst of towering trouble has led to something like paralysis. As one British official said to this reporter, "If anything is really to be done, the initiative has got to come from you." The kind of initiative the United States is taking was typified by the recent visit to London of Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder.

Snyder arrived purse-lipped, prepared to scold. He scolded, and left, more purse-lipped than before. Precisely nothing was accomplished. Where a bold, imaginative attempt to reverse the process which is leading to disaster is required, Snyder and the others who think like him content themselves with carping at the Socialist government for being a Socialist government.

Conflict Over Socialism.

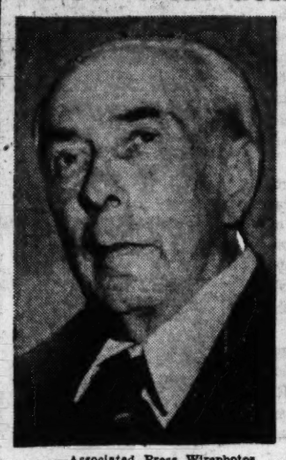

It may be true that the conflict between Socialist doctrine and the harsh realities of the British post-war position has contributed something to the paralysis. The hard fact is that if Britain is to compete in the world markets the British standard of living must fall. This fact is difficult for a Socialist government to face—it would be difficult for any government to face. Yet it is demonstrably true that, Socialist or not, the British recovery effort has been greater than that of any continental country. And the way the reduced income of the British is distributed within Britain is the business of the British, not of the United States.

What is very much the business of the United States is to give the British confidence that the crisis through which they now must pass will not be permitted under any circumstances to go so far that the British economy collapses and British world power disintegrates. For the British crisis is as much as anything a crisis of confidence, confidence in the future of the British pound, in the future of England itself.

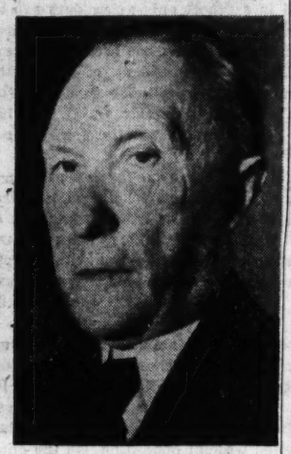

Confidence will not be restored by carping, nor by the kind of timid horror displayed by Snyder at any suggestion for action of which his more conservative banking friends might not approve. It is certainly in part because of their foreknowledge of Snyder's reaction that Cripps and Bevin, when they go to Washington next month, are likely to have in their briefcases only the most modest and tentative plans for dealing

Rightists Call Meetings to Plan New West German Government

Leaders of Christian Democrats, Who Led in Elections, Summoned—Coalition With Free Democrats Likely.

By THOMAS A. REEDY
BONN, Germany, Aug. 16 (AP).

THE new western German government, dominated by conservatives, will be forged here this weekend. Leaders of the Christian Democratic Union party, which topped Sunday's voting, were summoned today to a series of conferences with these goals:

1. Forming a coalition of right wing parties which think largely like the Christian Democrats (CDU) to establish an unchallenged majority over the Socialists who still are a major party.

2. Selecting the first chancellor, (prime minister) in Germany since Adolf Hitler and recommending a president.

The calls went out from Konrad Adenauer, chairman of the CDU, who emerged from the voting for a parliament as the most powerful single individual in west Germany's politics.

Adenauer in Seclusion.

The 75-year-old Adenauer lives near Bonn, worked to get Bonn chosen as the capital, and today is already chancellor in the minds of the most people in this Rhine river area.

Exhausted from the strain of a bitter campaign, Adenauer went into temporary seclusion after the results of the voting established his party on top. His closest associates said Adenauer probably would be meeting with the leaders of his own party toward the end of the week and that the coalition talks would start after that.

"He is not a dictator, nor can he be under our party system," said one official. "There will be no decisions announced until our people are in agreement."

The coalition talks may develop Sunday. The Free Democratic party (FDP), which won 52 seats, has offered its support to the CDU with its 139 seats. Other right wing parties which can be calculated to follow the CDU policy guarantee Adenauer's forces the necessary majority in the 400-man parliament.

Heuss May Be President.

Most observers figure the FDP forces will back Adenauer for chancellor and that the CDU may in exchange support the FDP leader, Theodor Heuss, for president. Both Adenauer and Heuss had only records of anti-Nazism.

The parliament meets Sept. 7. Though teeming with workmen in overalls, cement mixers, carpenters with hammers and bricklayers, the new parliament building will be ready for occupancy by then, Adenauer's office said.

The Socialists with 131 seats will represent a powerful minority. With only 15 places, the badly beaten Communists are a negligible factor.

Jubilant CDU men, already starting to arrive here for the forthcoming talks, discounted foreign reaction that triumph for the right wing meant a return to nationalism in Germany.

"It was a victory as much for the Americans as for us," said one leader. "It was a victory against socialization of industry and a victory for free enterprise."

NEW ROMANIAN ENVOY TO U.S.

Scholar Gives New Data on Biblical Scrolls

Some of Documents Were Mutilated by Expedition in Palestine.

The discovery in Palestine of scrolls containing parts of the Old Testament was disclosed generally for the first time last week. British archeologists charged that American experts were withholding parts of the manuscripts from them. In the following dispatch, Dr. Lawrence Griswold, American archeologist, explorer and author, of Quincy, Mass., gives his evaluation of the scrolls.

By Dr. Lawrence Griswold
Written for the United Press.

BEIRUT, Aug. 16.

FOR two full years, this generation's most momentous discovery about the history of our western civilization has been a casualty of war, vandalism and professional jealousies.

Even today, with the fighting in Palestine ended, the full story has not been told of the priceless Biblical scrolls of Jericho-Old Testament manuscripts 11 centuries older than any known in modern times.

Some of the answers are buried in ancient history. Others say some may turn up in a Cairo cafe or a New York antiquity dealer's vaults. Still more will appear as the jealously guarded files of competing scholars are opened and their monopoly of the materials is ended.

The first extensive reports on the discovery was made in London this week by G. Lankester Harding, director of antiquities for the Hashemite-Jordan Kingdom. Significantly, Dr. Harding could not assemble his report until this summer—two years after original discovery—because of the secrecy hitherto maintained. This casual reference generously conceals a sorry chapter in the annals of academic research.

Found by Goatherd.

In early autumn 1947, an Arab goatherd was grazing his stock not far from the site of ancient Jerricho, in the rock-strewn hills near the Dead Sea. There one day he discovered a cave, uncovered by a slide of earth. Inside he found rows and rows of jars, sealed with pitch. He did not know they contained Biblical documents written in Phoenician and classical Hebrew, but he did know there were dealers in Jerusalem who would pay well for antiquities. He took a load of the jars there, sold them, and then disappeared.

Russians Have 'Warlike Intent,' Gen. Wedemeyer Says at Hearing On More 'Voice of America' Funds

House Group Then Approves $11,500,000 in Additional Money—Deputy Chief of Staff Testifies U.S. Has 'A Few' Intelligence Agents in Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (UP).

THE House Appropriations Committee today voted extra funds for the "Voice of America" after hearing a military appraisal that the Russians "are warlike in their intent."

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, Army deputy chief of staff, told the committee that psychological warfare, as carried out by the Voice broadcasts, is this country's first line of defense.

He disclosed that "we do have a few" agents operating inside Russia and that our intelligence reports, though not very good now, "are improving."

The committee recommended $11,500,000 in supplemental spending by the American information program. Most of it would go to overcome Russian jamming of the Voice broadcasts. Wedemeyer said "we have received numerous reports from good sources that would indicate we are hurting them (the Russians) badly" with the broadcasts.

Part of $75,790,521 Bill.

The Voice of America item was part of a $75,790,521 bill which included an additional $5,000,000 for work on a long-range guided missile proving ground for the armed forces.

Wedemeyer said wise use of political, economic and psychological resources might make it unnecessary to use physical force. But he warned that the United States must remain militarily strong. He said Russia has 175 divisions, between 12,000 and 15,000 planes and is building 500 tanks a month.

"They don't need those forces for internal security," he said. "They must have a projected use for those materials, and they are warlike in their intent. So we have to maintain appropriate military forces while we have an aggressor nation in the family of nations."

Voice Director Also Heard.

Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen, in charge of the Voice, told the committee that the Soviets had developed "a potential for jamming vastly greater than had been suspected." Russia's great efforts to build "an iron curtain of the air waves," Allen said, must mean that "they fear the effects of the voice of democracy and freedom."

Wedemeyer recommended that this country step up its psychological warfare in countries adjacent to Russia.

"Our opportunities there appear to be very good, and then we could hope to penetrate farther into Russia and reach them also with pamphlets and with agents," Wedemeyer said.

He added that although "the life of an agent in Russia today would not be worth very much, we do have a few."

An intelligence organization within Russia must be developed slowly, Wedemeyer said. He said that "we do not get from Russia very good intelligence reports" because "our sources are very limited." "But," he added, "they are improving."

Testimony on Missiles Range.

Brig. Gen. William L. Richardson, an Air Force guided missiles expert, told the committee that the long-range proving ground probably will be completed in 1952. He said it will cost $55,000,000 instead of the originally estimated $75,000,000.

One of the important requirements for the project, Richardson said, is to have electronic and communications equipment along the proposed 3000-mile route to trace the missile's exact position in space continuously.

The launching site is being established near the Banana river on the east coast of Florida. Missiles launched there will soar over the Bahamas in their flight. Observation posts will be set up in the British-owned islands.

The committee recommended that the Secretary of Air be authorized to transfer another $7,500,000 for the missile range project from funds previously made available.

The Committee also approved funds for loans for farm housing construction under the 1949 Housing Act. It approved the full request for $25,000,000 in borrowing authority for the Agriculture Department and $2,000,000 in cash for grants and loans to speed up farm home construction. It cut $1,000,000 from the $4,000,000 request for administrative expenses.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Unworthy of a Gentleman

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

As a citizen who has voted for Joseph M. Darst on every occasion his name has been presented for nomination or election, I should like to express my sense of the principle involved in the case of Fire Chief Egenriether.

From friends and acquaintances who knew Mr. Darst and his good standing in the community, I had always received assurances of his being not only an able executive, but also and especially a man of fine character and high principle—a gentleman.

With the best will in the world I have been unable to see the Mayor's handling of this matter—the projected reduction of the force, the offered resignation of Chief Egenriether, the quick acceptance of that resignation, and then the prompt retraction of the reduction plan and the refusal to reconsider Frank Egenriether's resignation, as an exhibition of high principle, or fair dealing, or gentlemanly conduct. It not only looks bad, it is bad.

An eminent contemporary writer on the problems of modern society has written as follows, concerning "the gentleman":

"In this state of mind man delights in his own magnanimity, and gratifies himself with playing fair. He will defend his cause, but without ceasing to respect the other fellow's rights. This explains the manners of the gentleman, his sense of justice, his veracity, his perfect self-control based on previous control of his surroundings; his clear awareness of his personal claims on others and others on him, viz., his duties. He would not think of using trickery. What is done must be done well, and that is all there is to it."

Many besides myself have felt that in this civic episode Mayor Darst has not done well, and look forward to his voluntary correction of a serious error in judgment, in the belief that he is a big enough man to re-establish the principle of fairness by righting the wrong that has been done. Surely Joseph M. Darst will prove himself to be the man of character and principle his friends have felt him to be.

It should now be clear that nothing so much as the breach of good faith lessens the prestige of our cherished democracy and incites the kind of resentment and violence that leads to the undemocratic regimes we rate as inferior to our own. The very honor of our city has been largely placed in our Mayor's hands. It is all the more important, therefore, that other matters should not be allowed to submerge this particular case into the limbo of things done and forgotten. There are many who will not be willing to forget, and because of their respect and regard for Mr. Darst, would make this clear to him.

A substantial wrong has been done to a good public servant and to the City of St. Louis and its citizens. That wrong should be promptly, and without bitterness or recriminations, righted.

J. D. HIRSCHBERG.

Public So-Called Service

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

For the past two years we have been constantly robbed by a money-hungry Public Service Co.

Why don't they quit spending so much money telling us what the fares are in only a few large cities? Why don't they quit spending money blasting our ears with atrocious music and advertising on their radios? (Does anyone like them?) Why don't they quit giving even the least officials new cars to parade around in?

JIM POWERS.

Let's Revive the U.S.O.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have read with considerable interest your articles on the recent rise in crime committed by service men and also articles regarding the reactivating of the U.S.O.

It seems to me that this is the perfect solution to this problem as the majority of crimes committed by these service men involve the age bracket who need this type of wholesome entertainment to keep them off the streets.

We have perfect locations in either the Soldiers' Memorial or the Kiel Auditorium. The city could donate this space as a gesture of thanks to these men.

The many civic, business, and veterans' organizations as well as the people at large would donate money and staff for this center if they were approached, as would the many persons who served with the U.S.O. during wartime. The Community Chest, which supported this U.S.O., could again set aside contributions for this needed enterprise.

There are many former hostesses of the U.S.O. such as myself who would deem it a privilege to serve our young citizens, and many of our war veteran husbands would also volunteer to help out.

ROSE MAYER.

Silence Those Radios!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Let's have silence on the busses and streetcars. With thousands of others I protest this unwarranted radio program.

M. R. BROWN.

Inventors, Arise!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

After reading the interesting and well-informed letter by Leonard A. Yerkes Jr. of Wilmington, Del., in which he points out that every product made by du Pont has a competitor on the market, I would like to ask him what competes with Freon 12, the refrigerant that is used in practically all modern household refrigerators, air conditioners, deep freezers and any other kind of domestic and commercial refrigeration equipment? Along the line of his thinking, nothing could be done by du Pont if ever a new and better refrigerant would be developed; inventors to the fore!

ERNEST BRAUNER.

P.S. This is from a small business man who got stung by this monopoly.

With an Eye on the Star

If there is any fixed star in our constitutional constellation, it is that no official, high or petty, can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion, or other matters of opinion, or force citizens to confess by word or act their faith therein.

Basing himself on this dictum of Mr. Justice Jackson, and on the decisions of the United States Supreme Court, Baltimore's Judge Joseph Sherbow has declared Maryland's anti-subversive Ober law to be unconstitutional and invalid.

This is one of all too many state laws adopted in recent years to force on teachers and other public employes a loyalty oath which is a reflection on their honor, and to protect a free nation by denying its citizens the right to associate freely with fellow-citizens of their own choice. The Ober law not only penalized subversive activities, but also sought to punish mere membership in organizations deemed to be subversive.

"Laws may punish acts and conduct which clearly, seriously and imminently threaten substantive evils," said Judge Sherbow, "but they may not intrude into the realm of ideas." And he is right not only by the standards of the Constitution and the Supreme Court, but also by the standards of common sense.

Thought control in a free nation is unthinkable. Also, it is impossible. All it can lead to is a Gestapo which would try to suppress that free voicing and criticizing of ideas without which progress and decency come to an end.

This Baltimore test case is incidentally interesting because Frank B. Ober who headed the commission which wrote the repudiated law also sought to impress his views on Harvard University. It was his letter to President Conant which brought forth Grenville Clark's brilliant exposition of that freedom of thought and expression which has been a central principle in the history of Harvard and in the history of the United States.

The fallacy of the Ober point of view has been so often exposed that one almost regrets that Maryland's Attorney General plans to carry Judge Sherbow's decision to the state's Court of Appeals. On the other hand, this will afford an opportunity for its repudiation on Maryland's highest judicial level.

If denunciations of these attempts to wipe out the First Amendment are solemn enough, they may convince scared legislators that the American cause cannot be advanced by destroying American ideals, that totalitarianism and dictatorship cannot be overcome by aping the methods of totalitarians and dictators.

Mr. Darst's Bitter Medicine

Thirteen days after the shady maneuver that made Fire Chief Egenriether resign, Mayor Darst still finds that he can't quit talking about it. And the more he talks, the deeper and more foolishly he becomes entangled in this web of his own making.

The current excuse is: "I have no information that Egenriether is interested in returning to the department." Well, the Mayor has certainly done everything he could to destroy the man's interest.

"In view of some published statements which I think are irresponsible," the Mayor says, "I will make certain facts public in a few days." Is this a hint that he is going to spring charges that Mr. Egenriether was incompetent or guilty of wrongful acts?

If so, the Mayor should have made charges and brought the Fire Chief to trial instead of resorting to a squeeze play to make him resign. Why does he still keep the "facts" to himself? And why did he say a few days ago that Egenriether might be reinstated in a subordinate position?

As a letter-writer says, the whole episode "not only looks bad, it is bad." If the Mayor has a case against Mr. Egenriether why does he not say what it is, and say so without more stalling? If he does not have a case, why does he not admit that he made a glaring mistake and tear up the Egenreither resignation? There's no face to be saved by stalling.

The best way to make up for a mistake is to undo it and to hope that it will be forgotten—or to prove that it was not a mistake. If the Mayor believes he can do that, why didn't he do so at the very start?

Note on Public Enemies

Not so long ago Pretty Boy Floyd's name became folklore, and John Dillinger was accredited the title of Public Enemy No. 1 as if he'd been knighted with it. Now a new Public Enemy No. 1 has been captured in Louisville and, as it turns out, is named Earl Bircham. Probably not one person in a hundred would know his name, and fewer would know that he was a bandit who broke out of three jails.

What's happened since those days when "shooting it out" with the law almost attained the interest of a national sport? Now the country is definitely less interested in hoodlums than in foreign affairs. The style in Public Enemies has changed, and today Americans devote their anxieties to Communists instead of criminals, and to the possibility of atomic warfare instead of tommygun murders.

So we progress.

The new Public Service Co. refrain: Pennies, pennies, let's have those extra pennies.

A Tidelands Partnership?

The Supreme Court has held that the Federal Government possess paramount rights in the California tidelands and that the question is still open as to other oil-producing coastal states. Yet a proposition is ready to be put before Congress that would lodge control in the states and merely take the Federal Government in on the profits as a junior partner.

The states under this scheme would get five-eighths of the public revenues from oil developments within the three-mile mark (except in Texas, where the mark is set at 10½ miles); the Government would take the other three-eighths. From the three-mile mark outward to the edge of the continental shelf, which is 190 miles offshore in the Gulf, the states and the Government would divide 50-50.

Compromises are a fine thing in many situations, but this controversy deals with principles so fundamental that compromise becomes a sell-out. If the Government owns the tidelands, the states have no claim at all except to such charity as the Government may decide to give them. State control would mean continued private oil exploitation without regard to the national interest. Yet these offshore oil reserves might be the difference between victory and defeat if war came again to this country. This possibility has led President Truman to call them vital resources "which are—and must remain—vested in the Federal Government."

Neither the fundamental question of who owns the tidelands nor the fundamental problem of conserving this crucial resource can be settled by a mere scheme to bribe the Federal Government with a part of the revenues.

Syrian Miniature

Described in a report only a few days ago as an "explosive new personality" in the Near East, the myth of Husni el Zaim has been quickly exploded. The dictator-president of Syria was executed in an army revolt 138 days after he took office through a similar revolt, proving again that nationalism is not the same as national unity.

Syrians fought the French for independence, and then trod a careful path between the strategic interests of Russia and the oil interests of the West. But their country remains on the verge of bankruptcy, too familiar with corruption, medieval in a republican mold and weak enough to have been easily defeated by little Israel.

In this ripe field, the ambitious Zaim became both reformer and authoritarian. He has often said that Syrians had to be told what to do. He told them. He abolished much of the press, jailed old friends and new opponents, and had himself elected without opposition. On the other hand, he introduced price controls, tried to emancipate Moslem women and broke up some of the big family trusts which customarily ran the nation.

But the atmosphere of palace cabal did not change, and the principal power of the country remained with the army. When Zaim was shot, the coup was engineered by the same friend who helped arrange Zaim's own succession to power. Today the army clique promises to continue reforms. As to foreign affairs, the clique apparently will be more attentive to Britain than to France, which Zaim appeased.

It's difficult to see much in the Syrian revolution except a clash of ambitions and personalities, and Syrians accept it without tension. Shopkeepers in Damascus took down Zaim's portraits and duly waited for those of his successor. The whole picture is one of domination of the apathetic many by the aggressive few.

Under such circumstances the few deny themselves popular support. So they may always wonder when their allies will suddenly become their executioners.

Of Interest in Missouri, Too

While Missourians, and St. Louisans in particular, think over the Schermer report recommendation for the abolition of segregation in schools, it is of interest to note the latest development in this field in Illinois. The recent Illinois Legislature passed a provision denying state aid to public school districts which segregate pupils because of race, color or nationality. Since this provision is part of a bill appropriating $100,319,000 state aid to local districts, its application is of importance to those school areas which have segregated races.

Non-segregation is the widespread practice in Illinois but in the southern section quite a few districts have their own systems of separate schools. Some have separate grade schools, but eliminate segregation in high school. Whatever the practice of segregation it will amount to a legal forfeit of the district's state aid. That is the substance of a ruling by Attorney General Elliott, himself resident of Carmi, deep in Southern Illinois. It is, says Mr. Elliott's ruling, the duty of the County Superintendent of Schools to "withhold payments" when the law is not complied with. The ruling was asked by State Superintendent of Instruction Nickell.

This will mean adjustments in some communities and court tests perhaps in some cases. In the end, there can be little doubt that the Legislature which grants the state aid can set the conditions under which that help will be given. The ultimate court decision is already as good as written.

The Most Annihilated Army

The latest report on the Greek military situation provoked a search of newspaper files for official views on the subject, with the following monotonous results:

August 1947—Greek Army is mopping up defeated guerrillas, Athens says.

December 1948—Secretary Marshall says Greek army is closer to complete victory.

March 1949—President Truman reports signs that Greek tide is turning against rebels.

May 1949—Athens says guerrillas are short of men, a third now are women.

June 1949—Information reaching State Department says the tide is finally turning.

What, again?

The Vice President seems to have a Fair Deal and St. Louis is the chief whistle stop.

Fake Fight on SPA

Long ago it was established that the public gets the benefits from publicly produced electricity only when the public also owns the lines from dams to markets. The House observed this truism when it approved a $9,000,000 appropriation for the Southwestern Power Administration. But the Senate Appropriations Committee cut out the transmission lines, slashing the appropriation to $3,874,000.

Upholding the committee, Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, which is one of the five states in the SPA area, says that building the transmission lines would lead to "the nationalization of electricity in the United States." That's a poor excuse for a scare. There is a shortage of power in the region, so there is plenty of room for both public and private operations.

The law gives municipal systems and farmers' electric co-operatives first call on the public power. So the question is whether private utilities shall be allowed to transmit and collect tribute on electricity that was marked for public distribution even before the dams were built.

What Elmer Thomas means is that he wants the utilities to monopolize the region. Surely, the Senate will not stand for that.

Up in Chicago it was 2-column headline news that attendance of 9814 at Ravinia Park's open air music festival broke all records. Hereabouts the fact that "Roberta" hung up a new Muny Opera record of 11,983 went under a 1-column head. Modest St. Louis.

Town Meeting Democracy: a Myth

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Orators still call the New England meeting the gem of popular government, but two surveyors find it is nearly dead; few people attend and little important business is done; they think the cause is advanced centralization and professionalization of human affairs.

John W. Alexander and Morroe Berger, of the Columbia University Faculty, in the American Mercury

On Oct. 4, 1948, a New England town which we shall call Winston celebrated its annual political holiday. The townspeople voted for local officials, participated in a parade, and some of them looked forward to the town meeting in the evening. About 2300 of Winston's 2600 registered voters cast their ballots, but fewer than 200 citizens were interested enough to attest to the vitality of "pure democracy" by going to the town meeting.

Thorstein Veblen

It wasn't that the meeting wouldn't take up important local matters. There was the town budget to be voted upon, a decision on new street lights to be made, a report on sewage and water supply to be presented, and finally, the results of the day's election were to be announced. Not many Winston townsfolk considered this agenda worth their personal attention. The meeting produced fewer than half a dozen questions and no hot arguments; it proceeded rather perfunctorily to its close an hour and 15 minutes after it had begun.

Object of Sentimental Folklore

This was the New England town meeting. It is an institution which we, perhaps like many others, had come to venerate as the last stronghold of pure democracy because we had read so many laudatory accounts of it. But we had no first-hand knowledge until we examined it recently during a survey of three New England towns which we conducted for the Columbia University School of Engineering.

Speaking in Massachusetts last fall, Gov. Earl Warren proclaimed: "It is neither necessary nor desirable for the national government to depart from the spirit of the old town meeting of New England." To our surprise we found these praises mainly folklore, a sentimental devotion to a past misunderstood and a present vastly exaggerated.

How are we to interpret New Englanders' lack of interest in an institution which has won the deep (if ritualistic and uninformed) respect of Americans from other sections of the land? An easy answer is to say that the political apathy supposedly characteristic of the large urban centers has now developed in smaller communities as well.

A Casualty of Bigness

The real answer, we think, lies elsewhere. Bigness has come to the American small town. This, in its economic aspect, is nothing new. Thorstein Veblen, the great American social thinker, a quarter-century ago pointed to the influence of Big Business in the rural community: "It has been falling into the position of a way-station in the distributive system, instead of a local habitation where a man of initiative and principle might reasonably hope to . . . bear his share in the control of affairs without being accountable to any master-concern 'higher-up' in the hierarchy of business."

What we are now witnessing in the decline of the town meeting as an effective instrument of self-government is the political side of the economic process to which Veblen referred. Business has become national in organization, market and general focus of interest; the economic unit is no longer a small area, a town or region—it is the entire stretch of country to the West and the South.

And government has followed this broadening and centralizing tendency, too. The result is that the reach of the town meeting has become relatively smaller, while the reach of state and federal power has extended farther and farther.

May as Well Stay Away

The issues that touch our lives intimately today are the issues that are grappled with and settled at the level of the state and federal government, and by economic forces beyond the ken, much less the control, of the small community. Big Government and Big Business and Big Labor deal with these problems. The town meeting is powerless to affect their solution. We think, then, that the New Englander who goes to a movie or listens to the radio while the town meeting drones on is not necessarily remiss in fulfilling his obligation or in exercising his rights as a citizen.

The old powers of town meetings, themselves of only limited significance for most persons, have passed to local elective and appointive officials. Representative democracy has displaced the "pure democracy" of the town meeting as the effective means of local self-government.

Governmental functions of the town meeting were transferred to town agencies soon after the town meeting itself developed in the colonial period. Very early, therefore, the town meeting took on a non-governmental role as an expression of community solidarity, and town meeting time became a day of festivity and reunion among friends and acquaintances who might not often see each other throughout the year.

Coffin for a Sacred Cow

Today, however, fewer and fewer New England town meetings serve even this social function. People nowadays don't come into contact very often with persons who belong to different social groups except in a fleeting way; we live segmented lives, with but infrequent overlapping of the separate parts of our existence. Community activities have become specialized and departmentalized: we join special groups for special purposes, and we no longer tend to belong to generalized community groups, such as the town meeting.

It is self-deception to pride ourselves on the town meeting when it apparently doesn't function where it is supposed to, and when its role is misunderstood. The town meeting is a sacred cow that deserves to be laid to rest.

Between Book Ends

Political Scene to the South

LATIN AMERICAN POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT, by Austin F. Macdonald. (Crowell, 642 pgs., $)

Despite the publication of a respectable number of economic, sociological and historical studies of the Latin American countries, as well as numerous books of travel, students of government hitherto have taken a dim view of the possibilities of subjecting the turbulent Latin American scene to the academic discipline of Political Science. Confronted with the apparently hopeless instability of Latin American politics, both writers and teachers have preferred to till in more settled—if less glamorous—fields.

With the publication last year of R. H. Fitzgibbon's translations of Latin American constitutions and Macdonald's volume this year, however, Political Science has staked out a durable claim in the Latin American field.

Austin F. Macdonald

Macdonald's book represents the first effort at a systematic survey of all the Latin American states with major emphasis on their governments and politics. Although newspaper correspondents (Sharp, Gunther, Tomlinson) have written breezily of individual Latin caudillos and general introductions to Latin America have usually included brief and fragmentary sections on "Government," no one previously has attempted to deal in scholarly fashion with the politics of all the sovereign areas of Latin America.

In order to conform to the realities of Latin American governments, Macdonald devotes considerable space to the struggles among rival leaders and factions. He also indicates briefly the more basic forces (poverty, concentration of land ownership in the hands of the few, foreign influence, geographical factors, among others) which account for chronic instability. In the case of states such as Bolivia, Paraguay and most of the Central American republics, where dictatorship is virtually traditional and a "revolution" merely an election device, the description of constitutional aspects of government is relegated to a brief page or two.

Although containing no chapters on the important colonial possessions in the Western Hemisphere and omitting entirely an analysis of the Inter-American System (Pan American Union and the new Organization of American States), the book is a rather long one; for, Professor Macdonald finds it as impossible in print as he finds it in his classrooms at the University of California (Berkeley) to resist the temptation to incorporate entertaining tales of human interest and travel notes.

For those with a genuine interest in Latin American political developments, this essentially pioneering study provides an indispensable point of departure.

The Silent Contemplatives

BURNT OUT INCENSE, by the Rev. M. Raymond, O.C.S.O. (P. J. Kennedy & Sons, 457 pgs., $3.50.)

In "Burnt Out Incense," fictionized history, the story is told of the Trappist monastery at Gethsemani, Kentucky. The title derives from the 43 men who, more than a century ago, knelt in the chapel of the newly-founded home of the Cistercians, the first in America, "and offered themselves as incense to be burnt out for God." These were the first, but since that there have been hundreds of others who have joined the order of silent contemplatives as incense to be burnt out.

The author himself is a member of the order who has entered the monastery to be burnt out with the rest. Although the history is "romanced," with dramatic embellishments, it is derived from original sources and follows closely the factual history of the institution. The story begins with the departure of 44 Trappists from France in 1848 and ends with the centennial celebration last year.

MARQUIS CHILDS

The Activities of Harry Vaughan

MAJ. GEN. HARRY H. VAUGHAN, the President's military aid, is an ideal target for these hot-weather days in the political shooting gallery. He is big, bumptious, loud, bespangled with medals.

His capacity to put his foot in his mouth appears to be unlimited. The outsider, hearing the ping, ping as the congressional sharp - shooters hit the target, wonders why the President tolerates him.

Maragon

This is an inside view. It is the explanation of those who have watched Vaughan develop into a front-page figure to the intense discomfiture of all concerned, including and most particularly the general himself.

You begin with the Vaughan temperament. Vaughan displays to his intimates the good-natured friendliness of a Newfoundland dog. He wants to be patted, to be admired, and the only difficulty is that now and then he thinks he is a lap dog.

A Good Guy.

As secretary and chief assistant to Truman when he was in the Senate, Vaughan was useful and unfailingly loyal. When constituents from Missouri came in to complain that they were getting the runaround from this bureau or that agency, Vaughan would get on the phone and fix it up. He suggests, in fact, a rather common type in the maze of bureaucratic Washington—the good guy who knows the right people and who, for a price, or, maybe, for nothing at all but a lot of gratitude, a few drinks and a good dinner, can solve your little problem.

Translated to the White House, Vaughan found himself in an element that was at first not to his liking. The office of military aide is an empty one, its function being largely ceremonial. The general had a lot of time on his hands.

Importuning Friends.

As with everyone else near the seat of power, Vaughan found himself importuned by former friends seeking favors out of government. He might properly have replied, as did others in the President's official family, that he had no business intervening in this or that department.

But the general was almost always ready to go to bat for a friend. That word soon got around Washington, and so friends and friends of friends in increasing numbers put the touch on the general.

The President is convinced that Vaughan has never taken money or even any substantial "gifts" for his intervention. If the President is proved wrong in this conviction, then his military aide will quickly move out of the White House.

The deep-freeze that made the headlines is an interesting example. Vaughan's friend, John Maragon, the Greek-American from Kansas City, persuaded the general the deep-freeze would be useful in the commissary established by the White House staff shortly after Truman became President. Why, sure, the general allowed, it might be useful.

Not Easily Squelched.

The boys had fixed up a lunchroom so they wouldn't have to take time to go outside for lunch at noon. That is where the deep-freeze is today—in the White House commissary operated by the staff. And, while he was about it, the general thought it would be nice to give four other freezers to his pals.

Vaughan's activities have caused his chief frequent concern. Three times the President asked his military aide not to bring Maragon into the White House.

But Vaughan is not one to squelch easily. An ambitious man, he saw others around the President being built up in the press. He has the same kind of loyalty to old friends that Mr. Truman has.

So the telephone calls continued. "This is Gen. Vaughan at the White House. I've got Joe Doakes sitting here in my office and he tells me that . . ."

Danger of Indifference.

While it may differ in kind, this form of activity is not substantially unlike the activity of President Roosevelt's aides in the palmy days of the New Deal. Part of it is the simple political formula of rewarding your friends and punishing your enemies.

Two years ago the hot weather shooting gallery was the Howard Hughes investigation. With the aid and advice of a highly paid publicity firm, Hughes turned the tables on the investigators and one of the prime targets became Senator Brewster of Maine, who was alleged to have been given free rides by Pan-American Airways and to have taken other perquisites for favors done. The danger is that with these repeated cries of alarm, the public may finally become indifferent and when something really important, like the Teapot Dome, is uncovered the significance of it will be missed.

By MYLES STANDISH

There were some good moments of low comedy in Municipal Opera's sixth revival of Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill," which opened last night, and the score is a fetching and tuneful one, so there was enough for a pleasant evening for the crowd of 11,000 persons. But there were also lots of cracks, not wise, either, in the structure of the old mill, and the Muny people didn't succeed completely in eliminating the creaking sound it's apt to give off when run after these 43 years, so the production was a comedown from the standards of the two previous shows.

Jack Goode and Tim Herbert are a good journeymen combination for Con Kidder and Kid Conner, the hare-brained Americans let loose in Holland. They had a fine pantomime knockabout with a ladder on their entrance. Their waiter scene, with Leonard Elliott serving capably as their victim, was low and slapsticky and funny, even if they did lift at least one gag from the similar Leon Errol scene in "Sally." They did everything but throw a custard pie and they'll probably get around to that before the week's over. But some of their own material did not come off quite as well—it was makeshift and lacked polish. The boys can be a lot droller than that.

The other comedy, involving the innkeeper, burgomaster and sheriff (Billy Lynn, Edwin Steffe and Robert Bernard) showed the need of pepping up in the writing. The opera didn't have access to the revised version of the book which was seen in the Broadway revival at the American two years ago. It was forced to gag up the script here and there, but quite often the gags were either tepid or unoriginal. So, as we remember it, the Broadway revival at the American was much funnier. It's probably an unfair comparison, in view of the difference in time available to whip the shows together, but it's one you can't dodge.

Two of the prettiest tunes, "The Isle of Our Dreams" and "Moonbeams," were adequately handled by Peggy Engel and Jon Crain as the romantic leads. In addition, they gave Crain an interpolated solo, Herbert's "Neapolitan Love Song," probably because he's a local boy they wanted to show off. Crain, last seen here in the touring English version of "The Barber of Seville" last season, appeared less at home in musical comedy. Matter of fact he seemed scared stiff and lost on the huge stage and seemed to be forcing his tenor a bit. But it has a fine lyric quality and he should be able to improve his acting with experience, to complement it properly. Betty Ann Nyman made a saucy Tina, the barmaid, and proved a deft dancer. Melton Moore, who's served in stock parts all season, finally got a plum to sing, as the governor, in "Every Day Is Ladies' Day With Me," and did it nicely enough.

This is hardly a children's show, but Muny Opera elected to make it the kiddie special of the season, by introducing a children's chorus which time-stepped its way through two numbers with a great deal of juvenile charm, and attracted a large number of contemporaries in the audience. As to the grown-up chorus, the "In Old New York" dance number was executed with spirit, if not originality. But the "Moonbeam Ballet," in spite of Bettina Rosay, a competent ballerina, was hardly intoxicating. Watson Barratt came through with two handsome sets, the first a solid-looking mill and inn, and the second a tulip garden.

The show, the second to last of the season, runs through Sunday night.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

PLANS have been completed for the marriage Wednesday, Sept. 14, of Miss Anne Pickering Kieffer and Stuart White Morshead of Berkeley, Calif. The afternoon ceremony will take place at the Church of St. Michael and St. George, the Rev. Dr. J. Francis Sant officiating. A garden reception will be given afterward by the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Roland Spurlock Kieffer, 23 Clermont lane, Ladue.

Mrs. James Selwyn Niedringhaus (Lois Kieffer) will be her sister's matron of honor. Miss Janet McAfee, Miss Frances D'Oyly Hughes, whose marriage to William B. Jones Jr. will be an event of Oct. 1; Mrs. Robert Harris Cobb Jr. (Jean Jones) and Miss Silvine Harrold, Macon, Ga., have been chosen as bridesmaids by Miss Kieffer.

Mr. Morshead is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart Morshead of Berkeley, who, with the prospective bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley White Morshead of San Francisco and Woodside, Calif., will come to St. Louis for the wedding. Frederick Payne Jr. of Berkeley will be best man and three cousins of the bride-elect, Daniel G. Reid, Albion, Mich.; Robert Carter Reid, Albion and Detroit, and William T. Kieffer Jr., St. Louis, with Phillip Lively, San Jose, Calif.; Klaas Bol, Palo Alto, Calif., and Stanley Dickover Jr., Berkeley, will be ushers.

Parties for the bride-to-be include a luncheon and shower Tuesday, Sept. 6, which Mrs. Paul F. Titterington will give at the University Club. Miss McAfee will be hostess at a similar party Thursday, Sept. 8, at the St. Louis Country Club honoring Miss Kieffer and Miss Hughes, and Mrs. William T. Kieffer, 217 North Bemiston avenue, Clayton, aunt of the bride-elect, will give a buffet supper for the members of the wedding party Saturday, Sept. 10. Several other parties are being planned, the dates of which are not definite.

Miss Jo Ann James, post-debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William M. James, 7 Edgewood road, Ladue, wil arrive home today from Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., where she was a bridesmaid Saturday at the wedding of Miss Joan Patricia Wood and John Kennedy Spafford Jr. Miss James was a former classmate of the bride at Wellesley College. After a visit of three weeks with her family, Miss James will return to New York City where she attends the New York Phoenix School of Design. Last month she joined her parents at Martha's Vinyard for a few weeks' vacation, remaining in the East when they returned home.

Mrs. Foster Holmes, 2 South Elizabeth avenue, Ferguson, and her son, Lambert, will depart tomorrow for Three Lakes, Wis., where Mrs. Holmes's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Lynn Holmes, is at Camp Minne-wonka Lodge. After attending a horse show at the camp, in which Miss Holmes will appear, Mrs. Holmes and her daughter and son will return to St. Louis.

MRS. G. WILLIAM MOORE Who is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Rick, 7215 Pershing avenue. She and Mr. Moore, who live in Nutley, N. J., arrived Aug. 8. Mr. Moore returned to Nutley last weekend; she will spend three weeks here.

Mrs. Walker MacMillan, 520 East Monroe avenue, Kirkwood, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Charles S. Glasgow, in Lexington, Va. Mr. MacMillan, who accompanied her to Lexington, has returned and recently had as his guest, Col. Murray Edwards of Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, who stopped in St. Louis en route to Virginia after a trip ot Montana. He also spent several days with the William S. Putnams of North Warson road, St. Louis county.

Recently returned from an eastern vacation are Mr. and Mrs. Lon Hocker Jr., 7637 Shirley drive, Clayton, and their two children, Priscilla Sands and Lon III. The Hockers, who were gone a month, spent two weeks at Block Island, R. I., where they took a cottage. Afterward they motored to Cornwall, Conn., to visit her mother, Mrs. Benjamin Jerome Sands.

Mrs. John F. Conrad, 7191 Washington avenue, University City, has as her guests her son and daughter-in-law, Comdr. and Mrs. Edward E. Conrad, and their children. Comdr. Conrad arrived Sunday from Key West, Fla., where he is stationed on the submarine, U.S.S. Corporal; Mrs. Edward Conrad came from Denver with her baby who was recently born there. The baby, Theodore John, was christened yesterday afternoon at St. Francis Xavier (College) Church.

Comdr. Conrad's sister, Miss Bebe Conrad, and Miss Dorothy McCoy are at Mackinac Island, Mich., where they are guests at the Grand Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Marsh and their children, Marilyn and Dickie, of 225 West Jewel avenue, Kirkwood, are at Pine Harbor Inn near Brainerd, Minn., where they will spend three weeks.

FRED WEHRENBERG ESTATE $651,200

Total Reflects Increases in Value of Some Theaters He Owned.

Large increases in the value of some neighborhood theaters are shown in the inventory of the estate of Fred Wehrenberg, pioneer film theater owner, which was filed at Clayton today. The inventory gives the actual present value of the estate as $651,200.

Wehrenberg, who built the first theater in St. Louis exclusively for motion pictures, a nickelodeon called the Cherokee, on the South Side street of that name, died May 6. He left $50,000 to employes of his theaters, and $2000 each to the Better Films Council and Child Conservation Council. The widow, Mrs. Gertrude Wehrenberg, inherited the bulk of the estate.

Stocks, the principal item of the estate, are listed in the inventory as having an actual value of $304,761. Notes and interest form a $223,329 item; accounts, $68,027; cash, $14,652; goods and chattels, $5430, and real estate, $35,000.

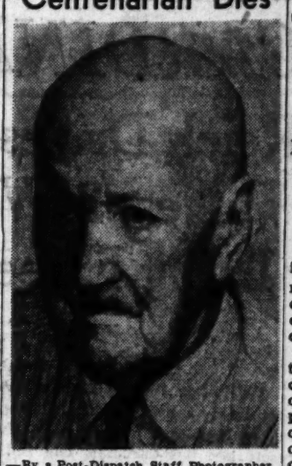

In the column of stocks held by the estate, one of the largest increases in value shown is in stock of Flexer Drive-In Theaters, Inc. The estate holds 8900 shares of this stock, with par value of 10 cents a share. The inventory states its actual value as $8 a share, or $71,200.

Stock of the South Side Amusement Co., par value $100, has a present actual value of $250 per share, the inventory states, and the Wehrenberg holding of 448 shares is therefore listed at $112,000. There are 75 shares of Pine Lawn Amusement Co., par value $100, stated to be worth $400 a share, making the holding worth $30,000. Holdings in the Savoy Amusement Co., originally valued at $4000, are stated to be worth $8000.

Some other theater stocks, however, are not credited with any gain in value, and one is stated to have declined. Holdings in Apollo Theater, original value $4900, are stated to be worth the same now; stock in Normandy Theater Inc., original value $15,100, has also failed to increase; and shares in Movie Enterprise Co. Inc., originally worth $1100, are at the same value now. North Side Amusement Co., 550 shares, original value $55,000, is listed as now worth $44,000.

The items of notes and accounts receivable show dealings of Wehrenberg with some of the theater ventures. A note from Movie Enterprises Inc. for $175,000 is payable in seven annual installments, the first installment of $25,000 being due Oct. 1. A loan of $52,946 made to South Side Amusement Co. in 1931 has been paid to the amount of $33,900, leaving $19,046 due. The inventory mentions as Wehrenberg's property the equipment and furnishings of the Cinderella, Melba, Southway, Michigan, Lemay, Virginia and Yale theaters.

CORNELIUS KELLEHER DIES; 101 YEARS OLD

Retired Valhalla Crematory Head Became Ill Two Days Ago at Nursing Home.

Cornelius Patrick Kelleher, retired superintendent of Valhalla crematory, died today at the age of 101.

Mr. Kelleher had been active until two days ago when he became ill and took to his bed at the Ozark Nursing Home in Des Peres, St. Louis county. He died at 2 o'clock this morning.

A baseball fan and a Cardinal rooter for many years, he insisted on hearing the broadcast of yesterday's game with the Chicago Cubs despite his illness. "I'll listen to that game even if it kills me," he said.

Although blind, Mr. Kelleher was in good health during his last years. At the nursing home, where he had lived since the latter part of 1946, he spent most of his time smoking his pipe and listening to the radio.

His 100th birthday was a gala affair and he danced with an old-time friend, Mrs. T. S. Yerby of St. Louis, to show his agility. His last birthday, on June 15, was celebrated with an automobile ride and a dinner at a restaurant. He cut a cake with other residents at the home.

Until the end, he received many visits and numerous cards and letters from friends in the St. Louis area, J. D. Chastain, a manager at the nursing home, said.

The only survivors are nephews and nieces. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Valhalla chapel, followed by cremation. The body is at the Cullinane undertaking establishment, 3320 North Kingshighway.

SCHOOLS IN ST. LOUIS TO REOPEN SEPT. 6

Most Classes in County to Begin on That Day—Some to Start Later.

All public and parochial schools in St. Louis and all parochial and most public schools in St. Louis county are scheduled to resume classes Sept. 6, the day after Labor day.

The return to school is expected to follow schedule, but Lutheran officials pointed out a serious increase in the number of infantile paralysis cases in the area could delay the general movement because of possible risks involved in crowding in classrooms.

Of the 23 county school districts having high schools, 16 are to reopen to students Sept. 6, two Sept. 7, one Sept. 8 and four Sept. 12.

Those in which students will return to school Sept. 6 are Ritenour, Maplewood, Wellston, Hancock, West Walnut Manor, Jennings, Affton, Riverview Gardens, Bayless, Mehlville, Eureka, Pattonville, Berkeley, Valley Park, Maryland Heights and Kinloch.

University City and Ferguson districts will reopen schools Sept. 7, with Normandy schools resuming the next day. Those opening Sept. 12 are Webster Groves, Kirkwood, Clayton and Brentwood. Most districts without high schools will reopen their classrooms Sept. 6. Chesterfield district is scheduled to resume Aug. 29.

SAMUEL MORGAN, PRESIDENT OF FINANCE COMPANY, DIES

Samuel Morgan, president of the Acceptance Finance Co., 5579 Pershing avenue, died of a heart attack today at his country estate, Clayton road, west of Ballas road.

Mr. Morgan, 63 years old, established the finance company 20 years ago, which now has 11 offices in three states. He came to the United States from Poland as a child.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ann Friedman Morgan; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Frank and Mrs. Milton Ferman; and two sons, Daniel and Charles Morgan.

MRS. CLARA KILLIAN FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Block Killian, widow of John Killian, Cedar Bluffs, Neb., banker, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Ambruster undertaking establishment, 6633 Clayton road, Clayton. Mrs. Killian was 73 years old and died yesterday of a heart ailment at the home of her brother-in-law, Oliver T. Remmers, with whom she lived at 226 Woodbourne drive.

Surviving are three step-children, Mrs. George LaMoth of Colorado Springs, Colo.; James Killian of Santa Cruz, Calif., and Louis Killian of Los Angeles. Burial will be in Friedens Cemetery.

TWO WOMEN DESIGN CHILD'S PINAFORE THAT IS REVERSIBLE

Garment Put on Market and Demand Grows—Shirt Next.

When Mrs. George L. Dyer's 8-year-old son, Walter, kept coming home from school every day with his freshly-laundered shirt dirty, she finally managed to find the bright side when everything looked dark. She and a neighbor conceived the idea of a reversible garment which is on the market and selling well.

Mrs. Dyer, who lives at 7551 Wellington way, Clayton, received the sympathy of Mrs. George W. Way Jr., 7557 Wellington, one day when Walter came home with shirt soiled "as usual," Mrs. Dyer related. To make matters worse, Walter's shirts had not come back from the laundry.

"If I could only turn that shirt inside out, he would look all right," Mrs. Dyer remarked. That gave the neighbors their idea. Since they had no white cloth for a shirt at hand, they used the pink material they did have and made a reversible pinafore.

The trade name "Pinaverse" is copyrighted and a patent on the idea has been applied for. A St. Louis manufacturer is turning out reversible pinafores which are being snapped up by retail stores. "And now," said Mrs. Dyer, "since necessity is the mother of invention, I'm going to get around to working out a reversible shirt for Walter."

TRUMAN NAMES WHITE HOUSE ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Truman today appointed George McKee Elsey, 31 years old, as a $10,000-a-year administrative assistant. Elsey, whose home is in Oakmont, Pa., is a former assistant to Clark M. Clifford of St. Louis, special counsel to the President.

Elsey has been a familiar figure around the White House for several years. He was an assistant naval aide under Clifford when Clifford was naval aide to the President. He later became an assistant to Clifford when the latter was appointed Truman's special counsel. He did research rather than legal work since he not a lawyer.

The four other administrative assistants are Charles S. Murphy, Donald Dawson, David K. Niles and David Stowe.

BILL BROADENING TEACHERS' RETIREMENT PLAN SIGNED

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16 (UP)—The public school teacher retirement program was broadened in Missouri today by a bill signed by Gov. Forrest Smith.

It raised the maximum salary on which teachers may get retirement credit from $1800 to $3000, and included in the list of eligibles for a pension members of the board of trustees of the retirement system.

Under the new law, the board of trustees were authorized to grant prior service credit to a teacher who taught before Aug. 1, 1945, if that teacher returns to teaching before July 1, 1950 and continues to teach in Missouri for seven consecutive years after his return.

Slogan Creator Dies.

DETROIT, Aug. 16 (AP)—G. E. (Square Deal) Miller, a jeweler who was nationaly known for his slogans, died yesterday at the age of 71. The United States Treasury chose one of his slogans in World War I for its bond drive. It was: "If you can't go across . . . Come across . . . buy Liberty Bonds."

BODY OF ZIONIST PIONEER HERZL FLOWN TO ISRAEL

Reburial Tomorrow After 45 Years Will Carry Out Wish in His Will.

TEL AVIV, Aug. 16 (UP)—The body of Theodore Herzl came "home" to Israel today.

A special plane arrived from Vienna, Austria, with the body of the pioneer Zionist who wrote in his will, March 5, 1903, a year before he died:

"I want a modest funeral without speeches and without flowers. It is my wish to be buried in a metal casket beside my father and lie there (in Vienna) until the Jewish people will take my body to the land of Israel."

Herzl's remains will lie in the Knesseth (parliament) tonight and will be taken tomorrow to Jerusalem for final burial. All members of the Knesseth except two Communists attended a special memorial session this afternoon.

A special committee of Zionist leaders decided in 1935 that Herzl's last wish for burial in Israel could best be fulfilled by burial in Jerusalem "for political, national and historical reasons." The reburial in the Holy City will be further evidence, observers said, of Israel's determination to make Jerusalem the capital of the new state.

SHEAN DIRECTED GALLAGHER ROUTINE BE ON TOMBSTONE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The trade-mark line—"Absolutely, Mr. Gallagher! Positively, Mr. Shean"—that Al Shean helped make famous in life will be inscribed on his tombstone.

Lawrence Shean, son of the 81-year-old actor, disclosed yesterday that the famed trouper had directed this epitaph be placed on the stone:

"Born May 12, 1868. I could have lived longer, but now it's too late. Absolutely, Mr. Gallagher? Positively, Mr. Shean."

Shean, who died Friday, was buried yesterday after services at Riverside Memorial Chapel.

THE REV. CHARLES HOEH DIES; RETIRED LUTHERAN PASTOR

Funeral services for the Rev. Charles E. Hoeh, retired Lutheran minister, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at St. Paul's Church. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The Rev. Mr. Hoeh, 74 years old, died of heart disease yesterday in his home, 1386 North Berry road, Rock Hill. He was pastor of St. Paul's Church for 24 years, before retiring three years ago. Prior to that he was pastor of St. Peter's Church, in Columbia Bottoms, for 15 years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Augusta Hoeh, and four sons, Harold, Paul, Adalbert, and the Rev. Carl E. Hoeh, Bear Creek, Wis.

HARRY J. SCULLIN, FORMER ST. LOUISAN, DIES IN FLORIDA

Harry J. Scullin, former St. Louisan, died of a kidney ailment today in Miami, Fla., after an illness of a year.

Mr. Scullin, 69 years old, was auditor for the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. here for 25 years. He went to Miami 20 years ago, where he worked for a Miami bank. He was the nephew of the late John Scullin, founder of Scullin Steel Co.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Miggins Scullin. Funeral services and burial will be in Miami.

FATHER CONRAD, FORMER PASTOR AT OAKVILLE, DIES

The Rev. Burchard Conrad, O.F.M., pastor of St. Francis of Assisi Church at Oakville from 1938 to 1945, died Sunday at St. Joseph's Monastery, Los Angeles, Calif., of heart disease, friends here learned yesterday.

Father Burchard, who was 46 years old, was active in the erection of a parish school completed in 1941 at Oakville. He was born in Chicago and was ordained to the priesthood on completion of his studies at St. Joseph's College, Teutopolis, Ill. From St. Francis Church he went to Sacred Heart Church, Indianapolis, where he served until 1948.

Funeral services will be at St. Augustine's Church in Chicago, with burial in St. Joseph's Cemetery at the Franciscan Seminary, Westmont, Ill. Surviving are his mother and two brothers, all of Chicago.

CARDINALS BOW TO CUBS, 5-4, LOSE GROUND IN RACE

Maybe They Didn't Mean to Be Tough.

THE "bean ball" pitcher is on the spot again. . . . New York writers have been stirring up arguments and who are we to say that it's the midsummer heat or a shortage of headlines that is promoting the broil.

As far as this reader is concerned, we take note of it because of the implication that a couple of Brownie pitchers were among the guilty wretches who tried to drive back from the plate several Yankee hitters.

It seems that in one game Karl Drews of our boys hit three batters and Ray Starr one. . . . The inference drawn was that there was deliberate intent to hurt the batters. . . . That's the New York slant. . . . But the averages may tell us a different story.

They show, for example, that the incident may have been due to a matter known as lack of control. ... The averages of Sunday show that Drews walked 58 men and struck out only 30 in 119 innings. . . . Starr has a record of 36 walks in 72 innings. . . . With such records, pitchers can't guarantee immunity to batters who forget to duck.

Billy Evans Wants The Spitball Revived.

BILLY EVANS, once a top sports writer, a fine umpire and now a high-salaried baseball executive, wants to revive the spitball as an aid in restoring the balance of power to the pitcher.

Evans thinks the game as of today gives the batter too much advantage over the pitcher. . . . He thinks the lively baseball and regulations that have cut down pitching efficiency have combined to take away much of the thrower's potency.

The use of many new baseballs during each game, the rubber-cork core of the ball itself and the abolition of all forms of freak deliveries, have caused a noticeable decline in the number of outstanding pitchers, in Bill's opinion.

The spitball was the most effective of the freaks. . . . Many of the famous pitchers of other days used it or bluffed with it to eke out their repertoire of pitching deception.

The ranks of effective pitchers were thinned when they ditched Ford's "emery ball," Cicotte's "shine ball" and Dave Danforth's queer delivery, the mystery of which the American League intelligence service was unable to solve satisfactorily.

It's altogether unlikely that the spitter will be brought back. . . . Its behavior was erratic. . . . It gave catchers plenty of grief. . . And the "moisture" caused many wild throws by infielders.

If they want to help the pitcher the obvious move, it seems, would be to take the jack rabbit out of the baseball. . . . But that would never do, in this day of grand slam homers, where even the boys in short pants chant "we want a homer" and grow up with that complex.

"Dust-Off" Pitching Is Standard Procedure.

JOE CRONIN, a fine character who developed successively as a great player, a competent manager and a high grade executive, distinguishes between "bean ball" throwing and "brush off" pitches.

Cronin told Dan Daniel, in a Sporting News interview, that he had seen no bean ball pitching at all and noted no increase in dust-off pitching.

"Bean ball pitching is absolutely reprehensible, but a decent amount of dust-off pitching seems to be recognized as standard equipment," Cronin commented. . . . "I don't think we need worry about brush-off pitching. . . . The umpires can control that. . . . Failure to observe an umpire's warning could result in a set-down for 90 days. . . . But nobody has been set down."

From which we gather that the umpires don't think dust-off pitching is becoming epidemic. . . . And they certainly wouldn't tolerate deliberate beaning of any batter. . . . Just another dog-days flare-up, it seems.

3 Barbaras Advance In U.S. Girls' Tennis

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16 (AP)—A pair of Barbaras jumped into highly favored places in the first annual National Girls' golf tournament today on the basis of their opening day's play. A third Barbara, Barbara McIntire of Toledo, advanced on default.

Barbara Bruning, of White Plains, N.Y., shot a 78 for medal honors yesterday. In a match that produced the best shot making of the opening round, Miss Bruning defeated Virginia Dennehy, Lake Forest, Ill., 4 and 3.

Two other favorites won by default.

Jockey Arrested After Shooting at In-Law

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (INS) — Tony Skoronski, 29, a well-known jockey, was arrested yesterday and booked on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon as the result of a family quarrel in which he fired a revolver shot at his sister-in-law.

Police said the bullet missed the woman, Miss Edna Heffner, 25, of suburban East Hazelcrest.

Skoronski, currently riding at Chicago's Washington Park, was released on $50 bond after he was booked.

Police said Skoronski had quarreled with his wife, Catherine, and she moved to her parents' home. They said the jockey came there in an attempt to persuade her to return to him. An argument followed and when Miss Heffner tried to call her father, Skoronski fired at her.

Reich Drives in Four Tallies, 2 With Double In Big Three-Run Ninth

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—The Cardinals were defeated here this afternoon by the last-place Chicago Cubs, who thus gained an even break in the Redbirds' first series on an extended road campaign. The result left the Cardinals one full game behind Brooklyn in the National League standings, pending the Dodgers' night contest with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The score was 5 to 4, the Cubs scoring three runs in the ninth inning to win the game. Ted Wilks and Howard Pollet failed as Cardinal relief pitchers.

Herman Reich, Cub first sacker, drove in four runs, hitting a single with the bases loaded in the fourth and getting a two-run double in the ninth.

Max Lanier pitched two-hit ball for seven innings before being removed for a pinchhitter in the eighth, a frame in which the Cardinals took the lead by scoring two runs.

Walt Dubiel was the Chicago hurler until the ninth. He yielded one run to the Redbirds in the first and two in the eighth before Johnny Schmitz was tagged for a tally in the ninth.

A large Ladies' crowd of about 30,000 included 19,802 cash customers.

Commissioner A. B. Chandler attended and at his request a minute of silence was observed in the memory of Babe Ruth, who died a year ago today.

The umpires were Robb, Dascoli, Pinelli and Gore.

In a night game tomorrow at Cincinnati, where the Cardinals originally were scheduled to play a day contest, Al Brazle will be the Redbirds' pitcher.

Play-by-play of today's game:

CUBS—Jeffcoat struck out. Cavarretta bunted a pop fly to Nelson. Ramazzotti popped to Marion.

SECOND — CARDINALS—Garagiola singled to right. Glaviano hit into a double play, Ramazzotti to Mauch to Reich. Lanier tapped in front of the plate and was thrown out by Owen.

CUBS—Jeffcoat flied to Slaughter. Cavarretta was called out on strikes. Marion made a good stop and threw out Ramazzotti.

SEVENTH—CARDINALS—Nelson doubled to right. Garagiola flied to Cavarretta and Nelson, stumbling on the way, was out trying for third, Cavarretta to Ramazzotti. Glaviano lined to Cavarretta.

CUBS—Pafko lined to Slaughter. Reich popped to Schoendienst. Owen grounded out to Marion.

EIGHTH—CARDINALS —Jones batted for Lanier and popped to Mauch. Schoendienst singled to right. Marion doubled over first, Schoendienst stopping at third. Musial was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Slaughter beat out a slow roller to Mauch, Schoendienst scoring the tying run. Northey flied deep to Jeffcoat, Marion scoring and Musial taking third. Slaughter stole second. Nelson walked and the bases were filled again. Garagiola popped to Smalley. TWO RUNS.

CUBS—Wilks pitched for the Cardinals and Diering played center field, Musial moving to right. Smalley popped to Nelson. Baumholtz batted for Mauch and popped to Glaviano. Burgess batted for Dubiel and flied to Slaughter.

NINTH—CARDINALS— Terwilliger played second base and Schmitz pitched for the Cubs. Glaviano walked. Wilks sacrificed, Schmitz to Terwilliger, who covered first. Schoendenst singled to center for his third hit, scoring Glaviano. Marion hit into a double play, Ramazzotti to Terwilliger to Reich. ONE RUN.

CUBS—Jeffcoat doubled off the left field wall. Cavarretta walked. That was all for Wilks and Pollet replaced him on the mound for the Cardinals. Ramazzotti sacrificed, Garagiola to Nelson. Pafko walked, filling the bases. Reich doubled to center, scoring Jeffcoat and Cavarretta and tying the score, Pafko stopping at third. Owen was intentionally passed, again filling the bases. Smalley singled to left, scoring Pafko with the winning run. THREE RUNS.

Coach's Mother Dies.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Homer Horsley, 63, mother of Wheaton High School's athletic director and football coach, died today in Illinois Central Hospital. Her son, Bob Horsley, has been on the Wheaton staff since 1936, and was coach at Mattoon High School from 1933 to 1935. He was a quarterback on University of Illinois teams under Coach Bob Zuppke.

Archie Moore Signs to Meet Maxim Sept. 20

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (UP) — Archie Moore of St. Louis signed today to meet Joey Maxim of Cincinnati in a 15-round light heavyweight outdoor bout at Crosley Field, Cincinnati, Sept. 20.

Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside, N.J., was scheduled to fight Maxim in a return bout at Cincinnati on Sept. 19 but withdrew to meet Ezzard Charles for the National Boxing Association version of the world heavyweight title last week.

Charles retained his crown when he scored a seven-round technical knockout over the New Jersey boxer at Yankee Stadium. Maxim defeated Lesnevich last May.

Danish Swim Star To Turn Pro Sept. 1

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 16 (AP)—Karen Margrethe Harup, who established an Olympic 100-meter backstroke swimming record in the 1948 games, said she would turn professional on Sept. 1. Miss Harup, who beat out Suzanne Zimmerman of the United States for the Olympic crown, said she would become an instructor at a private pool.

Chipman Chipped in With One for Cards

TOMMY GLAVIANO scoring on a wild pitch by BOB CHIPMAN, Chicago Cub pitcher, in the 5-2 victory which the Redbirds scored over Frank Frisch's team at Chicago. The heave came in the fourth inning. Chipman is shown in a vain attempt to tag Glaviano after the pitcher had rushed to the plate to take the throw from Catcher Mickey Owen.

Red Sox Cut Lead of Yankees To Three Games on 19-4 Home Stand and String of 7 Straight

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox, rolling like a Sherman tank through a corn field, are beginning to sniff that world series dough.

Joe McCarthy's crew, staging a remarkable comeback today was only three games away from a sputtering New York Yankee machine for first place in the American League.

The Sox, presumed dead on July 4 when they occupied fifth place, 12 games off the pace, charged closer to the Yanks last night by beating Washington, 3-2, as Casey Stengel's outfit dropped a 9-5 decision to Philadelphia.

Washington surprisingly carried the Red Sox 11 innings before submitting. In the previous five games of the series, the Sox had punished Washington pitching for 55 runs.

Seventh Straight Victory.

The six-game romp over the Senators enabled the Sox to end their 23-game home stay with a 19-4 record and seven straight victories. The Sox meet the A's in a two-game series beginning tonight and then take on the Senators in a four-game weekend set in Washington before heading west for the last time.

Joe Dobson, the vastly improved righthander, went all the way for Boston, as did Sid Hudson for Washington. Dobson led, 1-0, going into the ninth, when the Senators squared matters.

The Senators took a 2-1 lead in the eleventh with former Soxer Sam Dente singling home Johnny Simmons from second, but Boston tagged Hudson in the last half for the payoff runs on doubles by Billy Goodman, Dom DiMaggio and a single by Ted Williams. Williams's hit, his lone safety of the evening, broke up the game.

Dobson, who had a 5-8 record early in July, now has won six of his last seven games and boasts an 11-9 report card.

The Athletics came from behind to nip the Yanks, scoring five runs in the sixth inning to overcome a 5-4 deficit. Rookie righthander Duane Pillette was the victim of the uprising. Eddie Joost singled home the tying run, Ferris Fain singled across two more and Sam Chapman doubled in another pair to clinch matters. Carl Scheib started and finished for the A's and the triumph evened his record at 8-8.

Cleveland's third place team also kept its hat in the ring, shading the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, in 10 innings at Cleveland. The Indians are four games away from the promised land.

Bobby Feller beat Lefty Hal Newhouser in the tight encounter that ended when pinch-hitter Hal Peck singled with the bases loaded and one out in the tenth. The victory was Feller's sixth straight and twelfth of the year.

Feller held a 2-1 lead going into the ninth when Vic Wertz belted his thirteenth homer with Dick Wakefield aboard to put the Tigers ahead, 3-2. Bob Kennedy sent the game into overtime with his fifth homer in the bottom half.

The Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged the Reds in Cincinnati, 9-7. The Pirates took a 7-5 lead with four runs in the sixth and insuring the triumph with two more in the ninth. Ralph Kiner whacked his thirty-second homer with a man on to get the Pirates started in the first inning.

Brooklyn Writers Lose to New York

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y., Aug. 16 (AP)—For the first time in many a moon, the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America defeated the Brooklyn Chapter, 5-2, in their annual game yesterday.

Lou Effrat of the New York Times pitched the entire game for the winners, while Herb Goren of the New York Sun went all the way for the Brooklyn outfit.

Goren blew a 2-0 lead in the sixth when he walked across three runs. But he stayed in the box.

P.S.—He also was the manager.

Musial Finds N.L. Average Climbing Tough

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Stan Musial, defending National League batting champion, is making slow progress in his bid to retain the crown. He still has plenty to go to overhaul Brooklyn's pace-setting Jackie Robinson.

Musial jumped from seventh to fourth place during the past week although he increased his average only two points from .313 to .315 in figures based on games of Aug. 14.

Robinson also added two points to his mark, climbing from .362 to .364. Enos Slaughter of the Cards held on to the runner-up berth, adding one point to his .329 figure of a week ago.

Red Schoendienst, another Card, moved from fourth to third place although his average dropped from .321 to .317.

Yankees to Dedicate 'Babe Ruth Plaza'

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Babe Ruth, widow of the great New York Yankees' home-run slugger, was to attend an anniversary mass today for the Babe at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament—the first anniversary of the Babe's death. An hour before the Yankee-Washington game tonight, Mrs. Ruth is to join members of the Yankee team in the dedication of "Babe Ruth Plaza" in a square outside the Yankee Stadium.

A simple flag-lowering ceremony will precede the game and the fans will bow their heads for a moment of silence out of respect to the departed idol of the diamond. Similar tributes are planned at many of the nation's ball parks.

Browns Receive Five Innings Of Good Pitching, White Sox Get Nine and It's a Two-Hit Job

By Dent McSkimming

Zack Taylor was doing a bit of stock-taking just before last night's game. Back home from a tour on which his Browns won only four games while losing 16, Zack was asked what it was he needed most to make his team a winner.

"The same thing we needed most when the season started," said the worried manager. "When our first string men were all in shape to play we fielded a good team. And when we got a well pitched game we won or came pretty close. Pitching is what we need most."

And then, just to prove that this great game of baseball can be very confusing, the Browns went out and lost a game because they couldn't get hits. Even if Taylor had picked a pitcher who could hold the opposing White Sox to a single run he still would have lost the game because Southpaw Bill Wight shut the Browns out, 8 to 0.

Great Stuff for Five Innings.

In pitching his best game of the year and collecting his eleventh victory of the season, the clever left-hander allowed only two hits, both singles, one by Whitey Platt and the other by Andy Anderson. So, it didn't make much difference who was pitching for the Browns. It happened to be Cliff Fannin. He matched Wight's effort, inning for inning until Dave Philley came to bat in the sixth.

At that point it was 0-0, the Sox had sneaked only one hit off Fannin and the Browns had already collected their two. So, Cliff was just a little bit better up to that point, having struck out six although he had walked four. He had a chance to drive in a run when he batted in the fifth, with Anderson on second base and two out. Maybe his extra effort in running to first as Wight tossed him out disturbed Cliff's nice pitching rhythm. At any rate, he didn't survive the next inning, the sixth.

Philley hit him for a single, the second hit for Chicago, and then Fannin lost his control. He walked four of the next five batters, one of them intentionally, forcing two runs over the plate and when the next hitter, Floyd Baker, singled in two runs, Fannin was out of the game. And so were the Browns, for that matter, because Wight didn't give them a chance.

This curve-ball artist who was developed in the Yankee system but slipped through their fingers when the deal was made for Ed Lopat, is an interesting pitcher. One asset he collects on is a deceptive throw to first base, perhaps the most effective move since Dave Danforth's day.

With this tricky maneuver which comes very close to being a balk, he picked off first base last night Dick Kokos in the third inning and Gerry Priddy in the ninth. It would be interesting to see what he could do with Jackie Robinson on the bases.

Two of Chicago's three errors helped the Browns put a couple of men on base and Wight gave four walks, so there was some little action for the Browns, but not enough to get a loud yell out of the cozy crowd of 1998.

Dillinger Still Out.

Of course with Bob Dillinger out of the game with a pulled leg muscle the Browns' hitting potential was reduced, but Wight appeared sharp enough to fool even a Dillinger with his .342 average. Such good hitters as Roy Sievers and Priddy couldn't get the wood on the ball, and Jack Graham might as well have passed up his three turns at bat. He fanned twice and popped up the other time.

Altogether, it was a large evening for Bill Wight and he deserved his triumph.

Les Moss came closest to collecting on the Post-Dispatch offer of a $50 bond for a home run. He was short by about six feet with his seventh inning blast to left.

It will be Joe Ostrowski for the Browns tonight, seeking his seventh victory, and he will be up against one of Chicago's best, Randy Gumpert, who has 10 victories. Last season no pitcher on the White Sox staff won 10 games.

So far as old timers can recall, there was never an Ostrowski in major league ball through its 73 years until the Browns' pitcher, Joe, came along last season. Now there are two of the clan, for the White Sox have added John Ostrowski. He's playing left field and doing a good job. The Ostrowskis are not related, in fact did not know each other until they met in this series.

One reason Fannin weakened probably was that the White Sox deliberately tired him. Through the early innings, the Chicago batters wouldn't swing a bat until they had two strikes. As a result, Fannin was worked overtime in each inning because his control was not too sharp.

Chicago's three steals made the Browns' defense look bad.

Tonight's game starts at 8:30. But tomorrow there will be a twi-night doubleheader with the Indians, starting at 6 p.m., and Satchel Paige will pitch one of the games according to announcement by the Cleveland club.

Walt Fassler's Three-Hitter Puts Aubuchons in Legion Tourney Final

Waterloo Takes 8-3 Beating

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MASON CITY, Ia., Aug. 16.—St. Louis Aubuchon-Dennison Post moved into the final of the regional American Legion Junior baseball tournament here by downing Waterloo, Ia., 8-3, last night behind the brilliant three-hit pitching of Walt Fassler.

The Aubuchons now get a day of rest for tomorrow's championship game with Tulsa, afternoon winner over Salina, 8-3, or Waterloo. The Missouri champions have a 2-0 record in the tournament and would have to suffer two straight setbacks to blow the title.

Fassler, a good shortstop when he's not on the mound, scattered safeties in three different innings and struck out 13 batters. Waterloo counted two runs in the third frame.

Russ Hayes, Waterloo right-hander, hurled two innings and then retired. He was rapped for four hits in the second frame, including a triple by Bill Diffley, and the Missouri titleholders had three runs on the scoreboard.

Lefty Bob Miller was reached for a run in the third by St. Louis and was kayoed in the fifth when a walk and four hits, including a double by Tim Dolan, produced four more runs. Another lefty, Russ Miller, finished the game for Waterloo and only one St. Louis batter reached base against him in three and one-third innings; that on an error. Russ had pitched the Waterloo victory over Salina on Sunday.

Waterloo left 12 runners stranded on the base paths. The victory was the twentieth of the season for the Aubuchons and marked the third loss for Waterloo in 32 games this season.

Oldtime Track Stars Lacked Good Tracks, Says Former Champion

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 16 (UP) — Harry Lincoln Dadmun, dean of America's track stars, said on his eightieth birthday today that modern runners shouldn't be too cocky about the records they have smashed.

"The oldtimers had lungs and strength to match any record holder—they just didn't have the better tracks and equipment," he said. "Give them the same tracks and they could match any record in the book."

Dadmun, who won the antional half-mile championship in 1890 in 1 minute, 59 1-5 seconds, also won the French 800-meter championship the next year and ran record in the English half-mile championship that year.

He credits his early running experience with putting him in shape to weather a full 80 years.

"I'd never have lived so long if I hadn't been a runner when I was young," he said. "I have never weighed over 135 pounds in my life and I'm positive it was the running that built by body strength up."

Orange Bowl Official Balks At Proposals of N.C.A.A.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 16 (UP) — An Orange Bowl official today protested that the Miami post-season football classic would be "financially" wrecked if the National Collegiate Athletic Association demands 80 per cent of the gross gate receipts for competing teams.

That 80 per cent cut for the colleges is one of six proposals made by the N.C.A.A. Bowl Committee for consideration by the organization later this year.

Grover Morrow, first vice president of the Orange Bowl, said, "We cannot operate on a mere 20 per cent of the gross. In the first place we must pay 15 per cent for stadium rental alone, and the N.C.A.A. proposal would force us to eliminate our wonderful half-time pageant and the lavish entertainment we provide the players and officials for each team.

"Our profit last year was only about $4000 out of a gross gate of more than $300,000 which certainly indicates the competing schools are not being exploited."

In New Orleans, although no Sugar Bowl spokesman would be quoted, one source said the Sugar Bowl would not have any great objections to the 80 per cent demanded by the N.C.A.A. schools.

The source pointed out that the only real financial danger would come in not being able to pay off the stadium bonds. However, most bondholders would prefer to let their bonds remain outstanding so they can enjoy ticket purchasing preference.

Another N.C.A.A. proposal is that at least two N.C.A.A. member schools be represented on the bowl committee.

Here, too, Morrow objected on behalf of the Orange Bowl. "If we have to accept N.C.A.A. representatives, they should serve only in an advisory capacity and not as voting members," he said. "The Orange Bowl constitution provides that committeemen be Miami residents and serve for life."

The Sugar Bowl source indicated that it would be willing to take in N.C.A.A. representatives as members.

It appeared that the Sugar Bowl view was this: The N.C.A.A. rules will cut down on the raft of minor bowl games which has cropped up, a cut-down heartily indorsed by the larger post-season games. The Orange Bowl ordinarily would agree, except for the financial pinch threatened.

More Than 100 Tee Off In Western Junior Golf

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 16 (UP)—A wide-open race for the Western Junior golf crown appeared likely today as more than 100 young shotmakers teed off in the opening qualifying round.

The 32 low competitors will advance into three rounds of match play starting tomorrow over the difficult University of Michigan course.

U.S. Hurdler Wins 3 Races

JOENKOEPING, Sweden, Aug. 16 (UP) — Craig Dixon, national high and low hurdles champion from University of California at Los Angeles, won three races last night when touring United States track and field stars competed here against a group of Swedish athletes.

Dixon won the 110-meter hurdles event in 13.9, the 100-meter dash in 10.6 and the 200-meter run in 22.0. George Rasmussen of Oregon won the pole vault with a leap of 4.30 meters (about 13 feet, 11 inches).

Another section of the American squad took part in a meet at Boerlaenge, Sweden, last night and Jim Fuchs of Yale won both the shotput and discus events. Fuchs, who bettered the world shotput record at Oslo, Norway, last month with a toss of 17.79 meters (about 58 feet, 4.2 inches), took the shotput with a heave of 17.08 meters and the discus with a throw of 49.44 meters.

Dropo Turns Home Run Hitter at Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 16 (UP)—Will big Walt Dropo, the former University of Connecticut star athlete, be back at first base for the Boston Red Sox next season?

He hopes so, but he isn't sure.

The six-foot, five-inch Dropo has been here with the Sacramento Solons of the Triple A Pacific Coast League on option from the Red Sox since mid-May.

From a slow start, Dropo has boosted his batting average to a respectable if not gaudy .285 as of the beginning of this week.

"I know I can hit .300 in this league, and I know I'm going to be more valuable with the bat for the rest of the way," Dropo said.

Playing in a roomy park, Dropo leads the Sacramento club in homers with a total of 15 to date. His 65 runs batted in ties him for third in that division.

Asked if he expects to be back with the Red Sox next season, Dropo said:

"It's a difficult question. All you can do is hope."

Palmer Bears Down and Wins Tam Playoff

By Jerry Liska

That's why Palmer yesterday walked off with golf's biggest single victory wad, the $10,000 nugget in Tam O'Shanter's "world" meet.

Johnny's 68 to 70 playoff triumph over resplendent Jimmy Demaret hoisted him to third spot in the cash-collecting ranks with $23,512. Snead, who finished third in the "world," has $30,893, and National Open champion Cary Middlecoff has $24,604.

Perhaps owing some of his ability to bear down in the pinches to his meditation while a waist gunner on 32 bombing raids over Japan, Palmer fashioned his "world" triumph on an iron-nerved approach game. It was his biggest win since taking the 1947 Western Open.

He was in trouble against Demaret on six holes yet lost par on only one. Four times he saved pars and he came through with a birdie which saved his day on the seventeenth. It was a 130-yard shot from under a tree to within four feet and he sank the putt. That broke Demaret's back, leaving him two taps back facing the final green.

And Johnny steeled himself against one more distraction—the hole-by-hole betting offers of Tam Promoter George S. May. Jovial Demaret accepted May's friendly, lop-sided bets. But not Palmer. It's possible he didn't even hear May, but more likely he simply ignored him.

Demaret, another chap who rates high as a "golfer's golfer," got $7,000 consolation from his two-stroke defeat by Palmer. That's what place-money paid off and it boosted Jimmy's earnings to $17,067, fifth in the standings.

The "forgotten man" of the Tam show was defending champion Lloyd Mangrum, who last year relieved Boss May of some $22,500 in assorted prizes, but this time got only $3633, most of it in his $3333 All-American win.

Bruins Obtain Quackenbush

BOSTON, Aug. 16 (UP)—The Boston Bruins today acquired All-Star defense player Bill Quackenbush and Right Wing Pete Horeck in a surprise player trade with the Detroit Red Wings.

In the exchange, the Bruins send to Detroit Wingers Pete Babando and Jim Peters and defense players Clare Martin and Lloyd Durham.

The 27-year-old Quackenbush has been named to the National League All-Star hockey team for the last two years. A year ago he scored six goals and 17 assists for 23 points and went the entire season without a penalty, winning the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship.

A native of Toronto, Quackenbush was signed a professional by Detroit in 1942 and sent to Indianapolis of the American League. He played one game with Indianapolis and then was brought up to the Wings with whom he has played six seasons. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 180.

Horeck, who was born 26 years ago at Capreol, Ont., is a left hand shot playing right wing. Last season he scored 14 goals and 16 assists for 30 points.

Solomons Seeking Woodcock's Successor

LONDON (UP)—Promoter Jack Solomons has announced that Swedish and French heavyweights will be matched with Jack Gardner and Johnny Williams, "Britain's two most promising young fighters," in a campaign to find a successor to European and British heavyweight champion, Bruce Woodcock.

Apparently concerned over Woodcock's recent automobile accident and his subsequent threats to quit boxing, Solomons said he will begin looking for a man who ultimately will occupy Woodcock's place in the British heavyweight ranking list.

"In view of the present Woodcock situation, I think it's about time we begin to hunt a successor," Solomons said.

"With this in mind, I am matching Gardner with Nisse Andersson of Sweden in an eight-round bout at Harringay Arena on Sept. 6," Solomons said. "On the same card Williams will fight another foreign boxer, probably French Heavyweight Champion Stephan Olek."

Harry Sortal Coach At Paris (Ill.) High

PARIS, Ill., Aug. 16 (UP) — Harry Sortal, 28, Zeigler, will take over as football coach at Paris High School this fall.

Sortal, a graduate of St. Louis University in 1948 and freshman basketball coach at that school last year, was named football coach and physical education instructor by the Board of Education last night.

He replaces H. D. Sweeley, who resigned as coach during the legal fighting during the past few months over the board's attempt to fire Ernie Eveland, Paris basketball coach. Sortal was an end on the all-Missouri Valley Conference team during his undergraduate days at St. Louis U.

Aussies Should Give U.S. Run For Cup Money

RYE, N.Y., Aug. 16 (AP)—Those tennis observers who watched Australia's Davis Cup team overwhelm a highly-touted Italian pair 5-0 in the interzone final here over the weekend nursed a suspicion today that the Aussies are going to be rough in the challenge round Aug. 26-28.

The American team picked yesterday—Ted Schroeder, Pancho Gonzales, Gardnar Mulloy and Billy Talbert—still rates the favorite in the big playoff at Forest Hills, but not by any one-sided margin. This one could be close.

In the three challenge rounds played since the war, one at Melbourne and two at Forest Hills, the Australians have won just one match out of 15. That was two years ago, when John Bromwich and Colin Long won the doubles.

Last year it was a clean sweep for Uncle Sam. Schroeder and Frank Parker trounced Billy Sidwell and Adrian Quist in the singles, and Talbert and Mulloy downed Long and Sidwell in doubles.

This certainly is a stronger Aussie side than that of '48. Mainly it boasts in 22-year-old Frank Sedgman a player of brilliant promise who is about ready to win a decision over any player in the world. He had two match points against Schroeder at this year's Wimbledon.

Sidwell, who now appears to be the logical choice to play the second singles against the United States—leaving the veteran John Bromwich rested and fresh for his specialty, the doubles—is an improved player over last year.

Many of his shots yesterday as he slaughtered Marcello Del Bello, Italy's No. 2, by 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, bordered upon the sensational.

He boasts a terrific service which netted 10 clean aces against the Italian, and he has become deadly at the net.

It's Cold Outside.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP)—Frank Parker, competing in the national doubles tennis championships at Longwood, said he had a "feeling" the American Davis Cup team selection committee "would give me a freeze."

The 36-year-old veteran tennis performer from Los Angeles was dropped from the Davis Cup team today and replaced by national singles champion Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, also of Los Angeles.

Parker, ranked among the top 10 amateurs the past 17 years and a member of three Davis Cup teams, told newsmen he was "standing on his record.

"It's every bit as good as Schroeder's," he asserted. "He won only at Wimbledon. He hasn't played since."

Parker also declared he thought his record matched up against that of Gonzales this year.

"He was beaten by every Tom, Dick and Harry this season," he said. "That win last weekend at Newport—Newport (R.I.) Casino invitation tournament — helped him."

Bob Ziervogel Loses in Park Tennis Tourney

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16 (AP)—The National Public Parks tennis championships moved into the third round today with top seeded players holding their own.

Malcom Fox, fourth seeded entry from Baltimore, Md., advanced yesterday with a 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 win over Ray Rymers, Elkhart, Ind.,

Defending champion Willis Anderson, Los Angeles, had an easier time in defeating Don Hayes, Pittsburgh, in three straight 6-0 sets.

The women's singles went into the quarter-final round. In matches yesterday, Joy Liken of Pittsburgh, defeated Nora Prosser, Kansas City, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, and Sara Moore of Washrington, D. C., advanced with an 8-6, 6-1, win over Bea Massman of Buffalo, N. Y.

Robert Ziervogel of St. Louis was eliminated by Norm MacDonald, Minneapolis, 3-6, 6-1, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Services Tomorrow for Mrs. Wilman, Bowler

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—Services for Mrs. Henrietta (Hank) Kotalik Wilman, wife of Joe Wilman, former national match game champion, and nationally prominent among women bowlers, will be held Wednesday at suburban Berwyn.

Mrs. Wilman was killed instantly Sunday night in an automobile collision near Kenosha, Wis. Wilman suffered head injuries in the crash. Mrs. Wilman was thrown from their car against a utility pole.

Last year, Mrs. Wilman rolled 32 series of more than 600 and had a season average of 193 for 80 games. She held the Central States singles and all-events titles and on this record was an outstanding candidate for this year's bowler of the year award presented by the National Bowling Writers' Association.

Arway Reorganizing.

Two teams with averages between 850 and 900 are needed to complete the reorganization of the Arway Classic Bowling League. Ervin Schlechte, SIdney 3800, is handling entries.

Veteran driver DR. H. M. PARSHALL piloted Charming Grattan to two heats in 2:01 3-5 to win the 24 class pacers at Springfield, Ill. . . . Ten spectators were injured at the Northville (Mich.) Downs harness races when a horse jumped a fence and landed in the bleachers.

Lone Eagle, American-bred colt owned by WILLIAM WOODWARD, remained an 11-2 favorite to win the St. Leger stakes at Doncaster, England, Sept. 10. . . . Woodward's Black Tarquin won the St. Leger last year.

EDDIE ALBRECHT, the Affton (Mo.) fireball pitcher, property of the St. Louis Browns, may wind up as organized baseball's strike-out king this season. The 170-pound mound artist has struck out 311 batters while working 272 2-3 innings for the Pine Bluff Cardinals in the Class C Cotton States League. A workhorse who has seen action in 47 games, he has a chance to run his total to 350 in the remaining two weeks of the season. Albrecht has won 24 games, lost nine, yielded 218 hits and only 78 runs. He has walked 126.

The Browns signed VAN GREENE, 19-year-old Holt (Mich.) pitcher for a look-see at their training camp next season.

Forty-year-old JOHN WHITEHEAD, former White Sox hurler, received a rocking chair from his Texas friends at a "Whitehead night." Putting the chair aside, Whitehead then pitched the Sherman-Denison Twins to a four-hit, 5-1 victory over Temple. It was his eleventh triumph against seven losses. Last year he won 19 and lost only six.

VERNON WILLIAMS, 175, Atlantic City, was awarded a close decision in eight rounds over Irish PAT RICHARDS, 182, in the feature bout of an outdoor boxing card at Allentown, Pa.

A Minot (N. D.) attorney, JIM V. MILLER, 33, was killed Sunday when lightning struck him while he was playing golf.

Salas Wins.

Hagen Defeats Parshay.

St. Louis Golfer Qualifies In Lefty Tourney

Norman James, 32-year-old Carolina hosiery broker from Hickory, grabbed the qualifying medal with a respectable four-over-par 76 over the rain-soaked French Lick Springs course.

Only a few players could stay on their game in the driving rain to match the 205-pound former Duke football end and one-time outfielder for Atlanta, Birmingham and Memphis in the Southern Association.

One stroke behind James were Bob Romberg of Toledo, O., the executive secretary and treasurer of the National Association of Left-Handed Golfers, and Bob Malone of Fort Worth, Tex.

A total of 115 southpaw swingers made a bid for the championship flight, which ends with the 36-hole title match Thursday.

Jack Walters of Tacoma, Wash., installed as a favorite after defending champion Loddie Kempa of Stillwater, Okla., told tourney officials he would not be able to compete, bogged down and wound up with an 80.

Herman Wyman of St. Louis, qualified with a 79, was matched today with Harry Mearbell, Niagara Falls, N.Y., who had an 82.

CIO Leader Pickets Pier Covered by Injunction — Constitutional Test in Strike Predicted.

By LEIF ERICKSON

HONOLULU, Aug. 16 (AP) — Harry Bridges shoved Hawaii's 108-day CIO dock strike into a decisive phase today. The territorial government obtained an anti-picketing injunction. He defied it personally.

The next step was up to Walter D. Ackerman Jr., Hawaii's Attorney General. His office said Bridges, president of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, might be arrested for contempt. Ackerman said he would determine today what to do.

Ackerman went into Circuit Court yesterday and obtained the injunction under an emergency law of the territorial Legislature. Under this act, the government has seized Hawaii's struck stevedoring firms. It plans to operate the docks, tied up since the ILWU struck May 1 for a 32-cent hike in the $1.40 hourly basic longshore wage.

The territory resorted to the injunction as it tried to unload the Matson Line freighter Hawaiian Merchant at pier 9. ILWU pickets were on duty there. CIO marine cooks and stewards and independent marine firemen said they would walk off the ship if Government stevedores worked behind the picket line.

The injunction restrains the ILWU from picketing pier 9, and restrains the ILWU, its officers and 100 "John Does" from "inciting or directing" anyone else to picket the pier and thus halt work on the ship.

Taking a picket post on pier 9, Bridges moved swiftly toward the ILWU's long-threatened test of the seizure law's constitutionality. Authorities served him with an injunction notice, and he stuffed it in his pocket. For a half-hour he marched on the picket line. Police did not try to stop him. On the march he told reporters:

"This is the start on this law. It's going to the Supreme Court. This is where it starts and that is where it will end. What these islands need is a cool breeze, legislatively speaking."

The ILWU has called the seizure law an attempt to break the strike.

Bridges and his union blocked for one full day, at least, the Government's operations on Matson Line ships. They normally carry the bulk of Hawaii-mainland commerce. The Government did, however, make a start on stevedoring operations. Its gangs began unloading without incident the Panamanian freighter Nortuna. It has a foreign, non-union crew, thus there was no issue of support for the ILWU.

TRIBUNE PAID $4,500,000 FOR PAPER IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Col. Robert R. McCormick's Chicago Tribune paid $4,500,000 cash for the Washington Times-Herald, morning and afternoon newspaper which Mrs. Eleanor M. (Cissie) Patterson willed to seven "faithful employes" a year ago.

The three executors of Mrs. Patterson's will, disclosing the purchase price in an accounting report to Federal District Court here yesterday, recorded the sale as a $2,525,134.24 capital gain over their $1,974,865.76 valuation of the paper's assets.

A further disclosure of the accounting report was that "as of Aug. 15, 1949, arrangements have been completed for the sale of" Mrs. Patterson's one-fourth, $9,537,000, interest in the McCormick-Patterson family trust which controls the Chicago Tribune, the New York Daily News and the New York Daily News Syndicate.

The seven Times-Herald executives whom Mrs. Patterson rewarded with the gift of the newspaper are:

William C. Shelton, Frank C. Waldrop, Edmund F. Jewell, Michael W. Flynn, H. A. Robinson, J. Irving Belt and Mason S. Peters. Shelton and Waldrop serve as executors of the entire estate, in which a number of other persons were left shares, along with Joseph W. Brooks.

BELL CO. PLEA FOR ILLINOIS RATE INCREASE BEING HEARD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 16 (AP)—A Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officer testified today the firm will lose a total of $1,800,657 in Illinois this year and next unless emergency rate increases are granted.

The statement came from C. R. DeWitt, Southwestern Bell's chief supervising accountant, at an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing on two company petitions for higher rates. The firm seeks permanent increases of $1,380,000 a year. While this case is pending, it wants increases of $1,000,000 on an emergency basis.

The Commerce Commission continued the permanent phase to Sept. 13 at East St. Louis. It will hear oral arguments on the petition for temporary rate rises here tomorrow. E. K. Johnson, city attorney of Belleville, appeared in opposition to the temporary rate hike. Johnson entered an appearance for Dan McGlynn, city attorney of East St. Louis, who he said also is against the proposed rise.

BYRD ANTARCTIC TRIP CALLED OFF BY NAVY FOR ECONOMY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (UP)—The Navy today "postponed" the Antarctic expedition scheduled for this fall because of "compelling reasons of economy."

It had been planned for more than a year and had been named "task force 66."

R. Adm. Richard E. Byrd, veteran polar explorer, would have commanded it. Some 3500 men and eight ships had been earmarked for the venture. The expedition was planned as "Operation High Jump II," the second phase of the expedition which took Navy explorers and scientists to the South Polar region in 1946.

Four D.P.s Arrive in St. Louis As Result of Help by Former G.I.

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
Two of the displaced Latvians befriended by John Orval Sutter being greeted at Union Station yesterday by his mother and aunt. Left to right, MRS. ORVAL C. SUTTER, MISS VALDA EZERGAILIS, MRS. ALMA KALNINS and MRS. RICHARD A. SUTTER.

Efforts of a 23-year-old former G.I. to aid displaced persons with whom he came in contact while serving with the United States Army of Occupation in Europe three years ago bore fruit yesterday with the arrival in St. Louis of four persons from a displaced persons camps at Ansbach, Germany.

The former soldier is John Orval Sutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval C. Sutter, 7719 Trenton avenue, University City, who, his mother said, completed arrangements for new homes for the displaced persons before leaving recently for Shanghai, China, where he is transportation officer attached to the American consulate.

The displaced persons whom Sutter befriended are Mrs. Alma Kalnins, 45 years old; Miss Valda Ezergailis, 20, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Janis Ezergailis. All formerly were residents of Riga, Latvia. Mrs. Kalnins and Miss Ezergailis arrived in St. Louis from New Orleans shortly after 5 p.m. yesterday, and Miss Ezergailis's parents arrived last midnight.

Mrs. Kalnins will make her new home with Dr. and Mrs. Richard A. Sutter, 7215 Greenway avenue, University City, an uncle of John Orval Sutter, while Miss Ezergailis will live with Mr. and Mrs. Theo Haimann, 416 Edgewood drive, Clayton. Ezergailis, who was a dairy farmer in Latvia, and his wife will stay at the farm of Dr. George A. Seib near O'Fallon, Ill.

Mrs. Orval Sutter, whose husband is Public Administrator in St. Louis county, said her son had met Mrs. Kalnins and Miss Ezergailis while stationed at Ansbach in 1945-46. The women were employed at the hotel where he was billeted.

Young Sutter was discharged from the Army in April 1946, his mother related, and lost track of the two women. He applied to the Foreign Inquiry Section of the American Red Cross in December 1947 for aid in locating them and finally last September was informed Miss Ezergailis was in a displaced persons camp near Ansbach.

Through correspondence with her, Sutter located Mrs. Kalnins, Mr. and Mrs. Ezergailis and two other families he wanted to assist. Arrangements have been completed for the other two families to come to St. Louis at a later date, Mrs. Sutter said.

NEGRO LEADER WARNS AGAINST BLEACH FOR SKIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP) — Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Persons, today warned of the danger of using a chemical which he said sometimes turns skin from black to white.

White, who is of Negro blood but white-skinned, said in an article in Look magazine that the chemical as now known may cause pain, anemia, convulsions or even death, and that the effect o nthe skin is only temporary, changing the color for six months to a year.

A New York skin specialist told the Associated Press that "nobody can turn white from using the drug at present," and that attempts to change the color of Negro skin have not succeeded.

White said the chemical was discovered when some Negro and Mexican workers in a tannery shortly before the war found that their hands and arms were turning white. He said the whitening was traced to monobenzyl ether of hydroquinone, which had been used to treat their rubber gloves. The article said that white coworkers wearing the gloves reported that their arms would not tan from the sun.

White said scientists found the chemical removes a skin pigment, melanin, which Negroes have in much more abundance than white people. Melanin is a factor in the sun-tanning of white skin.

Commenting on White's report, the skin specialist said most of the workers who wore the rubber gloves did not have even changes of color, but showed patchy whiteness on hands and arms. White wrote that it was "almost a certainty" that a safe form of the chemical would be on sale "within two to 10 years."

PRICE HEADS B-36 INQUIRY GROUP ON WAY TO WEST COAST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Active investigation of the B-36 bomber and its history switched today from Capitol Hill to the West Coast.

A House armed services subcommittee headed by Representative Melvin Price (Dem.), East St. Louis, left for California to talk to Gen. Henry H. (Hap) Arnold, who was chief of the Air Force during the war, and to several airplane manufacturers. Committee staff members were with the Representatives.

The full committee is investigating informal reports that political favoritism and business relationships may have had more to do with the success of the giant six-engined bomber than did its value as a military plane. There were four days of public hearings last week.

With the inquiry marking time here, the interest of committee members centered on an anonymous document detailing some of the charges. Representative Bates (Rep.), Massachusetts, said the committee should devote all its energy right now to discovering who wrote it. As soon as the committee finds out, he added, those responsible should be brought in as witnesses "to give the evidence they have."

The full document has not been made public yet by the committee.

GRACE HILL HOUSE CHILDREN VISIT TOM SAWYER COUNTRY

Thirty-seven children in the summer day care program of Grace Hill House, 2600 Hadley street, went to Hannibal, Mo., today for a one-day visit to the Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer country.

The children will visit the home of Mark Twain, creator of Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer, and many places along the Mississippi river where incidents in the lives of the two fictional heroes were supposed to have taken place.

Grace Hill House, a Community Chest agency, provides supervised play and trips for children of working mothers.

U.N. GROUP FINISHES BROAD PLAN TO AID BACKWARD AREAS

GENEVA, Aug. 16 (AP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Council completed last night a broad plan for aiding underdeveloped areas of Asia, Africa and South America. The plan was approved 15 to 0. The Soviet Union, White Russia and Poland abstained from voting.

The program to help the three regions reach economic and social security will be forwarded to the U.N. General Assembly for final approval. As drawn up, the plan resembles President Truman's proposal for aid to backward areas.

A maximum of $36,000,000 next year and an estimated $50,000,000 the following year would be spent on the program through the U.N. and special agencies. The Food and Agriculture Organization would receive 29 per cent of the funds, the U.N. 23 per cent, the World Health Organization 22 per cent, and three other agencies 26 per cent.

The council will call a conference during the forthcoming General Assembly to determine contributions expected from participating governments for the program.

Council Chairman James Thorn of New Zealand said the program "will reduce tensions and dangers which flow from degradation and inequality" in the underdeveloped areas.

GRAND JURY ASKED TO ACT IN FATAL EAST SIDE CRASH

The St. Clair county grand jury at Belleville has been asked to take action which will enable East Side authorities to compel John S. Zakrewski of 2223 Natural Bridge avenue, St. Louis, to answer for his part in a fatal automobile accident of July 9.

Zakrewski is said to have driven the automobile which struck a jeep pushing a stalled car, causing fatal injuries to two men in the stalled car. They were Willard B. Thompson of Glendale, St. Louis county, and Ralph Votrain of Lebanon, Ill. The accident was on U. S. Highway 50 at French Village.

Zakrewski and two other St. Louis men were injured and went to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, but left the hospital without having been placed under bond to return to Illinois. They did not appear at the coroner's inquest, held in East St. Louis Friday, and the jury named Zakrewski in a manslaughter verdict, and named the two others as accessories.

WARRANTS FOR THREE YOUTHS WHO ADMITTED BURGLARIES

Three 18-year-old youths who have admitted committing numerous burglaries in South Side homes were named today in warrants issued by the Circuit Attorney's office, charging second degree burglary and larceny.

Five warrants have been issued against Richard J. Hollerbach, leader of the group; three against Alfred Guidici and two against Frank Struif. All were held today at Penrose police station. A 16-year-old boy in the group has been turned over to Juvenile Court authorities.

CHILD IS INJURED IN FALL FROM SECOND-FLOOR PORCH

Sharon Crittendon, 20-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Crittendon, 230A Sidney street, was injured seriously yesterday when she fell 14 feet from a second floor porch to the rear yard of her home.

Mrs. Crittendon told police the upright bars of the porch railing are widely spaced and the child apparently fell after squeezing through them. She was taken to City Hospital where she is under treatment for head injuries.

GERMAN RELIEF AGENT VISITS AGENCIES HERE

Welfare Worker Is Director of Church Program for Women and Children.

Miss Elizabeth Urbig, director of relief for children and women for a Protestant agency at Stuttgart, Germany, is making a study in St. Louis of welfare and social work, under an exchange program arranged by the American Military Government in Germany.

Arriving in the United States two months ago for a 90-day tour, Miss Urbig has visited New York, Washington and Denver. She came here Sunday night. She expects to stay a week, working with the Y.W.C.A. and the Commission of World Service of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, whose national headquarters is at Eden Publishing House, 1724 Chouteau avenue.

Miss Urbig.

The agency, Hilfswerk, operates through all Protestant denominations on a four-zonal basis in Germany, Miss Urbig explained. It distributes food and clothing received from foreign countries and organizes recreational and educational facilities for all Germans needing aid, she said.

"The greatest need of children in Germany is still clothing," Miss Urbig said. "Many times children have not been able to take part in constructive games or hikes because they did not have shoes to wear."

Aside from food and clothing received from foreign countries, the relief work is financed by Germans, she said. One phase of the work is the establishing of "recovery houses" where undernourished or tubercular children are sent free of charge to be cured.

"Germany is still a devastated country and the amount of relief work to be done is staggering," Miss Urbig said. "A survey in the American zone in 1945 showed three-fourths of all children to be undernourished and conditions have not improved greatly."

Tall and greying slightly, Miss Urbig is filled with energy and very enthusiastic about her visit to America. She speaks English precisely and with a slight accent. A former military government worker in Germany, she considers her visit a practical lesson in democracy as well as an opportunity to study first-hand social and welfare agencies.

Next week Miss Urbig will visit the Y.W.C.A. in Chicago and then will go to the Y.W.C.A. national headquarters in New York.

DRUGGIST IS FINED $500 ON MISBRANDING CHARGE

William Teffer, a druggist, 6337 North Rosebury avenue, Clayton, and sales manager of the Thiacin Co., 15 North Jefferson avenue, was fined $500 by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper today when he pleaded guilty to a criminal information charging him with violating the pure food and drug laws.

He was charged with having violated the law by misbranding a product represented to be an effective treatment for the cure of arthritis, rheumatism and muscular lumbago. A shipment of the product was sent to Paris, Ill., Aug. 8, 1948.

The Pure Food and Drug Department contended that, while the preparation was all right for the relief of pain, it was not a cure. It contained a large quantity of aspirin.

NORTH, SOUTH KOREA FIGHTING COSTS 72 LIVES IN 10 DAYS

SEOUL, Aug. 16 (AP) — The South Korean army reported today that sporadic fighting 70 miles northeast of here in the past 10 days had cost 72 known dead.

The fighting has been confined to a mile long stretch of mountainous terrain separating the Communist north from the Republic of South Korea. Neither side has advanced more than 300 yards beyond the border at any point.

South Korea has lost 25 soldiers and two civilians killed and 115 wounded. The army says at least 95 North Koreans have been killed and that 45 bodies have been found.

UNIONS, MO. PAC. OFFICIALS TO HOLD STRIKE PARLEY

Meeting Tomorrow on Fact-Finding Board's Recommendations on 300 Grievances.

Representatives of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and of the four railroad operating brotherhoods will meet at 2 p.m. tomorrow to discuss the recommendations of the fact-finding board appointed by President Truman as to what should be done to avert a strike on the railroad after Sept. 2.

The presidential fact-finding board reported to President Truman Aug. 2 that it was unable to find a solution to the approximately 300 grievances filed by the brotherhoods against the railroad and recommended that the unions follow the procedures of the law and submit their grievances to the railroad adjustment board at Chicago.

Union representatives, however, have said they are unwilling to do this because of the backlog of cases pending before the adjustment board. They said the board is almost five years behind in its work. Government officials in Washington fear the union representatives will take the same position at tomorrow's meeting and reject the recommendation of the fact-finding board.

Warning by Board.

The fact-finding board warned in its report that, if the unions went ahead with the strike, that policy "would soon result in the complete nullification of the Railway Labor Act."

Tomorrow's meeting is scheduled to be held in the general offices of the Missouri Pacific and probably will be one of a long series of meetings between representatives of the railroad and the unions to settle the grievances by direct negotiation, one of the brotherhood representatives said.

Unions involved are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomtive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Together, they represent some 6500 employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

No Date Set for Strike.

A strike was authorized by the operating employes of the railroad last Dec. 15, but no date was set at that time for it to become effective. Subsequently, a strike was set for July 11 and the presidential fact-finding board was appointed at that time to avert the walkout.

Under the law, the unions are prevented from taking strike action for 30 days after the fact-finding board filed its report with the President. Thus, the strike could start any time after Sept. 2. No date has been set so far for the strike to begin, a representative of one of the brotherhoods said today.

The grievances listed by the brotherhoods involve claims for overtime pay, assignment of work and other issues arising from interpretation of railroad working rules.

EIGHT APPLICANTS FOR CITY FIRE CHIEF EXAMINATION

Eight members of the City Fire Department have applied to take examinations for promotion to fire chief, it was announced today by Director of Personnel R. Elliott Scearce.

The post was left vacant Aug. 3 when Frank Egenriether resigned, saying the Administration had tried to force him to recommend that 124 firemen be dropped for economy. Mayor Joseph M. Darst later said plans for the cut had been dropped before Egenriether quit.

Deadline for filing of applications originally had been set for last midnight. It was extended until Friday midnight to give any others wishing to try for the post an ample opportunity to do so, Scearce said. Applicants must be members of the department and must have held the rank of captain, or a higher rank, for 10 of the last 20 years.

WOMAN STRUCK BY HUSBAND WITH SLEDGE HAMMER DIES

Mrs. Amy P. McKenzie, 137 South Douglas avenue, Belleville, died last night at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, of a crushed skull suffered Saturday when, police reported, her husband, Edgar, struck her with a sledge hammer at their home.

McKenzie, a 64-year-old coal hauler, then hanged himself in the basement of the home. An inquest into both deaths was scheduled to be held late today by Coroner C. C. Kane of St. Clair county.

N.A.M. MAN ASSAILS STEEL FIRMS FOR AGREEING TO BOARD

was the company president, H. G. Batcheller. He testified that the union's wage, insurance and pension demands, described by the union as a 30-cents-an-hour "package," would really cost Allegheny from 40 to 56 cents an hour, on the basis of actuarial computations made for that particular company. The 40-to-56-cent range of which Batcheller spoke would depend on volume of production—the smaller figure for high utilization of capacity, the larger for a lower utilization of capacity, and both dependent on how much steel the company could sell.

An increase such as the union now demands, Batcheller said, would more than wipe out his company's net earnings for the most prosperous year in its history.

Officers of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp., including the president, Carl W. Meyers, testified the 30-cent-an-hour "package" increase could not be borne by that company without a general increase in steel prices. The board has received other testimony that under present conditions of reduced steel demand there can be no general increase in steel prices.

Meyers emphasized that his company is still negotiating with the union. He didn't discuss pensions, which the companies contend are not "bargainable" at this time under a reopening clause in a contract which runs to next April 30.

Contributory Insurance.

But, he said, his company had offered to the union a contributory plan of social insurance. The union is seeking these benefits at the cost solely to the employer.

"I believe in social benefits," said Meyers. "I want the employes of our company to have the type of social benefits the union is seeking. I say that unequivocally.

"I could say no differently, because to say it differently would be to deny all my years of experience in the steel industry and what I feel in my heart.

"I have worked in the heat of the rolling mills as a laborer and in every position between that and my present job. I know the needs and desires of the steel workers with whom I have worked all my life. I have devoted my energies for years to the task of improving the conditions under which steel workers live."

Meyers was beginning to sound more like a union business agent than a steel company president. But bearing the responsibilities of president and knowing, in that capacity, the business outlook of his firm, he could not go all the way with the union demands.

Threat to Job Security.

Still, he told the board, "I don't come here to cry 'wolf.' But I feel it my duty to point out to the board the facts concerning our corporation as I see them. I feel the increase in labor costs of the union's economic proposals would inevitably threaten the basic job security of every employe of our corporation. . . . At the same time I am deeply aware of the need of our employes for an adequate program of social insurance benefits. . . . Mindful of all these factors, I sincerely urge the board to consider the drastic impact of the union's proposals for increases of rates of pay and social benefits. I recommend instead the sounder plan of insurance on a contributory basis which we have offered to the union."

Meyers's temperate and conciliatory attitude set a new high mark for company spokesmen before the board. His was a unique presentation for company witnesses heard so far. Most of them get pretty hot under the collar, and so did most of the union spokesmen.

Another Loss Calculation.

For the Likens Steel Co. Robert W. Wolcott, president, told the board his firm would have lost $2,888,000 in its last fiscal year instead of earning a $4,261,604 profit before taxes had the company then been subjected to the wage "package" now sought by the union.

He had computed as had the Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., an actuarial estimate of what the union's social insurance and pension proposals, as applied to his firm, would really cost. Coupled with the 12½ cent wage increase sought, he said, the total cost to his firm would be not 30 cents an hour for each employe, but 65¼ cents an hour.

The A.M. Byers Co., last of the small steel companies heard yesterday, sent both its lawyer and its president to the hearing. It, too, had an actuarial computation of the real cost of pensions, social insurance, and hourly wage increase sought by the union as applied to its operation. The company president, L. F. Rains, testified that meeting the union's demands would cost it not 30 cents an hour an employe, but 60 cents to $1 an hour, depending on the rate of its production and sales.

Counsel for the firm, Frank L. Seamans, said the ten best consecutive years of earnings of the Byers firm showed an average annual profit of $1,143,000. Those years were the last 10. Meeting the union's demands now, Seamans added, would convert profits into an annual loss of $2,357,000.

Today's time has been allotted to the Bethlehem Steel Corp, next to United States Steel the largest producer in the country. It will be the first of the "big three" steel producers to present its individual case to the panel.

SCHOLAR GIVES NEW DATA ON BIBLICAL SCROLLS

find until the Spring of 1948, when cautiously written items began to appear in Jerusalem publications. It soon became apparent that archeological revelations of the first magnitude had been uncovered.

After the British mandate in Palestine ended in May 1948, the area on both sides of the Jordan river was occupied by the Arab Legion. The cave site then became the official concern of Dr. Harding, and the protection and study of the scrolls the responsibility of his department.

He made inquiries throughout Arab Palestine, searched vainly for the goat herd, studied the fragmentary reports from Jerusalem, and in February 1949, finally sent out an expedition to relocate the cave.

At the time, Palestine was still in a state of war. The expedition had to be convoyed by an armed detachment of the Arab Legion.

They found the cave, perched on a desolate stretch of rock left by an earth fault a hundred centuries old. Freshly turned earth lay in piles around the mouth of the cave. Fragments of jars and pieces of manuscripts were scattered everywhere. It appeared that, besides the hasty raid by the goatherd, another expedition had beaten Dr. Harding to the cave.

There were reports in Jerusalem that an expedition from two academic bodies there had visited the cache a few months earlier. Whoever it was that invaded the cave, they apparently knew little of archeological technique, since a large percentage of the scrolls left behind had been carelessly mutilated.

Among the fragments Dr. Harding found there were enough to identify several important discoveries. To these were added the reports of previous finds that had filtered out of Jerusalem.

The most important seemed to be the Book of Isaiah, five ecclesiastical writings known in the Apocrypha, a manual of Jewish rights and disciplines, and an epic work of hymns. The Isaiah manuscript was uncovered through Chapter sixty-six.

Translations Awaited.

What Biblical scholars throughout the world now await are translations of the Isaiah scrolls. It may be a revolutionary find. The earliest manuscript of Isaiah known previously, in the Codex Petropolitanus, dates from the ninth century A.D. What differences emparison of the texts will reveeal, in view of the violent disputes which have raged since the Reformation over the Hebraic and Greek versions, are bound to have far-reaching effects on theological studies.

Perhaps even more important to some students will be translations of the Old Testament Apocrypha. Although the word "Apocrypha" today has come to denote something spurious to many, it actually derives from a Greek root meaning "hidden" or "secret." For these words, the world now has manuscripts dating to 200 B.C. and probably earlier. The actual storage of the jars was estimated by Harding in the late Maccabean period.

Just why these valuable documents were thus hidden is another mystery. There are two possible explanations so far. Either the cache was a Jewish repository for damaged ritualistic writings from nearby synagogues, or it was a sanctuary for sacred writ hidden hurriedly in time of peril. It seems more likely to have been the latter, for there is evidence the scrolls were placed in the cave in a hurry, and the entrance hastily concealed with stones and sod.

They are expected to ask for some arrangement for continued American stockpiling of rubber and tin at agreed prices, and for increased American capital investment in the sterling area. They may also propose multilateral devaluation of the "soft" currencies, although, because it would reduce living standards at home, Cripps hates the very word "devaluation."

This sort of thing, if Snyder will go even so far, should help. The drop in Malayan rubber and tin exports has hit the British harder than the drop in exports to the United States from Britain itself. American capital is not getting abroad — which means simply that the world's greatest capitalist and creditor nation is not acting like a capitalist and creditor nation. Finally, some sort of devaluation of the pound is sooner or later inevitable, if only because currency is a slippery thing, and the pound cannot be maintained indefinitely at an artificial level.

This sort of paring at the fringes of the problem might conceivably be enough to keep the crisis within manageable limits. Surely it is essential at least to have in reserve the kind of bold action on a big scale necessary to restore the free world's confidence in itself.

This sort of planning is in fact going forward, both in London and Washington. But it is going forward half-heartedly, largely because everyone knows that Snyder, and the conservative banking circles he represents, would react with pink-faced horror at any suggestion that the American gold hoard be put to some useful purpose, for example, or that anything similarly unconventional be done. So, while the timid Snyder scolds, while the weary Cripps rests in his sanatorium, disaster inches nearer, inexorably, day by day.

CUT IN MILITARY BUDGET PROPOSED AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—A smaller budget for the military establishment is under discussion for the fiscal year starting next July 1, Secretary of Defense Johnson disclosed yesterday.

How much smaller, he declined to say. Nor would he give any indication of what parts of it will go to the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Johnson and other top leaders of the military establishment called at the White House to talk about defense spending. Budget Director Frank Pace also sat in on today's talks.

All Johnson would tell reporters was: "We are beginning work on the new budget and we gave him (Truman) some figures. The figures are less than for the current fiscal year."

The military budget Truman sent to Congress in January called for $14,268,000,000 for the present fiscal year. However, defense appropriations now awaiting action in Congress total about $15,900,000,000.

Childhood Adventure

When 'God' Led Way On Tour of Brewery

By Betty Huey Saunders

GOD, for me as a child, wore a gray suit and billed cap; walked on soft-soled, quiet feet; motioned with His hands to point out the dangers and pitfalls of life; and spoke with a gentle voice. People watched Him, and listened to Him, in awe, hanging on every word, then whispering to each other the things He had said.

From the moment I first saw Him, I held Him in terrible reverence and fear, lest I do or say something to displease Him, and He might let me fall into the boiling pits of punishment which smelled awful.

The occasion on which I was sure I saw Him took place one day when I was four or five years old. The ladies of our church, in Maplewood, had gathered themselves together to start on a pilgrimage. Since sitters were uncommon then, my mother usually took me with her, to grocery stores, Ladies' Aid meetings, W.C.T.U. meetings, afternoon parties, or stork showers. Hence, often being the only child present among many talkative women, I, in my impressionable silence, absorbed a good deal about life they would never have suspected.

ON THIS PARTICULAR DAY, a dozen or more women, probably from the W.C.T.U., met on a street corner—Maple avenue at Sutton—at which they could board a streetcar to start their journey. As they buzzed their women-talk, on a keyboard much above mine, I felt lost down there below, in a forest of long skirts. I could only look up at their large hats, trimmed with ostrich feathers, and wonder where we were going. Once I pulled on my mother's skirt to get her to bend down. Her ear on my level, I whispered: "Mother, where are we going?"

She smiled understandingly, but she whispered back the way mothers did then: "You're too little to understand, Betty." Then she ended with a vague comment also customary: "Some day you will be grown-up, too, and you will know."

When she was once again as high as the other ladies, I heard them all whisper. Then they looked searchingly at me, as they did when they helped me up to the high steps of the streetcar.

WE RODE several streetcars, transferring from one to another, on a ride that seemed interminable. My feet did not touch the floor; the straw-woven seat was hard; and I was lonesome. Surely, I thought, this must be an important day, with some magnificent purpose behind it, to warrant such a painful trip.

Finally the high pitch of excitement in the women's voices, accompanied by an arranging of shirtwaists and hats, showed we were about to arrive somewhere.

"Just a short walk, now," said one of the women as we stepped down to a cobblestone street.

"To where, Mother?" I asked courageously.

"Anheuser-Busch Brewery," she answered after thinking it over. She braved the raised eyebrows of several women, which indicated I was still too young to know.

"What's Anheuser-Busch Brewery?" I wanted to know. "And why do we have to go there?"

"Now, now," a tall woman answered, patting me on a shoulder. "We need to inspect it and study it, so we can talk about it. You'll see for yourself."

HUM OF TALK died down completely as we approached a door in a large building. As we entered the heavy door, other people were coming out. I saw my mother's face, and other faces as well, turn white as we went inside.

"Do you think we should have come?" the women began to ask each other. "This is so out of the ordinary—"

"But we know nothing about such things as this, and we must learn the facts for ourselves," the tall one answered.

No more was said until we were seated in a large bare room with brick walls painted a shiny gray. In deep silence we, like a few other people present, sat on wooden benches around the wall.

The women, including my mother, sat stiffly straight, looking at each other with some fear in their eyes, but saying nothing. Mostly, everyone watched the door expectantly. One woman looked at the gold watch which hung from a chain pinned to her lace blouse.

I began to squirm and wiggle on my uncomfortable bench. Glances frowned me into being still. I, too, watched the door, which took too long to open.

Daring an impatient whisper, I pulled my mother's big hat down to me and said into her hair: "What are we waiting for?"

"Sh!" she whispered. "We're waiting for the God," I thought I heard her say.

THAT WAS a bolt of lightning. In that instant I turned hot all over, and I couldn't have said a word if I'd wanted to. In Sunday school I had learned to fear and respect Him. I had learned, too, that God moved in mysterious ways. As of that day, I believed it.

My eyes glued on the door, I sat numbly, wondering what God would look like when He stepped through that door. Would he have wings, and a gold crown, and shine with a blinding light? What then would happen?

The door opened. Everyone in the room stood up in respectful silence, facing the man who entered. Sliding down from my bench, I stood up, too.

I was disappointed. He was short, pasty-faced and solemn, and He wore a gray uniform suit, with a gray billed cap. It didn't look a bit like I had pictured God, but loyally I accepted Him, thinking maybe that was one of the disguises He assumed for manifestations unto us humans.

We waited until other people with Him returned to their benches to pick up their wraps and leave. The "God" beckoned and said: "Come."

We followed blindly, in two silent lines behind Him. We went wherever he went, through rooms filled with noisy machinery. I couldn't understand much of what He said, or what people in the rooms had to do with the big machines, but I supposed God knew what He was doing.

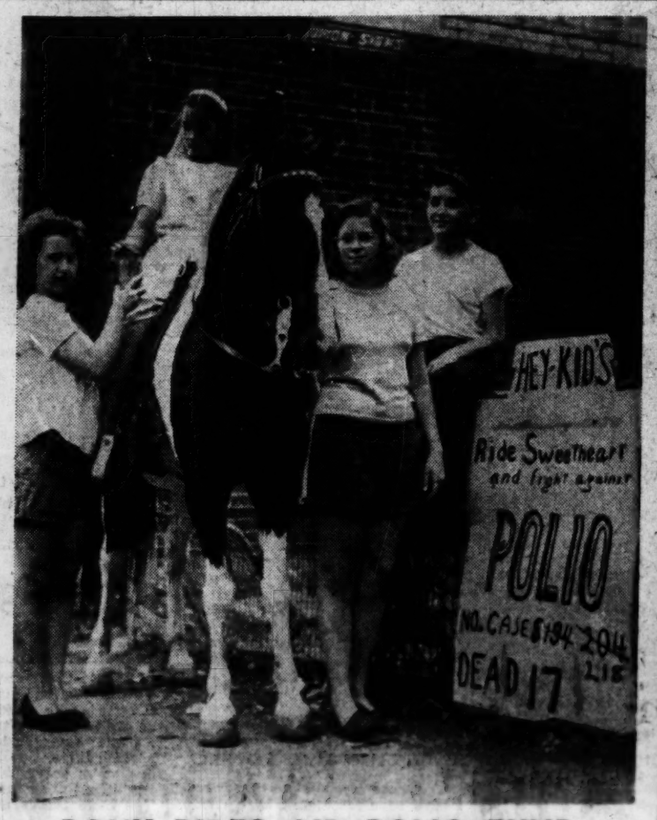

He led us through mazes of paths fenced

What Am I Saying!

AS my good friend, the late John Barrymore, once said, an actor, in trying to be everything but himself, is the only honest hypocrite. In reminiscing about his brother Lionel's debut on Broadway many years ago, John said that Lionel wasn't a bit nervous on the opening night, although he was somewhat uneasy on the closing night. I don't wonder. It was the same night.

BROADWAY, ELSEWHERE

By Jack Lait

The Reporter, the Poet and the Bum

THE University of New Hampshire, at Durham, sends me an announcement of a campus conclave of writers, amateurs and pros, who will gather there this week and next, to have their works criticized by professors, intellectual by-liners and editors. I pray that something may come of it. I have destroyed a lot of good white paper by marking it up with typewriting in my time. I have lectured, written a manual addressed to aspiring authors, made a fair living at turning out copy for some years. I have been praised and I have been panned. But I have yet to profit from any but the most rudimentary advice and criticism, which covered at most technical punctuation and rhetoric, which I neglected in English 9 because the course was taught at the hour assigned for baseball practice.

THE MOST COGENT and pungent literary criticism in my memory came not as commentary on anything I had written. In truth, I had written nothing to speak of then, as I was a very callow cub reporter. As such, I was assigned to interview John Cowpet Powys, then poet laureate of England, who was stopping over in Chicago. The immortal received me in his hotel suite. He poured forth uninspired platitudes. Then I was struck with an idea. I asked Powys to write an original poem for my paper. He chuckled. "Strange," he soliloquized. "Passing strange. I have just concluded one. Yes, you may have it."

HE GAVE ME a hand-written manuscript on hotel stationery. He drew me to the window and pointed down to Grant Park, the lake-front habitat of tramps and loafers. He singled out a fat bum, lying face-upward in the shade. "That man was the principal model for what I wrote," he said. "I have been watching him. Observe, if you please, the opening lines: 'Indolent wastrel of God's time, sunshine and air. Befouling verdant beauty, sprawling there—the velvet grass his couch of useless, idle sloth—a blot on mankind and on nature both.'" (That is from memory.) It went on through several verses. The title was: "From My Blackstone Window."

I THANKED HIM, grabbed the masterpiece and started back. But reporter's instinct told me I should get an expression from the hobo, too. I ran across Michigan boulevard, onto the beautiful broad lakeside lawn, woke up the bozo and handed him the poem. "That," I said, "is fresh from the quivering quill of Britain's poet laureate. You are the indolent wastrel, the sloth, the blot. I am a reporter. Read that and speak YOUR piece." He ran through the pretentious jingle, then said: "In the first place, the sentiment was much more lyrically expounded by Oliver Goldsmith in 'The Deserted Village.' In the second place, poets don't stand in the Blackstone and look down at Grant Park; poets stretch out in Grant Park and look up at the Blackstone!"

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE U-256: Philip G., aged 38, is a distinguished looking American of Greek extraction. "Dr. Crane, I came to see you for some vocational advice," he spoke pleasantly.

"My experience has been varied. After graduating from high school in Chicago, I became manager of a theater. Then I later shifted to sales work, and three years ago I was persuaded into taking over a job as manager of a large restaurant. But my employer refused to give me the salary bonus which I had been promised, so I quit last week.

"All my life, however, I've wanted to be an engineer. I have an excellent lathe and laboratory in my basement, and am fairly handy with tools. But I have never had any college training. What would you advise, Dr. Crane? I hate the restaurant business."

WOULD YOU advise Philip, at the age of 38, to go back to college, study engineering for at least four more years, so he might land a $75 per week job with the General Electric or some other large firm?

It takes far more than a college degree to make you successful. After four years of engineering training, Philip might be no nearer a good job than he is at the present moment.

Psychologists will freely admit the old adage that there is always plenty of room at the top. But a man should play the batting averages and take all facts into consideration.

WHAT ARE Philip's chief talents? He has the looks, bearing and good English of a polished executive. Besides, for 15 years he has handled people with at least reasonable success. He has thus demonstrated his executive ability by holding responsible jobs.

His background, therefore, qualifies him for work which involves dealing with people. This is a valuable talent and one which, unfortunately, no college course adequately deals with. You develop it chiefly by experience with life.

PHILIP SHOULD thus continue merchandising this major talent for his livelihood and then indulge his mechanical interests as a hobby. In fact, many of our greatest engineering inventions have been made by self-educated men, such as Ford and Edison, who were not college engineers.

Philip can still enjoy mechanics and possibly add to the world's list of inventions by puttering around in his basement laboratory as an avocation.

Quit Asking, 'Hot Enough for You?'

Otherwise You May Inquire of Wrong Man, Whereupon He'll Commit Murder

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.

FOR the past three months I have been quietly garroting all friends who ask, "Hot enough for you?"

Yep, you obvious idiot, I snarl, it is hot enough for me. It is too hot for me, and you have only added to my grief. Then, with an angry shaking of my sodden mane, I leap at the foolish person's throat. In a few minutes it is all over, this justifiable genocide of the witless.

Disposing of the body is the simplest trick of all. I simply leave it there on whatever New York street served as the execution point. In five minutes it sinks through the soft tar and is gone. There are no fingerprints.

Even if I am double-crossed by a cool spell, which would permit the body of a victim to remain afloat on the malleable macadam of the city long enough to be recovered by the police, I doubt if even an ulcerous judge would hold me in gaol or worse.

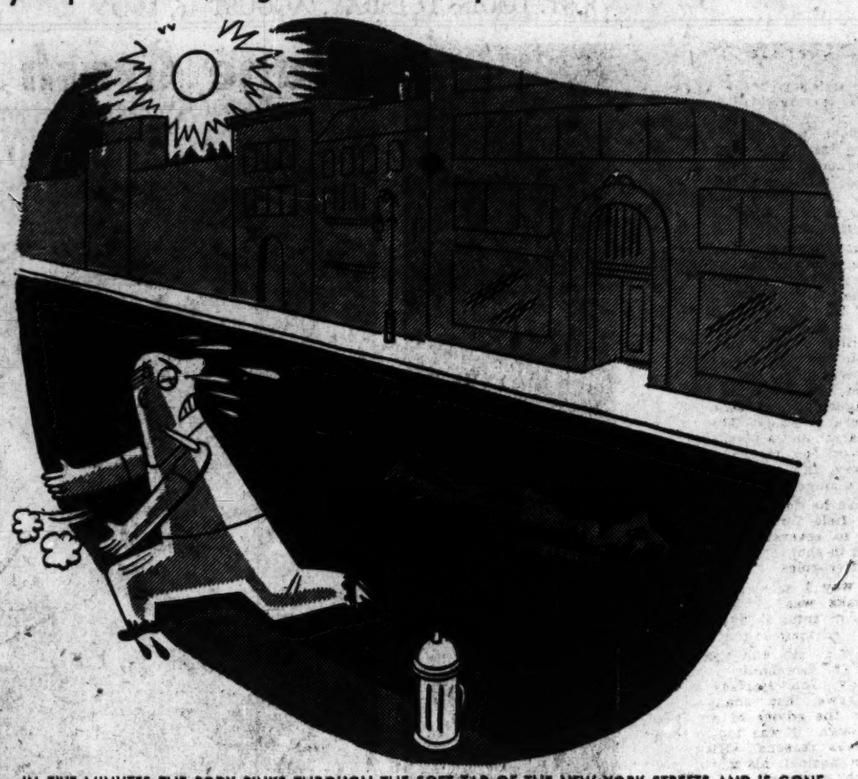

After all, a man who pays taxes should be protected from the bird-brained cliche utterers of the day. If the police haven't the courage to step in to protect a wilting burgher from the pain of being constantly asked the obvious, the burgher must take the proper steps himself.

The "hot enough for you?" askers, if permitted to live, will cause only additional woe among those of us who had the benefit of at least four years of schooling.

They will survive, if mercy is shown them now, long enough to ask in January, "Is it cold enough for you?"—a question they'll spring when they spot you lying attached to the ice in a frozen gutter, whence you accidentally slipped the night before when seized by an attack of seven Martinis.

They will survive, too, long enough to call you on the telephone some night at 2:30 a. m., just after blessed sleep has come to the relief of aching muscles, and ask, "What's new?"

Unless they are taken care of now, at a time when their bodies can be disposed of quickly, they will live to see the day when—upon meeting you on the street—they can speak one of their most treasured banalities, "Long time no see!"

IN FIVE MINUTES THE BODY SINKS THROUGH THE SOFT TAR OF THE NEW YORK STREETS AND IS GONE.

If you let them escape this summer, they may effect an escape to Canada and send you a postcard which, when deciphered in the blinding heat of what your real estate agent called a cool apartment, will bear the legend: 'Sleeping under blankets," or "Wish you were here," or, worse, both.

That rootin' tootin' British nuclear physicist named Dr. Tutin said, as a recent essay pointed out, the average American sweats an aggregate of 50 pounds per diem in the summer. But us members of the society of super-sweaters know that 50 pounds is chicken feed.

We must give off at least 100 pounds a day or we're posted on the society's bulletin board — a blotter. We're 4-shirts-a-day men, we are, and very touchy about the whole thing. We swear never to use the effeminate word "perspire" or the vague "transpire." We say "sweat." It is the only word that does justice to our swollen sweat glands.

There are interesting biological throwbacks and throw-forwards among super-sweaters. The society is now preparing a treatise on my own case. One of my three sons takes after his mother, one of whose distant forbears must have been frightened by a cucumber. The child hasn't emitted a single bead of sweat this summer.

But a second boy of ours gives perpetual visual evidence of having just stepped from a shower-bath. The stuff drops off his chin like a leaking faucet, and his earlobes seem always adorned by translucent pendants. The third boy sweats only on his nose, a phenomena that has attracted thoughtful sweat-gland experts from as far away as Lake Titicaca.

Anyway, quit asking that question. It ain't safe. Remember, Buster, the streets are still melting.

off between metal equipment, shiny, immaculately clean. "Be careful," He would say, "That is to be avoided."

Of course, I knew that much. If you did anything He didn't want you to, you'd get hurt. Gentle Miss Black, my Sunday school teacher, had told me that months before.

He showed us the way up and down steps, and across one narrow bridge in a room wholly taken up by the two enormous vats. Gingerly the women held their skirts close to them, so as not to touch the edges. As we walked over that bridge, between the vats and high above them, I reflected that this, surely, was the straight and narrow we had been taught to walk. With a strength that would have done credit to Mr. Heilbron, our Sunday School superintendent, I resolved firmly that day never to sidestep the straight and narrow.

HOW AWFUL it would have been to step aside. Then you'd have fallen into one of the vats below, boiling, steaming, smelling horrid, like the juice that came out of the garbage can when Mother cleaned it. With such a vision of hell soundly implanted in my mind, I could never want to be a bad girl.

At last we were back in the waiting room, and the women were thanking "God" for showing us the way. On the long streetcar ride back home, my mother had no trouble keeping me quiet. I could only sit and ponder on the mysteries of life and the hereafter.

"She is too quiet," the tall woman said, "so pale." Mother looked anxious.

"Maybe she's anemic and needs a tonic," someone else said.

"You must be right. It would do her good," said another.

"Take her," someone said, "to Dr. Brossard, and see whether he thinks she needs quinine and iron, or Scott's Emulsion."

All the women, with wrinkled brows, looked at my serious face. They did not know that God, dressed in a gray suit, was behind it.

I had seen Him, not in the burning bush, but at Anheuser-Busch.

Use tea as a basis for a summer punch. Mix a quart of strong cold tea with the juice of three lemons, a cup of crushed canned pineapple (including the juice). Add syrup made by boiling a cup of sugar with a half cup of water, and chill well. Serve in tall glasses with ice cubes and a maraschino cherry garnish.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

IN the August issue of the Atlantic Monthly there is an article by Archibald MacLeish, called "The Conquest of America," that I recommend highly.

Eleanor Roosevelt.

He says some things which many of us have been skirting around for a long time. We haven't said them as clearly and as simply as he has, but we have known that something rather like this should be said, even if we couldn't put it into words. I have felt for a long time that we were losing our positive leadership in the world because we didn't seem able to find things we could fight for.

I know the things I want to fight for, and they make me keep on working in spite of my years. In a small gathering of mixed ages the other night someone said to me that they were worried because the younger generation did not seem to be out fighting for anything. It isn't enough just to want to make a living. A good many Americans are doing that more or less successfully. I rather think our trouble is that we have lost faith in the direction in which we, as a country, are going and in our destiny.

WE DON'T KNOW where our democracy is trying to lead, nor even whether we have a philosophy of government. We don't seem to know whether there are any principles for which we would today pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

I think, as a matter of fact, what we need to do is to stop a while and reappraise our whole manner of life.

We have reached a point where we are responsible not just for protection and for economic help, but also for moral and spiritual leadership to a great many countries of the world.

What are we going to say to people who ask us what are the things we really stand for? Freedom of the individual? Of course, but then we have to examine carefully whether we are guarding that freedom at home. Guarding it from encroachment by government, by special interests or from any kind of coercion.

WE WANT TO SEE people the world over free from fear of want and aggression. How are we going about it? Have we made a study of the world situation and our place in that world? Have we told our leaders what we want and asked them what their plans are?

It is quite evident, in order to achieve these ends, there must be world planning for health, education, economic co-operation. Then wherever possible, we must eliminate barriers, which at present tend to divide nations from each other—racial, religious and cultural barriers.

THESE BARRIERS may gradually melt away before the determined attitude of the people of the world bent on understanding each other and working together to achieve some of the same ends for which the United States of America was founded so many years ago.

The things said in our Declaration of Independence for the struggling colonies of this continent are really what we want to say today for the world as a whole. We are the people to find words to express our aspirations and ways to start the machinery going to achieve our ends. We are held back by our fears, and Mr. MacLeish has pointed those out clearly.

I wonder if we can rise above them and begin to be a constructive world force again?

Tips for Teens: Problem Answers

WE have no long, gray beard, but let's see if we can find the answer to some of the problems in today's mail. One of them might be yours!

"Suppose there was a girl about 16 who had a crush on a fellow about 18 who had joined a branch of the service. She received no letters from him except one or two that he wrote in the early part of his absence. He's been gone four or five months. What do you suggest for this girl to do—stay home and wait for him (by this I mean keep from dating other boys) or should she go out with others?"

Answer—There's no reason in the world why she shouldn't have other friends and dates besides the boy who is in service, since she isn't engaged and hasn't agreed to "go steady." It would be silly—and useless—to give up other friends for a boy who doesn't even write to her.

"I am a 'teen-ager and I have quite a problem with a girl. We have been going steady for a year and all of a sudden she told me she didn't want to go steady any more. I like her so much there isn't anything I wouldn't do for her. I was deeply hurt, but she won't tell me why she won't date me any more. What should I do?"

Answer—Every romance and steady date just isn't destined to last. People change their minds, find they don't like each other as much as they thought they did or meet somebody who seems more fun and likes to do the same things they do. This girl is trying to let you know tactfully—without being blunt about it and hurting your feelings any more than can be helped—that she just isn't interested in dating you any more. It's hard to face, but it will help if you fill your time and mind with other interests and other friends. Make other plans for the evenings you used to see her. Keep busy with boy friends and probably some of them can arrange double dates to help you get acquainted with other girls.

Imaginations Run Riot

By Elsie Robinson

I LIKE that slang expression "worrywarts." It so aptly describes the condition most of us are in most of the time.

Come emergencies and we're heroic. Fires, floods, earthquakes, and we're brave as lions. But it's the little things that get us down. The little things that never happen.

We can fuss and fidget worse over some imaginary trifle than we would if the whole town burned down. We can believe that everyone is a liar, crook, racketeer and general bad man . . . simply by letting our imaginations run riot.

THERE IS no limit to the harm we can inflict upon ourselves and those around us, simply by letting our imaginations run loose. And we pretty up the process by calling it "worry."

Worry isn't a normal process. It's a disease. A wart is a kind of tumor on your skin. A worry-wart is a tumor on your mind.

It's not beautiful to worry. It's not a sign of a sensitive nature—as some of us fondly imagine. Nor is it a symptom of love. Indulge worry and it becomes a vicious habit.

Worry will demoralize the most secure home, the most coveted love, the stoutest business. It is more insidious than cancer or T.B. It will steal your reserves more surely than any defaulting cashier. Worry will undermine even your faith in yourself.

Anxiety is a natural and necessary thing at times. But constant worry is the worst thing that can happen to any life.

For worry is contagious. It's more virulent than any plague. It demoralizes the other fellow as well as yourself. It wrecks his confidence as well as your own. It works its vicious way into his life, destroying his hope and faith and ambition.

DON'T BE a worrywart! Don't be a worry-carrier. Worry-carriers should be isolated like typhoid carriers. They're far more dangerous.

Don't let the worry habit get you. Shake it off, as you'd clean off any other form of filth. For worry is the worst form of filth—it's a filth that infects the mind.

And don't—above all things—call your particular worry by a pretty name. Don't excuse your prying and peering, your nagging and suspicion by the name of love. It isn't love. It's plain cussedness, of the worst sort. And it will buy you only grief.

Pleated Dress

The accordion-pleated dress is seen for fall after an absence of many seasons. Both dancing and daytime versions are included. Chiffon is a favorite medium for the more formal frock with this all-over pleated accent but silk crepe and sheer wool are included for afternoon wear. Sometimes the bodice of an evening dress also is pleated.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a girl age 17. Everything I do is wrong as far as my father is concerned, and I simply can't make him trust me. Usually when I go out it is with a crowd of girls of with a mixed group. Sometimes we get home at one a.m. but it is seldom that late. When this happens my father always accuses me of having been out alone with a boy and this isn't so. When my girl friend comes to get me to go to a show Dad says I have to be home by 9:30 because I got in so late the night before. This makes me feel silly, like a little kid being punished. Sometimes he gets a silly idea for no good reason and then tells me I can't go out for a certain length of time. Then I am supposed to sit home day after day—and like it. He tells me to my face that he doesn't trust me. I think it's pretty low down for a father to act like this when he has no reason for it, and mine certainly hasn't. My father is always complaining he is getting old so he wants to take all my young fun away from me. If a person doesn't have fun when young there is one sure thing, he won't when he's old. Mother is different. She always remembers when she was young and she understands. What can I do about father's attitude? How can I make him trust me? Do you think one a.m. is too late for me to get in at my age? WONDERING.

Your father is perfectly justified in objecting to you coming in at one in the morning at your age. An occasional party that is extra-special may last this long, but should not be permitted too often. However, demanding that you be in at 9:30 is going to the other extreme for unless you are visiting with a friend on the block or going to a very close neighborhood movie you couldn't make it. If you have never done anything to cause your father to mistrust you then he is certainly being most unjust to you. On the other hand sometimes it is hard for fathers to realize their girls are growing up. They think of all the pitfalls there are for young people, all the "wrong ones" they could become acquainted with, and their fearfulness overcomes the realization they should have that girls do have to learn to take care of themselves, and careful upbringing and reasonable watchfullness is better than too strict rulings. Since your mother's attitude is more reasonable and sympathetic talk matters over with her. She should be able to intercede for you and bring your father around to a more lenient way of handling matters.

IN ANSWER TO "Curious": It seems to me your allowance for clothing is a very liberal one and if it is all your father feels he can afford then it is up to you to learn to handle it wisely. He is trying to teach you that you should learn to budget on a yearly basis, set aside and save for your more expensive items, such as coats and suits. This can be wonderful training for you. If you feel your ample allowance is not sufficient, then how about a job to earn more? That would be good training too.

IN ANSWER TO "M.K.M.": What a very foolish question. Your children are the ones to be considered first of all, and if the man you think you love and who claims to love you doer not care for them, does not like children, you'll rue the day if you marry him.

IN ANSWER TO "Mrs. L. S.": Remove the bulk of the candle grease by hand. Place a blotter over the spot, and apply a hot iron. Dye stains if any can be removed by sponging with a cleaning fluid.

IN ANSWER TO "Josie": If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I'll mail you both my "Showers for the Bride" and "Guide for the Bride."

'Everybody Does It'

By Angelo Patri

"CHILD, what have you done to your face? And those nails! They're awful. Run to the bathroom and get that stuff off before your father sees you."

"But mother—"

"I know. All the girls are doing it and you can't be the odd one. Go and clean up and we'll talk about it later. I'd hate to have anybody see you as you look now."

This is one of the most trying situations mothers have to face. Their daughters of teen age want to do what their companions do. And today it is the style to wear rouge and use lipstick and nail polish. The girls, being inexperienced, want to pile it on and the result hurts their mothers' eyes. "If you could only see how you look!"

THE GIRLS CAN'T. They are seeing the bright color, the stylish hairdo, the air of self-satisfaction which the well-groomed woman displays. And they covet it all. They see the movie star's makeup and hear her beauty praised. And this they covet, too. They see all their companions "dolled up" and they hate being otherwise.

Mothers see the bloom of youth destroyed, the girlish freshness marred. They see the artificial thing displacing the natural loveliness of the young girl. The mothers see too the approach of womanhood shadowing the child they long to mother yet a little longer.

THERE IS but one thing to do and that is let the girl have her way under the guidance of her elders. With the use of a little tact, the hairdo need not be too overdone, the rouge can be put on lightly, the lipstick used faintly and the nail polish subdued. Girls are usually willing to compromise a bit on these matters and yield something to their mothers' judgment.

To be different from the others is a great source of distress to children, boys and girls alike. Parents can only comfort themselves with the knowledge that "This too, will pass." And it will pass.

By yielding on the unimportant matters (unimportant because they do not violate principles of behavior) parents are in a better position to stand firmly on matters of principle.

If what "everybody is doing," is not a violation of sound principles, we can go along with the children at least far enough to satisfy their feeling of being in the style.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A LETTER says: "I recently gave a bridal shower for a friend. About a week before the wedding it was called off for good. Now her problem is how to return the gifts which, in each case, were given by several friends together. She wonders what to do."

The typical shower presents are usually trifles and therefore not returned. At the same time, one gift from several does rather suggest items of more importance and should therefore be returned to one of the givers.

DEAR MRS. POST: Why is it considered very impolite to congratulate the bride and not the groom?

Answer: As expressed "in the vernacular," it is never a discourtesy to congratulate a man for having won a lovely bride, but it is considered very discourteous to congratulate a woman on having "caught" a husband.

Home-Town Boy in Top Muny Opera Role

Jon Crain, Who Grew Up Here as John Crowe, Tells of His Career in Music

By Clarissa Start

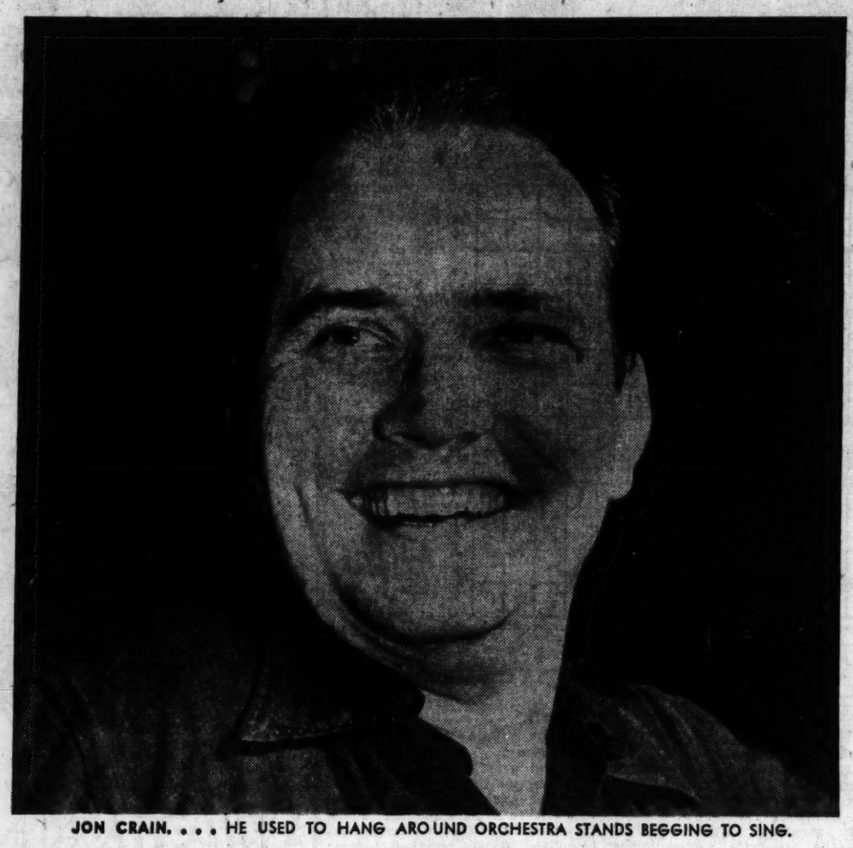

THE best way for a singer to scale the heights is to open his mouth and start singing for anyone who happens to be around. This technique, at least, is what made Jon Crain what he is today, which at the moment happens to be the romantic singing lead in "The Red Mill" at the Municipal Opera.

A home town boy, Jon used to hang around orchestra stands, bothering the bandleaders until they'd let him sing to shut him up, as it were. At school, at church he sang at every opportunity until a business man who belonged to the church decided that anyone with that much vocal enthusiasm deserved some financial encouragement and sent him to New York to study. Through an Army career and a couple of post-war years, Jon proceeded in the same way, finding someone who wanted a singer and then singing. And when he decided to leave the popular field for opera, he went around to several opera companies and in short order was signed up for five roles.

"The way I seemed to get all my breaks was by going after them," Jon sums it up. "No one ever handed them to me."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Crowe, 66 Greendale, Bel-Nor, Normandy, Jon started life as John Crowe, but changed his name on the advice of an agent who "thought it was too obvious, for obvious reasons." His entire family is musical; his mother was a church organist and directed the choir and all the other members of the family—Carolyn, now Mrs. Richard White, Betty Ann, Frances, and Richard sang. The family lived in Ferguson at that time and Jon—or John—did most of his singing at St. John's and St. James's church and at Ferguson High School. His first professional training came at the Fanchon and Marco school for youngsters.

"I studied singing and tap dancing, although I haven't done much with the tap dancing," says Jon, who is built more along Melchior than Bolger lines. "It was about the time Nino Martini came out in a picture, 'The World Is Mine,' and that song was one of my big numbers. Also 'Song of Songs' and some of the other light opera tenor songs.

JON CRAIN, . . . HE USED TO HANG AROUND ORCHESTRA STANDS BEGGING TO SING.

"I sang with bands, too. I'd go to the hotels where they were playing and stand around pestering them until they'd give me a spot. Then around 1938 and '39, I sang at the Jefferson Hotel with Tony DiPardo. As I remember I did such numbers as 'My Reverie' and 'My Own.'"

With all of this plus some singing at luncheons and on radio programs, Jon was getting plenty of experience but he still wanted to go East to study.

"My folks weren't able to send me to school but a local business man, W. P. Rowan of Elder Manufacturing Co., attended the same church I did and he and his wife happened to hear me sing. They became interested in me and paid my way to New York. Once there, I was able to get scholarships but without their initial push I never would have gotten started."

JON spent three years at Oscar Seagle's Music Camp in the Adirondacks, returning home after his first year to give a concert. His accompanist was another St. Louisan attending the camp, Mrs. Estle Rucker, mother of Mrs. Carleton Hadley.

In 1942, two big things happened to Jon: He was married and then drafted. He came home for the latter event, was sent to Jefferson Barracks, and into infantry training—"which was rough"—but was soon given a more appropriate job in entertainment units, first on bond drives, then at redistribution centers, then convalescent hospitals until his release in 1946. Not at all dissatisfied with his Army assignments, he still admits it was a setback to his operatic career because, "If you're trying for something arty, you don't get it in the Army; you have to give them what they like."

After his Army release, Jon was in New York and noted that Xavier Cugat's orchestra was playing at a theater there, and decided to ask for a job. His wife had sung in a trio with Cugat at one time and knew his secretary so he was able to get past the stage door.

"I sang for Cugat in Spanish," he recalls, "and when I had finished he came up to me and started speaking in Spanish. 'I don't speak Spanish,' I explained. He was quite surprised. 'But your singing Spanish is perfect,' he said. 'Oh that,' I told him. 'I learned it from an Italian boy in Texas.'"

AS a Latin from St. Louis, Jon got the job and toured with Cugat for a year, until he had "had about enough Spanish music for a while."

"However, it was good experience," he philosophizes. "Everything you do in this business is experience and you gain something from it."

He felt it was time, however, that his singing took a more serious turn, so he began making the rounds, auditioning for opera company managers, until he was signed by the Charles L. Wagner Opera Co. He appeared in St. Louis last spring in "Barber of Seville" and will be here Nov. 25 in "Cavalleria." To date he's sung eight roles, some of them over 50 times, with Wagner and also with the Cincinnati, Miami and Rochester opera companies.

In "The Red Mill," Jon feels he's fulfilling a lifetime ambition to sing for the home folks at the Muny Opera.

"I've always wanted to sing here," he says. "Not only because it's at home but because they have such a wonderful system and a wonderfully congenial group. There's none of this bickering and fighting that I've seen in too many places.

"I'd like to go to the top of an operatic career, and also I've found when you sing the finer things it keeps you in condition to do the lighter ones," Jon says. "But shows such as this one are a wonderful tonic. Then, too, they give you the opportunity to be something of an actor because the movements aren't as staid as in opera. In opera everything is timed. A kiss may last three beats but at the end of those three beats you have to come out of it and sing a B-flat."

For the past two years, Crain's operatic career has kept him away from his wife, Rose, and sons, John David, 6, and Michael, 3, but this year they're solving that problem. His wife also has a role in "Cavalleria" and will be in tour with him, taking up her professional life where she left off in '42.

"She was a lovely singer until I married her," Jon says admiringly. "But I guess you might say I cut short her career."

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

A BAD break in one suit—even trumps — can often be overcome if other suits break well. Consider this deal:

South, dealer
Both sides vulnerable

	♠ 9652 ♥ — ♦ AK954 ♣ A962
♠ J873 ♥ 6 ♦ J82 ♣ K8753	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ K10 ♥ K109754 ♦ Q106 ♣ 104
	♠ AQ4 ♥ AQJ832 ♦ 73 ♣ QJ

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♥	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass
4♥	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

North was in something of a quandary when South made his jump rebid in hearts. (Incidentally, that action was questionable.) A good player shies away from no-trump when void of partner's suit, but North preferred to bid three no-trump rather than go past that level in diamonds or clubs. Many experts, impressed by the three honor-tricks in the responding hand, would prefer to bid four clubs, but that action might easily lead to trouble.

West opened his lowest spade. South captured East's king and led the ace and queen of trumps. In view of East's double, South had not expected a good break in trumps, but it was still a shock when East turned up with six to the king!

East, after taking the heart queen with the king, returned the spade ten. South won and led the club queen. West properly refused to cover, and South now led three rounds of diamonds, ruffing the third round with a low trump. The club jack was then led to the ace another diamond was returned.

South had already cashed in eight tricks, and now, regardless of East's play, he was sure to make the jack and eight of trumps. Thus the doubled contract was fulfilled, despite the extraordinary break of the trump suit.

Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

Unusual Place Names.

QUESTION: Will you please explain to my class whether the "News" in Newport News, Va., is good or bad?—H. T. T.

Answer: In 1621 a settlement of Irish colonists were planted there by Daniel Gookin English colonial pioneer in America. The site was chosen by Capt Christopher Newport, and Sir William Newce. In their honor the place was named Newport Newce.

For an unknown reason, but probably because scarcely anyone was well versed in spelling in colonial days, Newce in time grew into News. And so it is that the Virginia city is the only place in the country that has a name like a newspaper—Newport News. The papers there are the morning Newport News Press, and the evening Newport News Times-Herald. (What, no Newport News News?)

Q. How did Massachusetts get its name?—W. T.

A. From "Some Facts About Massachusetts," published by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; "The state takes its name from the Massachusetts tribe of Indians, who lived in the Great Blue Hill region, south of Boston. The Indian term supposedly means 'at or about the Great Hill.'

"There are, however, a number of interpretations of the exact meaning of the word. The Jesuit missionary, Father Rasles, thought it came from the word Messatossec, 'Great-Hills-Mouth.' The Rev. John Cotton used another variation: mos and wetuset, meaning 'Indian arrow-head,' descriptive of the Indians' hill home. Another explanation is that the word comes from massa meaning 'great,' and wachusett, 'mountain-place'."

Norfolk: Can you tell us the origin of the name Kentucky?—A. L.

A. From the Kentucky Department of Library and Archives:

"The exact origin of the name of Kentucky has not been definitely established, as there have been so many different opinions on the matter.

"One source contends that the name is derived from the Iroquois word, Kentake, meaning 'prairie or meadowland.' However, another authority does say that the name Kentucky comes from the Wyandot (Iroquoian) word Ken-tah-teh, signifying 'tomorrow' or 'land of tomorrow'."

Secrets of Charm

'Poised, Personable, Popular'

By John Robert Powers

IF YOU ARE POISED, PERSONABLE AND POPULAR YOU ARE, IN TRUTH, A TRIPLE-THREAT GIRL.

"POISED, — Personable — and Popular."

You can bet your best lipstick that every model works at these qualities every day! She knows they're basic elements in any successful business or social life. They are worth spending all the time, thought and energy it takes to cultivate these qualities in their highest degree.

Now these special qualities are not the private property of the professional beauties. They're the right of every girl. When any one of these adjectives is used by a friend to describe you, you can thrill with pleasure and glow with pride. You are a triple-threat girl, if you can measure up to all three!

But even so, you cannot sit back and rest on your laurels! You have to stake out, renew and expand your claim to being poised, personable and popular every day! Any day that you do not—you're slipping! It's the old story of you can't stand still—you must be going ahead or you'll discover that you're slipping back.

Who wants to stand still anyway? It's too much like withering on the vine. All the fun is in continuous growth. It's the spark of life!

How's your personality growing? An occasional check of its prowess is as telling as the accumulation of pencil marks on the kitchen door that record a child's stature from birthday to birthday. Ask yourself some searching questions once in a while. The harder they are to answer, the better you are doing.

Try some like these: Is it because I'm so modest that I'm so shy with strange people? Do I fidget with my clothes because I like them so much I can't leave them alone? Why aren't my friends as nice as I am? Why do other women need to spend so much more time on their personal grooming than I do? What am I hiding behind my mask of make-up? What is wrong with these questions?

Scrutinize, analyze — and then act on the discoveries you make about yourself! Your personality will be the winner!

Marshmallow Fluff

Ingredients: One cup very hot double-strength coffee, 24 fresh marshmallows (quartered), one cup heavy cream (whipped), few grains salt, lady fingers.

Method: Pour the very hot coffee over the quartered marshmallows and stir to dissolve the marshmallows. Beating with a rotary beater will help dissolve the marshmallows, or the mixture may be stirred or beaten over hot water.) Cool. Fold in whipped cream and salt. Spoon into sherbet glasses. Decorate with lady fingers. Chill until set; there will be a layer of coffee jelly at the bottom and a layer of marshmallow fluff at the top. Makes six servings.

Note: Quarter marshmallows with a kitchen scissors or knife dipped in cold water.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"TO PLAY ONE'S CARDS WELL"

TO play one's cards well these days is to make the most of one's opportunities; to use to the utmost the resources with which one starts out.

It is no accident that this metaphor of the card table is traced back in literature to the middle of the eighteenth century. Those were the days when cards were so preponderantly the recreation of the drawing room that three London ladies made social history in protesting against the custom.

These ladies were Mmes. Montague, Vesey and Ord, who tried to substitute the more edifying pastime of good conversation for cards. It was in consequence of the parties they gave, at which there was to be no card playing, that they brought upon their group the name "Blue Stockingers," discussed in this column some years ago.

It is in Foote's "Englishman in Paris," published in 1756, that the following dialogue is found with the first printed record of the phrase "to play one's cards well."

"If Lucinda plays her cards well, we have not much to fear from that Quarter."

The eighteenth century was also a time noted for matchmaking mothers and the high-society "marriage of convenience!"

For School Wardrobes

Among the "separates" that girls like to include in their school wardrobes are matching skirts and weskits of tweed to be allied with bright blouses. There is one style of blouse which is made of wool jersey and has long sleeves and high, turtle neckline. Cotton blouses in boldly shaded pique or broadcloth also are popular for this type of costume.

Economical Menus

By Meta Given

THERE are so many ways to enjoy large, luscious, garden-ripe tomatoes. Only the lack of your and my imagination can limit a family's interest in eating this wonderful vegetable. Peeled, chilly tomatoes cut in wedges make a beautiful, stimulating breakfast fruit. If your family is surprised and bound to certain meal routines, then just change their position in the menus and serve them thickly sliced around the hot broiled sausage, bacon, ham or eggs either raw or very lightly broiled.

Or run them through the food mill and serve them as a thick puree with a dash of celery salt or a lemon wedge with plain salt instead of orange or grapefruit juice. Diced meaty tomatoes make appealing cocktails and thick big sliced are perfect bases on which to heap all kinds of fish cocktails and various salad mixtures made of cheese, chicken, meat, fish and nuts. And that eye-appealing way to cut handsome tomatoes into uniform wedges but leave them intact at the base will perhaps never become passe. When these wedges are slightly spread apart, and neatly filled with flavorful salad mixtures that are substantial in content, one can provide no more welcome hot weather main dish. Whole tomatoes with appropriate stuffings are also delicious baked. Preparation for stuffing tomatoes to be baked calls for a different technique and different tools as the following recipe indicates:

Macaroni 'n Cheese Stuffed Tomatoes.

Four large solid tomatoes (two pounds), two slices bacon, four ounces macaroni (one-half package), one and one-half quarts boiling water, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup grated sharp cheese (one-fourth pound).

Wash tomatoes and remove a thin slice from stem end. Scoop out part of the tomato leaving wall of tomato cup at least one-fourth inch thick. This can be easily done with a grapefruit knife or a spoon. Chop scooped out part of tomatoes and top slices. Saute bacon until crisp. Meanwhile break macaroni into one and one-half inch lengths. Add salt to rapidly boiling water in a large saucepan and drop in macaroni. Cook rapidly for about 20 minutes or until tender. Turn into colander to drain. Melt butter in skillet, blend in flour and add milk gradually, stirring until sauce is smooth and thick. Add salt and grated cheese, and stir until cheese melts. Turn macaroni and part of crumbled bacon into cheese sauce and mix. Place tomatoes in shallow greased baking dish. Spoon chopped tomato pulp which has been seasoned with salt and pepper around base of tomatoes. Fill tomatoes with macaroni and cheese mixture, sprinkle remainder of crumbled bacon over top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Farenheit) 20 to 25 minutes or until tomatoes are soft but not mushy. Four servings.

Low-Cost Menus.

WEDNESDAY.

BREAKFAST: Fresh sliced peaches on ready to eat cereal with sugar and half and half, hot buttered cinnamon toast.

LUNCHEON: Macaroni and cheese stuffed tomatoes, lettuce salad with French dressing, green grapes.

Unusual Lamps

Unusual designs in lamps are appearing in the stores. Among these is a novel achievement of Heifetz design consisting of a tubular brass stand on an oak base. The tube is irregular to give the lamp a very modern appearance. Besides the natural oak vase, some of the lamps have the base of silver or of red birch. The shade of this lamp is cylindrical shape and is made of plastilume in a variety of shades such as yellow, turquoise, red, chartreuse and rose as well as light amber or white.

Parted Skirt

The dress with a skirt that is frequently parted, most often by a divided overskirt but also by accordion-pleated godets appears in wool, crepe and silk taffeta, and for daytime as well as for evening. Bruno is one designer using such ideas extensively. In one divided overskirt dress the division reveals miniature slash pockets on the slim underskirt, and is marked even more in some dresses by a diamond-shaped insert molding the midriff.

If You're Going Away for the Week End

The National Safety Council has these safe and sane do's and don'ts for you:

Stop milk, newspapers, and other deliveries. Ask a neighbor to keep advertising circulars off your porch.

Notify post office to hold mail, or arrange for delivery to a neighbor.

Lock all windows and doors. Be sure to take in all wash from the line. [Even if you used La France and want all the neighborhood to see how white wash can be!]

If You're Staying Home

Possibly you expect to have guests visiting you for the week end . . . or have invited friends for lunch or dinner. If so, that means you'll want your table to look its best.

You'll find Satina a big help when you're ironing starched table linen . . . or anything else that's starched. Just dissolve one little Satina tablet in your starch—and your iron will simply glide along.

Today's Patterns

PATTERN 4887 SIZES 34—50

Pattern 4887 comes in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50. Size 36 takes 4¼ yards 35-inch.

554

Send 20 cents in coins for this pattern to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Needlecraft Department, P.O. Box 136, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N.Y. Print pattern number, name, address, zone.

Here's good news! Send 15 cents more for your fascinating Laura Wheeler Needlecraft Book—today! One hundred and four illustrations of your favorite needle-hobbies—the choicest designs and the most concise pattern available. Beginner easy designs, and ideas worthy of an expert's attention. A free needlework pattern printed in the book.

Portable Grill

Devotees of picnics who like to have their food sizzling hot will enjoy a portable charcoal grill and broiler. When not in use it may be taken apart and packed into a small space. An aluminum cover adds to its attractiveness.

When making baked custard use a slow (325 degree Fahrenheit) oven and have the water in the pan in which the custard cups are set come to about the level of the custard. Individual custards prepared this way take as long as one hour to bake.

Plaid Raincoats

Raincoats with gay linings will make a dull day in the fall look cheerful. The use of plaid with solid colors is emphasized in the showings of these new coats in the St. Louis stores. Cuffs and hood facing of the plaid illustrate the trend. Most of the coats are cut with full skirt sections and have detachable belts to be worn as the owner wishes. Umbrellas that carry out the same plaid pattern are available.

News on KSD

6, 6:45, 7:45, 8:30, 11, 12 noon, 12:30, 5, 5:30, 6, 10, 10:30, 11, 11:30 p.m., 12 midnight.

Richard Harkness at 10:15 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Solves Space Problem.

Plenty of hangers solve the problem of crowded space in a college girl's closet. The skirt hangers which are arranged on racks and make it possible to hang many skirts in the space usually provided for one suit or dress prove especially desirable. There also are many different styles of combination hangers and storage boxes available in the notions departments.

When selecting paint for a room that gets southern light, keep in mind that cool blue is an excellent color to select. Yellow is marvelous for warming up a cool room.

FM

Frequency modulation programs are broadcast in St. Louis as follows: KSD-FM, 93.7 mcs., 3:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.; KXOK-FM, 94.7 mcs., 6:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; WEW-FM, 95.1 mcs., 11:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; WIL-FM, 97.3 mcs., 1:15 p.m. to 4:45 p.m.; KWK-FM, 99.1 mcs., 3:00 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.; KXLW-FM, 101.1 mcs., 6:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.; WTMV-FM, 102.3 mcs., 4:00 to 10:00 p.m.; KFUO-FM, 104.1 mcs., 7:00 a.m. to midnight.

KSD Weather Reports
